BRITISH FEAR DIVERGENCE WITH AMERICA ON DEBT

Deny Mellon Assertion That War Payments to Empire Exceed Amount Due America

Washington, takes up the specific position of Great Britain on the war debts as mentioned by Secretary Mellon in a letter to Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton University, in reply to a statement by Dr. Hibben and 116 members of the Princeton faculty. This latter statement indorsed the open letter of the faculty of political science of Columbia University recommending reconsideration and revision of the debts settlement made with the former Allies of the United States.

(1.) That Secretary Mellon was inaccurate, so far as Great Britain is concerned, in stating that "all our principal debtors are already receiving from Germany more than enough to pay their debts to the United States."

(2.) That Mr. Mellon was inaccurate in his summary of the relation of payments already made by Great Britain to the United States and her receipts on war debts and inter-Allied loans, and in his statement that in the future Great Britain will receive more from her debtors than she will pay to the United States "so that her American payments will not constitute a drain upon her own economic resources."

(3.) That the figures mentioned by Mr. Mellon appear to relate to the total receipts of the British Empire from the Dawes annuities without taking into consideration that these receipts include payments in respect to the costs of the German occupation as well as in respect of the Belgian war debt and reparation.

EMPIRE GETS PART

(4.) That Secretary Mellon also appears not to have taken into consideration that the British Empire reparation receipts have to be distributed between Great Britain and other parts of the empire, the share of Great Britain having been agreed at 48.85 per cent of the total.

(5.) That a "more important error is contained" in the figures given by Secretary Mellon of the receipts of Great Britain from France." These appear to include the sums which were due by the Bank of France to the Bank of England in repayment of an advance made during the war. This loan was a private transaction and is not an intergovernmental debt. The payments are made to the Bank of England and not one penny thereof accrues to the British Treasury or the British government."

(6.) That Secretary Mellon conveyed an erroneous implication in stating that the United States agreed to furnish the Allies dollars with which all their purchases in the United States should be consummated, but that the United States herself paid cash for the purchase of supplies and services from France and the British Empire.

"All the dollar payments made by the United States for their sterling requirements in Great Britain—which though considerable were of course smaller in amount than the war loans to the United Kingdom—were taken into account in fixing the total amount of the war loans advanced to Great Britain and were applied directly to the purchase of supplies in America or to the repayment of the debt," the note says.

PAYMENTS TRACED

Tracing the year-by-year payments which Great Britain will receive from the Dawes payments and the payments which she will make to the United States, the note says that only after September 1, 1932, will the sum of Great Britain in the Dawes payments, together with the payments for inter-Allied war debts, be sufficient to cover the current payments due to the United States. This is on the assumption that the French war debt is ratified and neglecting cost deficits in British receipts, as compared with payments.

"Whether the payments from the Dawes annuities included in the above calculations will, in fact, be received," the note continues, "depends, of course, upon whether it is found impossible to transfer the full amounts provided for by the Dawes plan.

"But even if the full Dawes payments continue to be received for sixty years from now onwards, the present value of the receipts of Great Britain from reparations and inter-Allied war debts together would be less than that of the payments she is obligated to make to the United States government on account of the British war debt, assuming interest at four per cent to be added to payments and receipts in the past and future payments and receipts to be discounted at the same rate.

POLICY NOT FULFILLED

"It is quite true that His Majesty's government have frequently declared that their policy is to recover such a sum, in respect of the war debts to the Allies as, with the reparations receipts of Great Britain, will suffice to cover the annual payments which they have to make to the United States, but this situation has not been reached and up to the present the British taxpayer has had to find the greater part of the payments to the United States from his own resources, even after applying all receipts from reparations and inter-Allied debts to this purpose, and using none of these receipts as a set-off against the interest which has to be paid on the loans raised in Great Britain out of which advances were made to the Allies."

Enumerating the various receipts of Great Britain which must be applied to the debt to the United States, and adding that the British taxpayer has to meet very large arrears of debts incurred by the British treasury in the United States before the United States entered the war—from April 1919, $680,000,000—the note said:

"These facts and figures appear to His Majesty's government sufficient to controvert the statement put forward by Mr. Mellon that the payments made to the United States government in respect of the war debt will not constitute a drain on British economic resources, but much more might be said. It must be remembered that in addition to paying their own debts to the United States the British people are sustaining the full charge for the advance made by His Majesty's government to the Allied governments to enable them to finance the purchase of necessary commodities during the war, not only in Great Britain but also in neutral countries."

Stating that the United States government is recovering from Germany a share of the Dawes annuities estimated to cover its reparation claims in full, and at the same time obtains from Great Britain repayment, with interest at 3 per cent of the full amount of war loans it advanced to Great Britain, the note adds:

"Great Britain will retain for herself nothing of any payments she receives in respect either of reparations or inter-Allied war debts, but will apply all her receipts toward part payment of her liabilities to the United States. Any balance that remains she will pay out of her own resources, and in any case she will have to support the entire burden of her war losers and of the war loans she herself made to her Allies."

PRESS OF LONDON LAUDS CHURCHILL REPLY

LONDON, May 4. (AP)—Chancellor of the Exchequer Churchill's reply to Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the United States Treasury, has been received with a chorus of approval by the London morning papers, the Liberal papers indorsing it as heartily as the Conservative.

One of the chief grounds for resentment here at Mr. Mellon's letter to Prof. Hibben was that it was regarded as gravely prejudicing Great Britain's relations with the European nations, as indicated by the readiness with which a section of the continental press seized on Mr. Mellon's statements as a text to attack Great Britain.

The London papers now express the hope that "this mischief" has been countered by Mr. Churchill's reply. The Liberal News, referring to this, says: "Mr. Churchill's rebuttal of this monstrous legend of a perfidious Albion could hardly have been given more trenchantly, or at the same time more courteously."

DEBT DISPUTE ONLY DOMESTIC

the statement that "Great Britain will receive this year from her debtors $2,000,000 more than she pays us," Mr. Mellon said it was not intended as a communication, direct or indirect, to the British government and that government was referred to only as an incident to the general thesis therein set forth.

The Treasury Secretary declared it should be noted that the figures in the British note "are apparently used in a technical accounting sense, so that, for instance, the term 'allied war debts' excludes debts for war stocks," and added:

"Similarly, payments received from Germany are used in the most strictly limited sense and do not include such items as receipts on account of Army of Occupation.

"While not admitting it, the British government's note does not deny that the sums specified in my letter were actually paid by the people of France, Germany and Italy, but says in substance that some of the sums paid accrued to the benefit of the bank of England, others to the dominions, and apparently from our reading of their figures such items as payment for war stocks are not considered by them as accruing to the benefit of the exchequer on account of war debts.

DIFFERENT VIEWS

"This is the real cause of the apparent disagreement as to facts. There is no basis of comparison when, for instance, payments on account of war debts, as used by the American Treasury, include payments on account of war stocks sold, but such an item is not included by the British under the head of war-debt payments.

"Again, there is bound to be disagreement when the American Treasury Department in discussing payments received from Germany, includes all payments, while the British government in answer confines itself to payments strictly on account of reparations and Belgian war debt. Under such circumstances there is not a disagreement as to fact; there is simply a failure to join issue.

"But even these differences of interpretation are material only in respect of the period prior to September 1, 1928. The British government admits that, beginning on that date, assuming that the French agreement is ratified, it will receive from its own debtors and from Germany sums 'sufficient to cover the current payments due to the United States government.' This, it should be noted, is the principal point made in the letter of the Secretary of Treasury to President Hibben and the accuracy of this point is now officially confirmed by the British government."

SOLDIER ARRESTED AS "PARTY BURGLAR"

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4. (AP)—Private Wade H. Maywood of Company E, Sixth Engineers, stationed at Fort Winfield Scott, was arrested here tonight as the "society party burglar," said to have looted local homes of $25,000 worth of jewelry in recent months. Police said Maywood has confessed.

"TIMES" FUND FOR RELIEF OF FLOOD VICTIMS

The Times, which started the Los Angeles fund for the relief of the Mississippi Valley flood victims with a contribution of $1000, will receive, acknowledge by publication and forward to the Red Cross any contributions sent to this paper. Checks should be made payable to The Times Relief Fund and mailed to The Times, Los Angeles, Cal.

The flood situation grows daily more appalling. The number of refugees is now estimated at 300,000 with a death list and property loss which cannot yet even be approximated. The need is desperate and The Times urges all who are able to contribute any amount to do so quickly and as generously as possible.

If preferred, contributions may be sent direct to the local Red Cross, Transportation Building, Los Angeles.

NEW GAPS CUT BY TORRENTS

is only faintly outlined by the tops of the levees with water stretching away to the right and the left. The embankments are broken at nearly a dozen places and swift currents still are passing through even the oldest of the breaks.

This vast funnel of water bearing down on the Old River, the Red and the Atchafalaya has created a new battle front for those fighting the floods, a front of water and mud along a winding course of eighty miles. On the outcome of this battle depends the safety of the rich sugar cane section in South-Central Louisiana.

EAST LEVEE HOLDS

If the engineers can hold the line on that front, the flood water will be taken up by the Mississippi and cause a corresponding increase of pressure on the levees of the main stream from Angola south to New Orleans as the flood crest moves on to the sea.

Reports made today to former Gov. John M. Parker, civilian flood dictator for Louisiana, said no weakness had developed on the east levee between Baton Rouge and New Orleans. Some seepage was observed at Conrad's Point, south of Baton Rouge, but this was successfully blanketed.

Levees on the west bank also were reported holding in good shape as the work went forward in their strengthening and raising against the record flood stages about which the Weather Bureau has issued repeated warnings, only to renew them today.

Improvement in the defenses of New Orleans was continued today as low points here and there around the Crescent Bend were topped and additional thousands of sandbags were filled for emergency use. These are placed at strategic points and workmen are held in readiness to throw them into position. After falling to 20.4 feet the river remained stationary, although the blasting of the batture in front of the Caernarvon levee to the south of New Orleans was completed, greatly accelerating the flood of water through the artificial crevasse, which now is opened to a width of nearly 2000 feet.

REFUGEES IN LOUISIANA MAY TOTAL 100,000

MEMPHIS (Tenn.) May 4. (AP)—With 25,000 homeless Louisianians already in concentration camps, and the expectation that today's breaks in the Mississippi levee will raise the figure to between 40,000 and 50,000, the American Red Cross turned anxious eyes to the stretch of river between Baton Rouge and New Orleans.

Levee breaks between Baton Rouge and New Orleans will increase the number of refugees in Louisiana by 100,000 persons, Henry M. Baker, national director of disaster relief estimated. The enormous relief forces in Louisiana steadily increased with the arrival on the scene of more men and boats. The erratic nature of the flood emergencies daily complicates the problems of headquarters' office.

While most of Arkansas sections reported waters receding steadily promising more easiness in the situation in that sector, imperative calls for men, boats and supplies came from Ashley county where waters were reported rising.

A heavy rain in sections of the Mississippi delta caused a rise of three inches overnight in Belzoni, Miss., after the flood began receding. Boats continually reported discovery of additional marooned people in the older flooded sections and many of these refused to be evacuated after receiving supplies, preferring to remain with their property until the waters recede.

Vicksburg became the largest refugee center in the entire flood area today when the Red Cross announced there were about 18,000 in the camps of that city.

New camps were established today in Winnsboro and Columbia, La., in preparation for refugees fleeing from new breaks in the Mississippi levees.

Gang Breeder of Bad Boy, Social Workers Told

OAKLAND, May 4. (AP)—J. C. Henderson, head of Los Angeles' playgrounds and community centers, addressed the California Conference of Social Work here today on juvenile delinquency.

"The gang is the most potent cause of delinquency," Henderson declared. "Win over the gang leader, then the gang follows. Selection of playground directors is important. You cannot win boys with a "sissy" type man. They demand a 'regular guy.'"

Minor crimes are indulged in by boys and girls merely because they have no other means of recreation, Henderson said.

Ochs Attributes Journal Success to Clean News

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, declared tonight he believes his efforts in journalism "have been worth while," if he has helped in some measure to destroy the superstition that newspapers must be sensational, vulgar and inane to be successful.

Mr. Ochs was one of four recipients of gold medals for notable public service presented by the National Institute of Social Services at its annual dinner tonight. He was introduced by Frank B. Noyes, publisher of the Washington Star and president of the Associated Press, as "one who typifies the best in American journalism," and who has "erected a monument to himself and the self-respecting press of this country."

SILLS MOBBED BY ADMIRERS

Kipling's Aphorism of "Sisters Under the Skin" Confirmed at Chicago Cinema Ball

CHICAGO, May 4. (Exclusive)—When Kipling indited something about the colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady he wrote a verity, as Milton Sills, player of the screen, will testify. For two sets of flappers, in each case several hundred strong, the first made of more common clay and the second of society girls, separately and in quick succession almost mobbed the actor tonight in their efforts to show their enthusiasm and admiration as he went to attend the first annual ball of the Motion-Picture Theater Owner's Association at the new Stevens Hotel.

In the first encounter with the spirit of the Amazons Mr. Sills was in a crush of girls who tried to pet him and kiss him and do all manner of foolish things in the main lobby of the hotel, and he had to be rescued from their arms by two house detectives, who fought the young women off in order to carry the actor into the ballroom upstairs.

And when they set him down safely in the ballroom there was another rush of girls, this time debutantes and subdebs and motion-picture actresses and the famous mob scene of the lobby was virtually repeated.

MOBBED BY ELITE

This time the girls crowded round and fought for dances with the actor, so that he finally had to make Jack Miller, president of the Theater Owners' Association, the arbiter in the matter. He delegated Mr. Miller to pick his dances for him and took them as they came.

In addition to Mr. Sills a number of other cinema players were at the ball, among them Virginia Valli, Eleanor Boardman, Jetta Goudal, Victor McLaglen, George O'Brien, Billy Dooley and Francis Lee.

PRESERVED "PEACHES"

"Peaches" Browning, her face swathed in bandages, bowed from the platform in response to applause, and made known that she was not allowed to talk because she had just "had her face lifted."

A new Hollywood scandal was averted shortly after the arrival of the Hollywood contingent. Eleanor Boardman and King Vidor were given separate quarters at the hotel until officials were informed that they were married. Rumors that the actress and her husband were living apart were squelched when Eleanor and her luggage were transferred into Vidor's quarters.

Johnson Against Giving Judgeship to Southlands

WASHINGTON, May 4. (Exclusive) The Department of Justice has received a protest from Senator Hiram Johnson against the appointment of any attorney from Southern California to the new Federal judgeship yet to be filled at San Francisco. The Senator maintains that this office should be conferred upon a resident of the district in which the judge will preside; he has indorsed Judge Grimm.

The President has made no selection for this judgeship, still awaiting final word from Senator Shortridge. It is the understanding in Washington that Ray Benjamin has declined this appointment and that Senator Shortridge now is considering the availability of H. C. Wyckoff of Watsonville.

Students' Plans to Greet Prince Foiled by Police

ADELAIDE (Australia) May 4. (AP) Although police precautions frustrated plans for a big demonstration by the students after the Duke of York received the degree of doctor of laws of Adelaide University today, sixty students managed to get to the royal car as the Duke was leaving. They clung to the running boards and other parts of the car for 100 yards, giving the distinguished visitor a noisy ovation.

The Duke stood laughing and joking amid the struggling mass clinging to the car until they were shaken off.

FLOOD-RELIEF FUND CL

With more civic, service and social organizations daily entering the drive to increase the city's contributions toward the $200,000 given the flood-swept South, the Los Angeles relief fund yesterday neared to the $100,000 mark, according to the tabulation announced by the American Red Cross. This figure included the Los Angeles Times fund of $60,847, as published yesterday morning. The Times fund at 3 p.m. yesterday had mounted to $72,033, an increase of $11,185.

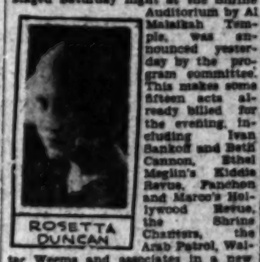
Two telegrams were received by Chairman D. C. MacWatters of the local chapter direct from Henry M. Baker, director of the Red Cross at Memphis. One of them expressed hope that citizens of the city would not fail in this national emergency to subscribe the entire quota, and more if necessary. It said:

"Sincerely trust that Los Angeles will double its quota. As I dictate this telegram, the Red Cross is feeding 165,000 refugees in concentration camps extending over territory 1000 miles long and by tomorrow we expect to be feeding 175,000 sufferers because of today's additional breaks in levees. The period of anxiety will not be over until the crest of the flood reaches New Orleans and the Gulf, approximately two weeks from today. The tremendous problem ahead leads me to urge that Los Angeles double its efforts to raise as much money as possible for flood sufferers."

100 PER CENTERS

Tenants of the Dicksboro Apartments, 5918 Beverly Boulevard, went "over the top" in a voluntarily arranged quota for the Mississippi victims by raising $65. Each tenant contributed. The tenants suggested that every other apartment-house in Los Angeles follow the example.

Addition of the Duncan sisters, Topsy and Eva, to the benefit to be staged Saturday night at the Shrine Auditorium by Al Malaikah Temple, was announced yesterday by the program committee. This makes some fifteen acts already billed for the evening, including Ivan Sankoff and Beth Cannon, Ethel Meglin's Kiddie Revue, Pancheon and Marco's Hollywood Revue, the Shrine Chanters, the Arab Patrol, Walter Weems and associates in a new blackface skit, LaFrance and Garvett, the Tennessee Four, Lupe Velez, Mexican dancer, and others.



Arrangements also have been made to present a feature picture preview for the entertainment. The name of the film will be announced shortly, according to R. A. Heffner, chairman of the program committee.

TICKETS AVAILABLE

The committee announced that a limited number of the 6800 once-available tickets may be secured at the Shrine Auditorium, Philharmonic Auditorium and Habrister's and Birkel's. The seats, all of which are reserved, are selling at $1.50 main floor and $1 upstairs.

Considerable attention will be given the benefit at the Shrine's regular noon luncheon today in the Biltmore. Noble Mel Rapp of Santa Monica will preside and Ben Laletsky and his orchestra will provide the music.

Of the $100,000 already raised by citizens and organizations in this city in behalf of the fund, approximately $66,000 has been deposited in the bank, according to Chairman MacWatters. About $2000 was taken in at the Red Cross headquarters yesterday, including a $500 check contributed by the Wholesale Dry Goods Association.

DEATH FIGHT DESCRIBED

Gray Chills Court With Story

"Clubber Judd" Insists Wife Twisted Wire Around Victim's Neck

NEW YORK, May 4. (Exclusive)—Clubber Judd cast aside his Salesman Gray air for forty-five minutes this afternoon and in measured words told such a horrible tale of the murder of Albert Snyder that he had 1500 listeners all goose pimply.

Before he had finished his bloody story court attendants were carrying out fainting women, and the butchered man's brother, Warren Schneider had collapsed.

When Judd Gray stepped into the murder chamber he did not walk alone. He took Ruth Snyder with him, according to his testimony, and it was clear that he sought desperately today to take her on with him into the electric chair.

His only plea was that a woman and liquor made him do it—and the woman was red-handed too.

He hit Albert Snyder the first blow. Then he hit him again when he hollered. But Ruth Snyder hit her husband the last blow and if there was a wire around "the governor's" neck that Sunday morning March 20, she placed it there and it was her white fingers that twisted it tight.

REFUSES TO REST

As Gray told his story Ruth Snyder's head sank lower and lower. She dabbed at her face with a tear-stained handkerchief and never raised her eyes to look toward her once "constant lover." She seemed as dejected as ever the little corset salesman was when she had spilled her wrath from the witness stand.

But Judd Gray was through his dallying. Here was an opportunity to get the tale off his chest and he told it with little regard as to where the blows fell as he showed that morning when the pair of lovers belabored a sleeping husband with a five-pound sash-weight.

Once toward the end Gray's counsel, Samuel Miller, asked Justice Scudder to allow the witness to rest a few minutes. The justice was nodding his consent when Gray interrupted almost angrily:

"No, I can go on all right. I am not through and I have left out some things I must bring in before I finish."

Murder-bent under the incessant nagging of the woman, Gray told of sneaking in the side door she had left open for him. He listened carefully for fifteen minutes and all was quiet. Then he stole upstairs and into the room of Ruth Snyder's mother. He knew she would not be there.

First he looked under the pillow and fingered the sash weight that Mrs. Snyder had placed there after "practicing with it." He found pliers to cut the telephone wires and a bottle of whisky, which he drank. He found more whisky in the room and drank most of a quart. Then, twice, he became frightened and tried to steal away from his fearful job, but each time he turned back.

HEARS PAIR RETURN

Finally he heard the Snyders coming home from the Fidgeon's party. He gulped several more drinks. He was ready.

They came in and the woman whispered to him as she passed his door, soon she came back.

"Are you prepared, dear?" she whispered.

"I said I was," repeated Gray.

Then the woman left him, but slipped in once more when Albert Snyder went to the bathroom. She kissed him and raced back to her room.

"It seemed but a minute till she was back again,' said the man. This time her husband was fast asleep.

She said:

"Are you going to kill him for me?"

"I said 'I don't know, but I'll try for you.'"

She was disrobed and she spoke in loving terms to her corset salesman paramour turned murderer. He was willing at last.

Then she paddled softly back to her room and eyed her sleeping husband. Returning she said:

"Now is the time."

"I put on the rubber gloves," said the man, who has a marvelous gift for narration. "I took the sash-weight and gave her the chloroform. I gave her the piece of picture wire. She carried the handkerchief with the cotton waste. The woman led and I followed her into the room."

STRIKES FIRST BLOW

There was a stir in the courtroom. A woman's sob was heard. A window rattled and it sounded like a bombardment. Then nothing moved except the hands on the white-faced clock hanging over the huge oak doors. Its measured ticks were audible in the farthest corner.

"I had my glasses off," continued Judd. "She took me by the hand; we went into the hall and on into the room. The door of her husband's room was practically closed except for a crack. I don't know how many seconds I stood there trying to get my bearings, and I struck him on the head as nearly as I could, one blow. I think I hit him another blow, because with the first blow he was up in bed and started to holler. I went on the bed on top of him and tried to get the clothes over his head to suppress his cries."

There was a commotion in the courtroom. Everybody looked around with a frightened air. Some one had fainted. A woman was carried out. Then an attendant was seen rushing toward the door with Warren Schneider, the dead man's brother, in his arms. The big double doors swung open and many passed through them for air.

Gray, his voice still clear, went on:

"He was apparently full of fight. He got me by the necktie and a struggle ensued, in which I was getting the worst of it because I was being choked. I hollered 'Momsie, momsie, momsie, for God's sake help me.' I had dropped the sashweight. She came over, took the weight and she hit him on the head and threw the bottle of chloroform, the handkerchief and wire and everything on the pillow.

TIES HIS HANDS

"I finally got him between my knees in some manner and had him by the throat with my left hand, I believe. My right hand was over his mouth with the covers. I did not miss her (Ruth) at the time. The next thing I knew his hands were tied with a towel, which she had gotten from the bathroom. I called to her to close the window on account of the outcry. The covers were pulled over his head. If there was waste packed in his nose and mouth I do not know, because nobody pushed them in there, as far as I know."

Mrs. Snyder's head was buried in her hands. She appeared to be weeping, but a few moments later when she looked up her eyes were dry. From time to time she shook her head faintly during his story.

As the twice self-confessed clubber took up his story of the murder night he seemed to have only one thought in mind, and that was to tell it all.

Gray was sure the picture wire was first tied about Snyder's wrists. Mrs. Snyder, he said, must have twisted it about Snyder's neck. He didn't see it there, even when he entered the room later and, accidentally, touched Snyder's hand, feeling the coldness of it. Gray shivered as he uttered the word "cold."

The murder, Gray said, had been planned for weeks. It was not clear, even to the last moment, who would do it. Mrs. Snyder had asked him to hire a gunman. She had talked of poison. She had believed chloroform would be used. But at the moment of the deed there was no plan, only some instruments and her unswerving purpose. Gray felt himself unable to do the thing, when more than a quart of whisky had failed to make him what, he felt, she wanted him to be. He sat in the absent mother's room drinking whisky and wondering if he could screw himself up to the point of murdering Snyder.

PREPARE BURGLAR STORY

But when Gray desisted at the bedside, Mrs. Snyder egged him on, saying "it has to go through or I'm ruined." And it was Mrs. Snyder, Gray related, who went to the bathroom, got a towel, and with it tied her husband's hands.

The deed done, the murderers, as Gray pictured them, turned to look at each other and ask "what shall we do now?" They went into the absent mother's bedroom. Little Lorraine was sleeping soundly. There was blood on Gray's shirt. She got him another, telling him she would burn her night gress and bathrobe and his shirt.

They began to plan the burglary story. They mussed up the entire house, burned the tell-tale garments in the furnace and wrapped the chloroform in an Italian-language newspaper, leaving it where it might suggest that the crime was committed by Italians. She wanted him to strike her on the head, to strengthen the story of burglary. He refused, because "I couldn't do it."

And now Mrs. Snyder was bound and about to be gagged. She was lying on her mother's bed. She asked him when she would see him again. Here Gray's emotions became sobbed out that he had told her that he "was through with her and everything and that she would never see me again."

GRAY PSYCHO-ANALYZED

Writer Vivisects Figure in Sensational Crime; Dominated by Paramour, His Conclusion

BY W. E. WOODWARD
Author of "Bunk" and Other Books

QUEENS COUNTY COURTHOUSE, LONG ISLAND CITY (N. Y.) May 4. (Exclusive)—Judd Gray has thin lips and sensitive, quivering nostrils. When his mouth closes it shuts tight, and there is an unmistakable grimness about his countenance. He has a long upper lip, a deeply cleft chin and a square—better say, rectangular—face.

During the last two weeks while he sat with bowed head and an air of dejection at his lawyer's table during his trial for the murder of Albert Snyder I was not able to discern his features clearly. It seemed to me then that his attitude was one of fear, and I wrote that he looked like a man who would burst into tears if anyone should speak harshly to him.

But now that I have watched him on the witness stand for several hours I think that his half-dead appearance during these long days was due to shame and remorse and not to fear.

OF COURAGEOUS TYPE

I have never known or seen a man of Gray's type who lacked physical courage. In appearance he belongs to one of the three or four soldier types. I am as confident that this man on the stand is not a physical coward as I am of anything, and this in face of the fact that he did a most cowardly thing in attacking Albert Snyder while Snyder was drunk and asleep.

How then could this man, who calls himself "a gentleman and always on the level with everybody," carry out such a cowardly and contemptible act?

The answer is, I think, that he is a moral weakling. His moral organism is so rudimentary that it can be easily thrown out of gear or suppressed. It is not a case of being merely a bad man; nothing as simple as that. Wickedness or plain badness is often found in individuals who have highly moral conceptions.

"MORAL IMBECILE"

They choose to be bad; that's all. But Gray, I am convinced, has no power to choose. He was and is a moral imbecile. My readers will understand, of course, that I am trying to put a scientific definition into popular language and not doing it very accurately; but the term moral imbeciles approximates what I want to say.

I have not gathered the idea that he is a moral imbecile from anything he has said on the stand, but from a close study of his actions before and after the murder; that is, so far as we know what his actions were.

The moral imbecile occupies relatively the same position on the moral and ethical plane that the mental imbecile does on the intellectual plane.

The mental imbecile must have some one else to do his thinking for him, and the moral imbecile can determine between good and bad only through other people declaring them to be one thing or the other.

Ordinarily, the moral imbecile lives his life placidly enough because the accumulated moral force of civilization carries him floating along as a boat floats on a river. He looks around him and does as respectable people do. His moral imbecility shows itself, however, with the vivid quickness of a lightning flash as soon as temptation reaches a breaking strain, or whenever such a defective becomes dominated by a more powerful evil mind.

PARALLEL CASE

Gray's personality had a close parallel in that of Dr. Arthur Waite, a Riverside Drive dentist of athletic build and tennis-playing habits, who was put to death at Sing Sing in 1917 for poisoning his wife's parents. Dr. Waite's story has already become a classic in murder tales; it is most interestingly related in Edward H. Smith's "Famous Poison Mysteries."

Young Dr. Waite's friends, like Judd Gray's friends, could not believe at first that he possibly could have done such a thing. But they were soon horrified in disillusion, for the poisoning was so crudely accomplished that the most tentative examination revealed the whole thing.

Dr. Waite, moral imbecile, was dominated by a desire for money; and Gray, moral imbecile, was dominated by—what? I do not know for sure what dominated him, but perhaps the forthcoming evidence will bring it to light.

When a moral defective, such as I believe Gray to be, possesses physical courage and a high temper, the combination is exceedingly bad. In that we probably see the source of Gray's undoing—bad temper, violent passions, physical bravery, great animal energy, combined with emotional insolidity and a lack of ethical ideas.

He sits on the stand and looks the crowded courtroom placidly in the face. His answers to questions are quick, incisive and clear. His voice has a vibrant ring. As he speaks he hardly opens his mouth, yet his words can be heard all over the room above the shuffling and whispering.

SINISTER RESEMBLANCES

Strangely, he reminds me of Mrs. Snyder. Yet two people could hardly look more unlike, for he is a sallow, black-haired brunette and, as we all know, she is a very white blond. Notwithstanding these differences, he has the same mannerisms, the same motions, the same clear, metallic way of speech. I am sure they are both on the same intellectual and emotional plane, and as some slight evidence of that assertion there is the fact that they fell in love almost as soon as they met.

Gray's education seems to be poor. He uses the word "she" constantly in the objective case, as "When I reached town I called up she and my friend."

He pronounces the word "amicable" as if the accent were on the second syllable. He says that soon after he met Mrs. Snyder he made his first visit to her home, and there she showed him a bottle of arsenic and said she was keeping it to poison animals. He says he persuaded her to throw it away. If his story is true, what an interesting picture it is. First visit and arsenic shown to the visitor. Then there was another occasion when she spoke to him in a restaurant of "getting rid of her husband," according to his story. He told her "she was terrible," and the conversation drifted into an argument as to the existence of God, so he declares. He said there must be a God, and she said there isn't a God.

TESTING THE POTION

She appears to have done a good deal of tinkering with poisons, first and last, according to Gray. To one of their rendesvous at the Walnorf she brought some sleeping powders and asked Gray to take one of them to try the effect. He did; he tried one. The effect of the powder, he says, was to render him uneconscious, and after he awoke he was dazed for hours. When he told her about the powerful nature of the powder she was pleased and said that it would probably do what she intended it to do.

He says Mrs. Snyder told him that when her husband touched her she felt as if she could kill him. All this, of course, according to Gray. It may be true. My impression is that Gray is telling the truth in this section of his story. Mrs. Snyder's coldness toward her husband and her disgust at his embraces may possibly be the root-motive of the tragedy.

One of the curious aspects of the Snyder-Gray love affair was the seeming obtuseness of Albert Snyder. His wife seemed to be able to fix up a tale at any time that would explain her all-night absences from home. This, too, in a straitened household without a servant and without wide social contacts.

EXPOSURE HOVERS

One time Gray says when they were at the Waldorf for a couple of days, he returned to the room and found her in a dead faint." Upon being revived she told Gray that a neighbor in Queens Village had called on the telephone to tell her that her husband had come home and inquired among the neighbors as to the whereabouts of his wife. Evidently she had confided in some gossipy matron in one of the little cardboard cottages and this confidant had told Snyder where his wife was.

Therefore, the fainting fit. It does not appear, however, that Snyder went to the Waldorf to drag his wife away or that he did anything at all about it.

In October, 1926, Gray says, Mrs. Snyder wanted him to get some "knockout drops" for her. When he refused she asked him if he would not at least obtain for her some whisky. He said he was horrified and flatly declined to get this for her.

Thereupon, she declared, so he says, that life with Snyder had become unbearable to her and that she would risk anything to get rid of him.

A GENTLE REQUEST

Rather an interesting tableau in the Snyder home on the day after Christmas last year. Gray says that Mrs. Snyder invited him to come over and have luncheon and see little Lorraine's Christmas tree. So Gray journeyed to Queens Village, had luncheon and romped around the Christmas tree with the child. These festivities over and Mrs. Snyder and Gray being alone, he says that Mrs. Snyder asked him to shoot her husband.

Gray declares that he does not remember the exact words on this occasion, but one may readily imagine them:

"I've kept my husband long enough to put up the Christmas tree, my dear, but now I don't need him any more. I shall be much obliged to you if you will take him out and shoot him."

Gray says he declined to shoot Snyder.

Speakers for All Sections Hold Out Prospect for Prosperous Year

WASHINGTON, May 4. (AP)—The business outlook for the United States was pictured in bright colors today by speakers who addressed the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, but one shadow was cast by the agricultural situation in the Middle West.

East, west, south and north central territory was described as facing no disturbing problems of major importance, and notwithstanding the gloomy farm situation, Silas H. Strawn, of Chicago, chairman of the board of directors of Montgomery Ward & Co., held out the prospect of a satisfactory volume of business in the Middle West in 1927 with normal weather conditions and crops.

ARE OPTIMISTIC

While the agricultural situation was characterized as one of "unusual gravity" by Mr. Strawn, John S. Lawrence, president of the New England Council; Harry Chandler, publisher of the Los Angeles Times, and George M. Baldwin of Jacksonville, Fla., spoke optimistically of the outlook for their territories.

Two years ago, Mr. Lawrence said, New England was concerned over pessimism coming from within and without, but now that section not only was encouraged but confident.

"Some of the eliminations and removals that you were reading about as threatened two years ago, have taken place," he said. "But the losses have not been nearly so great as were predicted and they have been more than offset by gains in other lines."

Mr. Strawn told the delegates that thousands of farmers were struggling to save their farms from foreclosure, and that the trouble which began in 1920, still persisted.

THE PACIFIC AREA

"There is no considerable difference of opinion as to the cause of the trouble," he said. "It is only when a remedy is sought that discussion widens."

Mr. Chandler predicted the Pacific Coast would become the front door for American commerce. The centuries of westward march of the Aryan achievement, he said, "has culminated in what, for want of a better term, may be called the Pacific era. The front door of America ultimately will be on the Pacific, whose eastern and western shores are formed by lands just coming into the world's spotlight in its onward sweep from east to west."

SALE OF POWER

The plan for the government to erect a dam at Boulder Canyon and recoup the cost by the sale of electricity was described as contrary to American ideals and subversive of American institutions in an address delivered before the chamber by W. K. Onken, editor of the Electrical World of New York.

"Flood control is a government function," he said. "The sale of electric power is not but is a proprietary function in which no democratic government should engage because to do so would encroach on the rights and privileges of its citizens. Moreover, the Boulder Canyon project affects the autonomy of the State, for how can the State tax property or regulate the rates and service of a plant owned and operated by the national government?"

Mayoralty in Baltimore Won by Republican

BALTIMORE, May 4. (AP)—William F. Broening, Republican, accumulating an early lead which steadily increased as returns piled in yesterday was elected Mayor of Baltimore by a majority of 17,376 over William Curran, his Democratic opponent. Complete unofficial returns gave Broening 85,675; Curran, 68,299. Mr. Broening, who preceded Howard W. Jackson, present Mayor, in that office, will take the oath again on the 18th inst., for a four-year term.

That a religious issue played an important part in the election was indicated by the fact that Mr. Broening polled extremely high votes in sections of the city where anti-Catholicism is regarded as finding most vigorous expression in politics. Even Councilmanic candidates appeared affected, all three Democratic and Catholic candidates being defeated in the Third District, normally heavily Democratic. Two of these three have been Councilmen for years.

Maybe This is for You

It is located on high ground, near the foot of beautiful hills. The drainage is perfect, and there is no wash.

The soil is remarkably rich and easily worked. The fragrance of orange blossoms is everywhere.

The ocean breeze cools the air in summer, and the hills protect the fruit and flowers from frost in winter.

It is 30 minutes from Broadway, and 40 minutes from the beach.

The house, on a 50x140-foot lot, has a solid foundation of concrete with 20-inch base. It is of stucco, with gable roof of the best grade of cedar shingles made.

There are five large rooms and big closets—and a guest closet near the front entrance.

The two bedrooms are large and beautifully decorated.

There is a laundry—separate from the house—with two enamel tubs, hot and cold water, gas and electricity.

There is a double garage with roomy concrete walks and drives. And a sprinkler system installed for the lawn.

The house floors are half-inch oak—not three-eighths—on top of seven-eighths sub-floor. There is a small concrete basement.

The entire house is well built, with the best materials, and all the latest fixtures. Standard plumbing is used.

A certificate, executed by the California Retail Lumbermen's Association, showing the quality, dimensions and grade of every piece of lumber in the house, will be presented to you with the house.

There are plenty of convenient electric plugs and complete wiring and equipment to carry the full load of lighting, cooking, water heating, refrigeration, etc., all at one time.

A Copeland refrigeration plant is installed.

A certificate is issued by the electrical dealers' association showing that the house is electrically prepared and equipped according to their standards of completeness.

Taxes and the cost of living are both less expensive in Whittier than in many others.

And Whittier is a very modern and attractive city of 16,000 real Americans, beautiful churches, excellent schools, high-class colleges, modern stores and business houses, 24 miles of concrete streets—with a background of hills and an outlook to the ocean.

NATIONS OPEN ECONOMIC CONFERENCE AT GENEVA

GENEVA, May 4. (AP)—The great international economic conference, summoned to evolve plans to stabilize economic conditions throughout the world, was opened today in Reformation Hall. Some 1500 delegates were present, representing forty-six nations—including the United States, soviet Russia and Turkey as nonmembers of the League of Nations—and the hall presented an even more animated and crowded scene than during meetings of the League Assembly.

Former Premier Theunis of Belgium, president of the conference, in his opening address declared there never has been a meeting so comprehensively qualified to study the problems which jeopardize "the two precious boons for which mankind is ever yearning—peace and prosperity."

The conference, he added, must help maintain peace by providing guidance in the economic field in the face of difficulties, which made the world uncomfortably dangerous and sensitive.

SURVEY FOR WORLD

M. Theunis emphasized that the conference primarily must survey the world's economic situation to determine the economic causes of the present instability. It must also examine economic tendencies which may influence world peace, giving particular attention to the problem of commercial and tariff policies and international industrial agreements.

The last point was probably specifically European, he remarked, but the delegates must not forget that interdependence of nations means that every measure affecting the economic life of one nation produces effects in all the other countries.

M. Theunis expressed the opinion that it would be found that dislocation of economic relations because of the World War has had more serious consequences than the material havoc wrought.

Warning by M. Theunis that it would be unwise to overdo the policy of fixing high tariffs on the excuse that it is justifiable in defense to have a weapon, was followed by a brilliant exposition of the dangers of the world's economic ills by the great Swedish economist, Gustav Cassel.

VITAL QUESTION

He asserted that the vital question the conference must answer is: "Shall collaboration be sought in agreements to restrict production, or shall we unite all nations in increasing world production, thus making the world richer and raising the people's standard of living?"

Prof. Cassel said unemployment is an evil which must be abolished and he held that the dislocation of industry is causing great wrong to youth, which virtually is ruled out of entrance to any trade. He urged international collaboration in the adjustment of supply and demand.

Italy raised the problem of emigration, but very mildly. Premier Mussolini's delegate, Count Bonin-Longare, committed his country to complete co-operation, asserting that the grave questions arising from the shrinkage of markets could be solved only by the earnest and altruistic co-operation of all nations.

ROBINSON PRESENT

"Italy is short of raw materials," he said, "and you know we have difficulty with our population because it is larger than we are able economically to support."

The American delegation is headed by Henry M. Robinson, president of the First National Bank of Los Angeles and former member of the United States Shipping Board. It includes Norman H. Davis, former assistant Secretary of the Treasury; John W. O'Leary, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce; Dr. Alonzo E. Taylor, director of the Food Research Institute of Stanford University, and Dr. Julius Klein, of the Department of Commerce. They are assisted by a number of experts.

Hope that the question of Europe's debts to the United States would not be raised was expressed unofficially by the American delegates. It was added, however, that if the subject were introduced, together with the immigration restrictions of the United States, the Americans were prepared to defend the American policy on both subjects.

INTERNATIONAL CARTELS URGED AT GENEVA

GENEVA, May 4. (AP)—The systematic constitution of a large number of international organizations, or cartels, as a means of bringing about economic world improvement was recommended to the International Economic Conference today by Prof. J. Grossmann of Zurich University.

Recommendations of Prof. Grossmann, who made a special study of the problem of economic understanding for the League of Nations, are:

The fixing by the cartels of the shares of the industries in each country, the organization of specialized production and the reduction of customs dues in countries where cartels functioned. The latter would be accomplished by means of a central fund organized by industrial concerns in order to refund to exporters of goods the cost of freight and customs on all international consignments authorized by the cartel.

The professor maintained that the interests of consumers would not be threatened by the creation of international organizations of this character, but added that the League of Nations could be called upon to study measures to remedy any abuses which might develop.

AMERICAN EXAMPLE

The United States was cited as an example of a country where a wide market is made possible by the mass production of goods based on an extremely developed division of labor. Prof. Grossmann remarked that in Europe nobody had thought of suggesting that the Old World might constitute such a market.

The factors which rendered difficult any attempt at interstate co-operation in the economic field, he explained, were the international political situation, the internal policy of most countries, a certain nationalist ideology which tended to support the idea of self-sufficing national economy and, finally, the condition of public finance since the war which made it impossible for governments to do without customs revenues.

Prof. Grossmann said he preferred economic rapprochement by means of direct agreements between producers of the various countries which would be put into practice more rapidly than if they were reached through governments.

"Agreements between producers may lead to political pacification," he added, "more especially if important industries are concerned, because competition between them might result in an irritation of public opinion in the States affected."

"DUMPING" POLICY

"Dumping"—sales for export at lower prices than those charged at the same time and in the same circumstances to buyers in the home markets—has never been as prevalent in international trade as at the present time, Jacob Viner, professor of political economy at Chicago University, reported.

"This is true particularly in industrial countries with high tariffs, he said, and in countries whose industries have been organized into trusts or cartels. He added that the practice would be even more widespread were it not for the fact that certain countries, such as the United States, Canada, Australia and the Union of South Africa, had successfully enforced anti-dumping laws.

After setting forth the serious harm which he said was caused in certain countries by "dumping," Prof. Viner remarked that exporting countries are not generally inclined altogether to condemn it, because "dumping" gives them advantages rather than inconveniences. He expressed the opinion, however, that importing countries could easily protect themselves against normal "dumping" of foreign products by means of ordinary import duties and suggested that the abnormal cheapness of foreign goods may be countered by special safeguards over and above the usual tariff.

While not of the opinion that there is an international solution of the "dumping" problem except in so far as "dumping" is the result of official export bounties, Prof. Viner thought that international action is possible to meet "predatory dumping" practiced by exporters of one country in another country to the detriment of competitors for that market who live in a third country.

RATIONALIZATION IN AMERICA EXPLAINED

GENEVA, May 4. (AP)—Great prosperity of the United States during the past four years and continued improvement in the European situation have contributed to the practical application of "rationalization of industry" in the United States.

That is the view of David F. Houston, former Secretary of Agriculture, who sent a special report to the International Economic Conference, which opened today.

Houston includes under the term "rationalization" the three elements of stabilization, standardization and simplification of industry. He expresses the belief that the rationalization of industry may be fostered by agencies of statistical information with a view to the development of industrial budgeting. With the help of this system, he declares, concerns are seriously endeavoring to build up rational programs of future work, bearing in mind both internal and external influences.

It is necessary to control economic factors and provide for the future, Houston believes. One of the most interesting aspects of the problem, he remarks, lies in the efforts of American business men to stabilize employment and standardize and simplify industry. He recalls that in 1921 the United States Department of Commerce played an important part in this sphere and that there are instances where their efforts have succeeded in producing a reduction of 97 per cent in the number of varieties produced of certain articles.

LABORITE CALLS BALDWIN "LIAR"

LONDON, May 4. (AP)—Sneers and jeers from the Labor back-benchers punctuated Premier Baldwin's speech in the House of Commons today in justification of the trades union bill, and at one point in the debate the lie was passed with the Prime Minister as the target.

As one reason for the government's sponsoring the bill, which seeks to prevent general strikes and strikes of a coercive nature, Mr. Baldwin maintained that in some unions the power was gradually getting into the hands of what is called the minority movement. This brought Labor interruptions from several quarters. There were cries of "withdraw," and John Beckett, member for Gateshead, sprang to his feet and pointing at the Premier, shouted "admit you are a liar."

In a moment the House was in an uproar. Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, immediately moved that Beckett be suspended, and the motion being carried, the speaker ordered suspension for five days. Beckett left the building.

As to the government's mandate for the bill, Premier Baldwin explained that it was last year's general strike. But he had made no endeavor to press a bill of any kind immediately afterward, although he felt it would have been perfectly easy to force through any legislation. The chances were that then it would have been of an extreme and vindictive kind.

"I believe," he said, "that the more the bill is known in the country the more it will be supported."

This was greeted with Labor shouts of "Wait till the general election." This aroused Prince Mincotu's ire for the first time, and he retorted: "Make this bill the principal plank in your program at the general election if you choose, and we will defeat you, even though your slogan be 'Let London Walk.'"

There was a lively interlude just before the debate adjourned until tomorrow, when George Spencer, who had been ousted by Labor owing to his attitude on the general strike, and who at the opening of the debate had spoken in favor of the bill, was taunted by the Laborites. As Mr. Spencer sat in the Liberal benches, Joseph Westwood, Labor, Peebles, excitedly shouted: "Look at Judas smiling there."

This was the third day of the bill's second reading, and on the whole the day passed much more peacefully than had been expected. But in parliamentary circles it was predicted that something decisive in the way of opposition was in store for the final hours of the debate tomorrow. There were really no organized interruptions today. J. H. Thomas, Labor's fighting debator, winds up for the opposition and Lloyd George is also expected to speak.

OIL LAW WRITS REVOKED

MEXICO CITY, May 4. (Exclusive) Partial injunctions granted by the lower courts to oil companies opposing the application of the petroleum law were revoked today by the terms of an unanimous decision of the Mexican Supreme Court. The high court ruled that the lower courts must act upon the injunctions as a whole.

Action of the high court upon the group of ten injunctions means that the cases go back to the lower courts, whose previous decision only partially granted the injunctions asked for by the petitioning oil companies.

The companies sought to restrain the President of the Republic, the Ministry of Industry, Commerce and Labor, Congress and the Attorney-General's office from applying the petroleum law. The lower courts decided in favor of the companies in so far as restraining the President and the Ministry of Industry, Commerce and Labor was concerned, but ruled adversely on restraining Congress and the Attorney-General.

The Supreme Court instructs the district courts to decide whether or not the oil companies should be upheld in their efforts to restrain all the mentioned agencies of government from enforcing the petroleum law. When this is done, the cases may again be presented to the high court.

The high court's decision works tisement.

Moslem Women Discard Veils in May-Day Revolt

MOSCOW, May 4. (AP)—Thousands of Moslem women in Russian Turkestan seized the May Day celebration as an opportunity to declare a revolt against the tyranny of the veil, say advices received today from Samarkand.

Fifteen thousand women paraded, unveiled in Samarkand. At Tashkent, in the presence of 25,000 persons, the defiant women threw their veils in a heap in the public square and burned them amid cheers and groans from the spectators. At Khokand 150 veils were burned.

"OUT" WHERE THE PLATE BEGINS

Here we have what was the best play of the afternoon in yesterday afternoon's Portland-Hollywood baseball imbroglio at Wrigley Field. The photo shows Denny Murphy nailing ponderous Willie Bagwell at the plate in the third inning when the Beaver right fielder attempted to work a double steal with McCurdy as his partner in crime. Murphy whipped the ball to Kerr and took Johnny's return throw just in time to nip Bagwell at the plate. Bagwell slid into Murphy and bowled him over, but the Hollywood backstop clung to the ball. Weis's Error in Ninth Gives Acorns Close Game

Staley Connects for Trio of Bingles Off Boehler

Piercy Walks Three Batters in Final Inning

OAKLAND, May 4.—Three walks by Bill Piercy, and a muffed fly by Art Weis after two were out in the ninth gave Oakland a 1-to-0 victory over Los Angeles in a stellar hurling duel here today, and evened the series. Boehler hurled a three-hit game for the Oaks, Gene Staley getting all three.

Piercy and George Boehler hooked up in a fast mound battle. Both pitched brilliant ball throughout the entire game, Piercy weakening only in the ninth, and at that, should not have lost. He walked Buzz Arlett, the first man to face him in the ninth. The second was out on an infield pop fly. The next walked, and the next man grounded out. The next batter walked, filling the bases. Gene Valla lifted a high fly to Weis in center. The Angel gardener seemed to have the ball safe after a short run, but juggled it, and Arlett crossed the plate with the winning run.

HELEN WILLS READY TO OPEN CAMPAIGN FOR LOST TENNIS LAURELS IN NINE TOURNEYS

BERKELEY, May 4. (Exclusive)—Miss Helen Wills, America's ex-tennis champion, is about to set out on the final leg of the "World's greatest comeback." The former ruler of the nation's courts will take off from Berkeley for New York Friday at noon on the Overland Limited for a journey of more than 10,000 miles, which is designed to replace the national crown over her inevitable white visor.

Some nine tournaments are included in Miss Wills's comprehensive schedule, which is to be played both abroad and in America. The schedule will be climaxed with the Berkeley girl's attempt to recapture the singles title in the national championships late in September.

After a few matches with Elmer Griffin in New York, Miss Wills will toss her luggage aboard the Tuscania on the 14th inst. From the 22nd inst. to June 8 she will compete in her first tournament at the Queen's Club in London. Tournament number two will be at London Town on June 15. The Wimbledon tournament is to follow June 22, and will produce such high-grade opposition as Kitty McKane Godfrey.

In the States, the opening tournament will be at East Hampton, Long Island, just one month previous to the national championships. Next will come the Essex Country Club play at Manchester, Mass. The Wightman Cup eliminations, the event at Rye and then the national title match. For three consecutive years Helen juggled the tennis situation in the palm of her hand.

BIG SPANIARD SET FOR FIGHT

Still Expects to Meet Jack on July 9

Wants Huge Forfeit, However, to be Protected

Promoter Objects to Demand for $25,000

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—Tex Rickard today took his first definite step toward matching Jack Dempsey and Paulino Uzcudun, for a heavyweight elimination bout this summer.

The Spaniard agreed to terms for two matches on a percentage basis of about 20 per cent. The first is scheduled to pit him against Dempsey at the Yankee stadium here July 9. If he beats the former champion, Paulino's second match will be against the winner of the Jimmy Maloney-Jack Sharkey bout in the stadium the 19th inst.

Only one detail remains for settlement before actual signing of contracts, Rickard said. The Basque woodchopper has demanded that the promotor post a guarantee of $25,000 to be paid in the event that Dempsey fails to carry through his intended come-back.

The guarantee, unprecedented here in any but championship battles, would insure Paulino against loss of bouts while waiting for Dempsey to come out of retirement, he said. Promoter Humbert Fugasy already has offered the Basque a match against Harry Willis, giant negro, at the Polo Grounds, June 20.

Rickard objects to posting $25,000 on the ground that a match for Pauline with either Maloney or Sharkey and the prospect of meeting Gene Tunney, for the championship, is sufficient insurance against a summer of inactivity even if Dempsey failed to return to the ring.

WILLIS TO MEET SHADE

Boxers Will Headline Olympic Bout Bill on 24th Inst.; Winner to Tackle Anderson

Cowboy Jack Willis and Dave Shade will meet as the headline attraction for the Olympic on the 24th inst., it was announced yesterday by Matchmaker Wad Wadhams. This was the match that Leo Lomski side-stepped and shipped East.

The winner of this match will box Joe Anderson soon after. Anderson is already signed to appear here. He is at present resting at his home in Covington, Ky.

Doc Snell arrived yesterday from the north in time to take his first workout at the Manhattan Gymnasium for his ten-round bout with Billy Grimes, triple champion of Australia, at the Olympic next Tuesday night.

Grimes has been working at Dempsey's establishment for the last three weeks. He has won two titles so far from his gymnasium audiences. One is that he is the freakiest foreigner that has come to this country in years. The other is that he is a foreigner who can hit. Few of them can.

Matchmaker Wadhams announced his complete supporting card yesterday. He is featuring Rosalio Caballero, Filipino bantam, against Frankie Genaro, former flyweight champion, in the semi-wind-up.

Matsuda Will Meet Unknown

Matty Matsuda, world's welterweight wrestling champion, has been signed to meet "Shorty" Henderson, an "unknown" in these parts, and clash with Leo Papiano, the "Greek Terror," in two other matches "Carnation" Lou Daro has arranged to complete his all-star wrestling card for the Olympic next Wednesday night.

Henderson, who weighs around 160 pounds, has been wrestling in the smaller cities along the Coast and he is said to have made somewhat of a reputation for himself.

The main event will bring Nick Lutze, former Notre Dame star, and Paul Jones, the Texan split-hold artist, together for the first time in many months. Lutze beat Jones here once in a whirlwind battle which had the spectators off their seats throughout their match. A bout with Joe Stecher, world's champion, has been promised the winner.

Renato Gardini, the Italian heavyweight king, and Charley Hanson of Omaha, Neb., declared to be the fastest heavyweight in the world, will clash in the semi-wind-up. Gardini will outweigh Hanson by nearly twenty pounds, but the latter expects his speed to wear the Italian out.

OSMAND TURNS IN FAST WORK DESPITE INJURY; STARS TOIL

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) May 4. (AP)—Osmand, whose recent injury created a stir among those who had made him the favorite in the winter books, turned in a good work at Churchill Downs today, in his preparation for the Kentucky derby. Jockey Earl Sande rode him a mile in 1:43. The big chestnut gelding ran with his left fore foot in a bandage but showed no ill effects after the workout.

Over a sloppy course, the son of Sweeper-Ormanda stepped the first quarter-mile in 0:23 3-5, half in :48 1-5, five eighths in 1:00 3-5, three quarters in 1:14, seven eighths in 1:38 and the mile in 1:43, although some clockers caught him in 1:42.

Trainers for the Joseph E. Widener stable, encouraged by their charge's improvement, expect to carry out their original intention and give Osmand his first race under colors in the mile derby trial at the Downs Saturday.

Culver City expects to be host to the largest delegation of boxing fans tonight that has visited the movie center since the Fred Fulton - Tony Fuente imbroglio of nearly three years ago.

This fight put a black mark on the arena so that it has been a long time fighting its way back to good standing and popularity. Promoter Jimmy Murray, who recently took over the management of the place is staging his first big shot and it looks like the wooden bowl would be packed.

INVITE GILLETTE, DEVINE TO RACE WIDE IN BIG MEET HERE

Edwin Wide will positively appear in Los Angeles and race against Hank Lunney, Nick Carter and other mile stars on May 28, according to the announcement released by Charley Keppen, athletic director of the L.A.A.C. Keppen stated that he had received the final approval from William Proutt, chairman of the foreign relations committee, and Bob Weaver, head of the local A.A.U. and member of the foreign relations committee.

The meet will be staged at the Coliseum and Keppen stated that invitations would be extended to Arnold Gillette of Montana and Johnny Devine of Oregon Aggies to compete in the race. Other mile stars on the coast, McKinnon of Stanford, Schwebeda of U.C. and Unruh of U.S.C., will more than likely be in the East for the I.C.4A. meet and will not be able to compete. However, the five that will compete are the greatest array of mile stars ever to run in the West.

Lunney and Carter, the L.A.A.C. mile stars, are being sent north to Stanford for a couple of weeks to get in shape for the Wide race. Free from all worries up there, Coach Boyd Comstock expects to have these lads in perfect trim for the race of PITTSBURGH, May 4. (AP)—St. Louis avenged yesterday's defeat at the hands of Pittsburgh by hammering two Pirate hurlers today for an 8-to-3 victory. The win put the Cards at the head of the league.

Bunched hits, coupled with costly Pirate errors, made it easy for St. Louis. Haines chalked up his fifth consecutive win of the season.

It was a field day for Frankie Frisch. He collected two triples and two runs and took nine chances in the field without a slip. P. Waner, with three hits, including a triple, starred for the Pirates. L. Bell hit the only homer of the game. The score:

OBSERVATIONS

BILL HENRY

IT SEEMS to us that it is about time somebody rushed to the defense of our A.A.U. timers who have been having a terrible time standing up under the attacks of eastern officials, newspaper men and others. We interviewed George Adair on the subject, figuring that possibly George, who has been timing for something over twenty years might know something about it. George says that he doesn't know whether the timing is correct or not in the estimation of the easterners, but he does quote a few things which would certainly indicate that the local timers aren't so bad.

"All I can tell you," said George, "is that Lonnie Feagans brings out watches that are of the most expensive make and that in a good many cases we have timed events like the three-mile walk, which takes the better part of a half an hour to run off, and at the finish the timers' watches would be not over a fifth of a second apart. That looks as though the boys timed pretty nearly alike. Also Charley Paddock, for instance, never made 9.6s. for the 100 yards in Southern California until he had been timed at that speed in other parts of the country.

"In my opinion the timing here is about as accurate as it can be as we have the best of equipment and men of long experience handling the watches. I think that the Coliseum track is the fastest in the world and that, in a degree, accounts for some of the terrific speed made here. The local boys, contrary to popular opinion, make just as good time in the East and in other parts of the country as they do here." Well spoken, George. From what we've seen, the local timers are as good as there are in the country and it would be a pretty difficult job for anybody to prove anything to the contrary.

Billy Coe, the demon timekeeper and haberdasher, had a narrow escape from death at Fifth and Broadway a couple of nights ago. He was percolating down the street in his pet automobile, a jaundice-colored contraption about the size of a full grown roller skate, when the proprietor of this column was crossing the thoroughfare. Just as we were about to step on the thing, thinking that it was some new kind of a bell weevil or other dangerous insect, Billy spoke to us and thereby saved his life. All of which goes to prove that one should never be too proud to speak to an acquaintance even though he is just a lowly newspaper man.

A lot of interesting points are going to be decided when the L.A.A.C. and U.S.C. get together on the track some ten days hence. There is the question of whether or not Ed House can beat Pinney and Schultz in the sprints. Then the club quartermilers are pretty fair and will give the Trojans a race. Carter and Lovejoy will stage an awful scrambile in the half-mile and Lunney and Carter and Unruh the same in the mile. Maxwell and Kaer tangle again over the hurdles and the same thing seems to go through the field events as well. It looks like a wonderful fracas.

UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON OPPOSED TO ABOLITION OF SPRING FOOTBALL PRACTICE

SEATTLE (Wash.) May 4. (AP)—The University of Washington will oppose abolition of spring football practice in the Pacific Coast conference.

Statements to this effect were issued here today by Acting President David Thomson and Graduate Manager Darwin Meisnest.

Answering the argument that spring practice takes too much of the athlete's time, Dr. Thomson declared that "my understanding is that no football player is required to turn out for spring practice any more than a crew man must turn out in the fall in order to guarantee his position."

"The spirit of all college athletics is based upon the desire of the individual to obtain recreation and physical development," he declared.

Meisnest scoffed at the suggestion that spring football practice interferes with academic work.

The movement for abolition of spring practice was started at the University of Oregon and is understood to have gained some support at the University of California. It will probably be brought to a vote at the next conference meeting.

their young lives. Both men are Olympic Games prospects and either one or both should lower the mile mark if Wide can push them hard enough.

Lunney is an unknown quantity. He is in his second year of competition and so far this year he has never been beaten or extended in any race over the mile route. In top form, which he will have for Wide, lanky Hank figures to set at least a new Coast record fo rthe mile if Wide can extend him. If Wide does not turn the trick, then the duel between Carter, Lunney and Gillette will surely see a new record made.

CUBS COLLECT

CHICAGO, May 4. (AP)—Chicago blasted Pete Donahue and Jakie May off the hill in the third inning today, scoring eight runs and easily defeating Cincinnati in a slugging match, 13 to 9. In the third inning Webb started a rally with a double on Donahue and finished with a home run at the expense of Jakie May with two men scoring in front of him. Kaufmann pitched his first game for the Cubs since being sent home from Cincinnati last week and was hit freely by the visitors and had to give way in the ninth inning when the Reds started a belated rally. CHI-SOX COP

DETROIT, May 4. (AP)—A grouping of hits by the Chicago White Sox, with Gibson's wildness and one Detroit error resulted in the Tigers losing the third game of the series today, 11 to 5. Ted Blankenship, who started in the box for Chicago, was taken out in the seventh when the Tigers threatened, but Connally, who relieved him, held the opposition safe for the remainder of the game. Fothergill contributed three hits, including a double and triple to the lost Tiger cause. It was the sixteenth successive game in which Fothergill, leading American League batter, has hit safely. McCurdy cracked out a circuit clout for the visitors. Score:

NO CONTEST

PHILADELPHIA, May 4. (AP)—Rain today ended the Philadelphia-Boston American League game at the end of the third inning with the Athletics leading, 7 to 1. Russell started for Boston and was taken out in the second inning after a total of five runs had been scored off him. Lindgren succeeded him and was replaced in the third inning by Wilson. Walbert pitched for the Athletics.

OVERALL TIES AT GOLF

DEL MONTE, May 4. — Orvie Overall of Visalia, who, a few years ago was the baseball idol of the nation, today tied for low gross in the qualifying round of the annual golf championship of the California Indians at Del Monte. His gross score of 80 tied that of L. F. Fryar of San Francisco and Walter Breker of San Jose.

WILLIS IS FAVORITE TOMORROW

Cowboy Middleweight Doped to Defeat Foe in Legion Bout

Jack Willis, the cowboy middleweight, is on the long end of the odds to beat Everett Strong in the main event at the Hollywood American Legion stadium tomorrow night. There is some dough being wagered that Willis scores a knockout.

The fight with Strong is the first Willis has had in three months. Tim McGrath has come to this city from San Francisco to be in Willis's corner. This fight means much to the winner, as there will be more bouts arranged which will bring out a middleweight attraction to fight Ace Hudkins when the Wildcat finishes his eastern campaign.

There is a very strong possibility of Everett Strong coming through a victor in this fight. Anyone Willis can kiss on the chin with his left or right hand is destined to take a nap in the resin, but Strong isn't foolish enough to walk out and try to outslug such a dangerous walloper as the San Franciscan.

The semi-wind-up and feature preliminary are fights that can hardly miss being interesting. Jackie Spencer is going to get the call over Dallas Bateman, but Bateman is a hard hitter and can stop Spencer should he connect with the right spot. Spencer made a great showing the night he beat Willie Brown at Hollywood.

Herman Auerbach gets the call over Billy Clark. These lads haven't been seen at Hollywood. Clark is making his first start and Auerbach has been away so long that he is practically a stranger. Auerbach is a hot better fighter since he fought at Hollywood. He has been developing rapidly and should beat Clark.

ANGLERS LUCKY AT RAINBOW

Members of the Rainbow Angling Club back from tripe to the club this week declare that the club's stream is one place where limit catches of trout are being landed. Hard-luck tales are being heard by fishermen who have tried out the various streams in the San Bernardino Mountains.

"...a shirt's a shirt," but a Hendan shirt has many special features that make it look better, fit better, and launder better than ordinary shirts...

Sold at Most Better Men's Stores in the West

ONE button more than the average shirt, to keep the front neatly and comfortably closed, even when the wearer is extra long-waisted, or stout. Also, the side seams are sewed three inches deeper, to prevent a gap showing at the side when trousers are worn low over the hips for easy comfort. Finally, for both comfort and a straight, smooth-fitting back, the shirt is cut two inches longer in the rear. There's no skimping of materials on the shirt tails. Plenty to tuck in, both back and front.

GODFREY MEETS ROPER TONIGHT

the feature match and it is a bout that should fill any of the larger clubs. Godfrey and Roper are unquestionably the two best heavyweights on the Pacific Coast and there are few better any place in the world.

The way the fight between this pair ended a few weeks ago in Oakland made a rematch a good natural and Promoter Murray was quick to sign it up. Roper went down in the ninth round after leading Godfrey most of the way. Roper claimed Godfrey fouled him to keep from losing the decision, but the referee counted Roper out so the fight goes on record as a knockout.

BY BILL WISE

Harold Thompson, Bruin golf star, slipped home with a par, breaking 70 to cop low gross in the qualifying play of the first annual Southern California intercollegiate championship affair, staged over the Girard course yesterday.

Jack Gaines of Redlands, city municipal champ, also did a little tee and greens scorching on his own account and chalked up a 71 for a second low gross in the competition that drew nearly two-score representatives from Southern California educational institutions.

Dick Walker and Prende Combs, Trojan golfers who made the grade, must meet in a first-round match today. Second-round matches will be played tomorrow, with semifinals and finals Saturday.

SOUTHERN TO DRAW WOMEN GOLFERS SOON

Feminine activity over the busiest golf sector in the country will slip back into high speed this week—continue at a feverish pace through the greater part of next week, and will climax with the eighteen-hole qualifying round for the women's southern championship, scheduled for Hillcrest, one week from next Tuesday.

Hillcrest has always been one of the most carefully groomed courses in the West, but the layout today will be a surprise to more than 100 local women, expected to play in the annual down-State feminine classic.

Mrs. Gregg Lifur of the California club, who won the championship at Midwick last year, will defend her representative crown over the most immaculate course in the Southland. Greens are just about as perfect as could be imagined and—hold pitches, perfectly. Hillcrest is not a stiff test of golf but requires a stought heart and sturdy muscles for best results.

Playing with Mrs. Harry Grossman yesterday, Mrs. Dan Jones of Brentwood, State champion—wasted several shots and had absolutely no difficulty in chalking up an 84. Mrs. Grossman medal was approximately the same—two very bright indications of just what scoring in the southern championship should be.

Entries for the southern should be phoned or mailed to the Hillcrest club as soon as possible. Post-entries will be accepted but pairings will be drawn from entries received before noon, one week from Saturday, other contestants must await the starters' convenience.

All members of the women's auxiliary of the Southern California Golf Association, with handicap ratings not exceeding 18, are eligible to play in the southern. Contestants must qualify, according to handicap. Divisions will be announced later. There will be no mixed foursome event staged in connection with this year's affair.

BEL-AIR INVITATION NEXT ON PROGRAM

The first annual invitational tournament of the new Bel-Air Country Club, will open with an eighteen-hole qualifying round that may be played one of two days, Monday or Tuesday, the 16th or 17th inst.

Bel-Air will be found to be one of the sportiest courses in the Southland and has already gained national recognition, for sectional qualifying for the national open will be staged over the course next month. U.S.G.A. golf moguls named Bel-Air yesterday, but will not stipulate the number to qualify from this district until entries will have closed, late this month.

Amateurs must qualify in the Bel-Air invitational, as follows: Scratch to 8—first two flights; 9 to 13, first five flights; 14 to 19, first eight flights. There will be an eighteen-hole consolation round for nonqualifiers and players defeated in first-round matches and there will also be a two-ball mixed foursome affair held in connection with the invitational. Entries will be accepted and starting times allotted by phoning the Bel-Air club.

TROJAN FACULTY IN EASY DIAMOND WIN

Proving themselves physically as well as mentally superior to their rivals, the faculty of the University of Southern California defeated the class of '27 in an indoor baseball game, 18 to 12, yesterday. The annual affair was under the auspices of Skull and Dagger, honorary fraternity, and was enlivened by a two-inning exhibition on the part of the pledges. Dressed in grotesque costumes, and packing umbrellas, they booted away the game in the last two innings after Lee Conti had baffled the faculty for five innings. Buster Keaton umpired, wearing two large, potent guns for protection. The score:

Faculty	0	1	1	0	4	4	8	—18	20	3

Batteries—Crawford, Eddy, Jones, Perino and Wilson; Conti and Begretti.

WHEN the abolition of spring football is put to a vote at the next meeting of the Pacific Coast conference, it is very likely that the sponsor of the movement, Coach John J. McEwan of Oregon, will have a lone supporter in Coach Nibs Price of California. The other seven coaches of the conference will stand pat.

McEwan advances four arguments for giving spring practice the gate. None of them are sound. Argument No. 1 says spring practice is not necessary. Neither is a water boy. Argument No. 2 says spring practice stresses the game too much. Why? Because it develops new men and opens a training avenue to all? Argument No. 3 says spring practice aids and abets commercialism. How many folks pay scalpers' prices to see a spring football practice? Argument No. 4 says spring practice makes it tough on the players in keeping up their studies. Sure, and all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy.

It is easy to see that Stanford and California will lock horns over the matter. Stanford will be tooth and toenail against kicking spring practice overboard and starting the regular season two weeks earlier while California will be for it, for very obvious reasons.

According to the rules of the Coast Conference, the coaches cannot start their fall training until September 15. Classes get under way at Berkeley a little after the middle of August and all the pigskin warriors are on the campus before the first of September. At Palo Alto the situation is the reverse. The fall term opens October 1, and Stanford naturally will feel it is tough enough already getting the athletes on the scene of action two weeks before school opens without making it four weeks before the official send-off.

There has been a great hue and cry the past week for Jack Dempsey's services on numerous flood benefit programs. Jack Doyle sent his courier, the eminent Mister Hayden Wadhams, up to Ojai to talk things over with the ex-heavy champeen last week; Willie Ritchie, the ex-lightweight king, has been flooding the wires with appeals to Jack to appear in San Francisco along with him, James J. Jeffries, Tom Sharkey and other notables on a benefit card, and there have been many other propositions made to the Manassa Mauler along these lines. So far, however, the only plea to which Jack has bent an attentive ear is said to be the Red Cross program at the Gables Club, on which he has consented to appear at Santa Monica next Sunday. Some of the local scribes have said cutting things about Jack's ring activities in Los Angeles, and he is said to resent it keenly enough not to give them additional chances to say anything, benefit or no benefit.

Expect Record Crowd to See Ascot Program

Thirty thousand spectators is the estimate put on the attendance at Ascot Speedway Sunday afternoon by Promoters Macdougall and Luts yesterday, following the response they received from Southern Californians following their announcement that all of the profits and 10 per cent of the gross receipts of the day would be devoted to the fund for the relief of Mississippi Valley flood victims.

An eight-race card has been arranged for the day and speed fans will see nearly thirty of the greatest dirt-track stars in the country in action during the afternoon.

Practice is going on at Ascot daily and there is every reason to believe that the marks established three years ago will fall before the attack of the drivers next Sunday. Last week the condition of the track was the best in Ascot history, and work this week is expected to have it fast enough so that the old track record of 29 2-5s., established by Ralph De Palma three years ago, will be in danger in every event.

HOUSE AND PALMER SQUARE OFF TONIGHT

"K.O." Mack House, sensational negro heavyweight, is taking on Walter (Kid) Palmer, a slightly smaller but exceedingly tough member of his own race, in the main event at the Pasadena Armory tonight. Palmer does look like a great fighter, despite his smaller size in this bout, and is likely to give House the hardest battle that flash has had at the Armory.

In the six-round semifinal Joe Bailey and Jack O'Brien, welters, will try to settle an argument that recently ended in a draw. The six-round special is between a pair of slugging middleweights, Tommy Moore and Hank Gatton. Two other middleweights, Al Wilton and Battling Carrasco, will open the show, being booked for four rounds.

POMONA NINE TO PLAY ENGINEERS

POMONA COLLEGE (Claremont) May 3. (Exclusive)—Fuzz Merritt pits his Pomona College ball team against the strong California Tech nine next Saturday, playing the fourth conference game here. That leaves but two weeks of the season for the Sagehens, and so the game will be something of a turning-point toward the top or the bottom of the standings. Pomona started its schedule with victories over San Diego and Redlands, lost to U.C.L.A. and played La Verne here yesterday.

COX BEATS FOX WITH CUE

Wallace Cox defeated J. E. Fox in a semifinals match of pocket-billiards last night by a score of 75 to 58, at the Hillstreet Billiard Parlors.

BRAZILL'S CASE STIRS UP OSCAR

OAKLAND, May 4. (AP)—Oscar Reichow, business manager of the Los Angeles baseball club, announced today that unless Frank Brazill, suspended third baseman, was back in the line-up in two weeks, the case would be appealed to the Coast League directors, and possibly to Judge K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball.

Brazill was suspended indefinitely on charges of having attacked Mal Eason, umpire, during a ball game. Reichow admitted today that Brazill and the umpire wrestled and punched at each other, but denied that Brazill kicked Eason.

Zorilla Wins Decision Over King in Battle

Santiago Zorilla, Panamanian sensation, won from Ritchie King in easy fashion in the ten-round main event at the Wilmington Bowl last night. King took the first round, but Zorilla had the nine remaining cantos. At that, King gave Zorilla the best fight he ever has experienced in the harbor bowl. He made the mistake, however, of continually shooting for Zorilla's head, and the Indian proved too fast, and too clever.

LARRY MURPHY IS BEATEN IN NORTH

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4. (AP)—Johnny Friston, New York welterweight, won a ten-round decision over Larry Murphy, Los Angeles, at National Hall here tonight. Murphy had a shade in the first two rounds, but the fight was fairly even until the eighth, when Friston drove his opponent to the ropes and dropped him with a hard left to the stomach.

For the rest of the eight rounds Friston batted Murphy all over the ring, and he continued his drive to take the ninth and tenth rounds.

YACHT SEASON WILL OPEN

The Southland's summer yacht racing program will get under way at the harbor tomorrow afternoon when seven sporty R-class sloops and five Star-class boats answer the gun off Weldt Rock, for the first of the thirty races which will be sailed by these two classes before August 30.

The three-race series this week-end will constitute the spring half of the six races for which the California Yacht Club has offered a set of trophies.

In the R-class seven boats have entered: The Debra, California, Pirate, Galliano IV, Patricia, Heather and Smiles, ex-Peggy. Among the Stars interest will be centered on Commodore Rey Schauer's Movie Star II, his international championship contender of last season.

Local Netmen Will Meet Northerners Tomorrow

Strong Invading Court Team Led by Holman

Gorchakoff Pilots Defending Array of Talent

Three-Day Meet Arranged for Local Net Fans

North meets South tomorrow at the Ambassador Hotel when tennis stars from San Francisco and Los Angeles engage in dual contests in the first annual intercity tennis championships. Manager Jacques Goldberer, director of sports at the hotel, has arranged a three-day meet between the two teams where the pick of both cities will fight for supremacy on the courts.

The north will be represented by an exceptionally strong squad in Cranston Holman, second nationally ranking college player of Stanford; Gerald Stratford, Ojai men's champion; Phil Neer of Portland and Ray Casey, Bay City racketer. Opposing this group, the south will send its present best in a trio of rising youngsters, Ben Gorchakoff, State college champion and Southland men's title-holder; Johnny Doeg, national junior champion; Ed Berry, Norval Craig and Clif Herd.

The first matches open Friday afternoon. Ray Casey and Ben Gorchakoff will open the first annual intercity battle at 2 o'clock, while Gerald Stratford and Johnny Doeg will also engage in a friendly battle later. The second day brings together two crack collegian stars in Cranston Holman and Ben Gorchakoff, the first meeting of the two. A match between Neer and Norval Craig should prove a struggle also.

Among the specially arranged exhibition matches is the mixed doubles slated for Sunday featuring both Mr. and Mrs. Sutton Bundy, both former national champions. They will cross rackets with Marion Williams and Ed Berry. Mrs. May Sutton Bundy tangles with Marion Williams Saturday in another special exhibition.

The team match between San Francisco and Los Angeles includes an odd number of eleven tilts, the winning team to be decided on a point basis. A large Ambassador Hotel trophy will be awarded the winning squad.

Rose is Hero as Missions Trim Seattle

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4. (AP)—In a spectacular finish, the San Francisco Missions came from behind today to noe out Seattle, 8-7, with Ed Rose, centerfielder, hero of the day. With none out in the ninth and four tallies behind, he smacked a homer over the right-field fence to score two runners ahead after his team mates, Wade and Gillespie each had hit in a run. It made two straight games for the Missions.

BENT, CAMPBELL WIN POMONA TENNIS TITLE

POMONA COLLEGE (Claremont) May 4. (Exclusive)—Outstroking their opponents for a straight-set victory, Don Bent, sensational freshman, and Ted Campbell, former LaFayette University star, yesterday won the Pomona College tennis doubles championship, defeating Frank Baker and Levan Zerbe, 6-1, 9-7, 7-5. The winners will receive the B. K. Dyas trophy for their efforts, in addition to all the glory that goes with the doubles title. They clearly outplayed Baker and Zerbe and, although meeting terrific opposition in the last two sets, managed to win both times.

TROJAN FROSH WILL MEET SANTA ANANS

While the varsity is preparing for its meet with the L.A.A.C. a week from Saturday, the U.S.C. frosh track squad journeys to Santa Ana Saturday to meet the combined teams of the junior college and high school of that city. Three of Coach Tex Oliver's best prep runners will be missing, Capt. Harvey Baer, Harold Breeding and J. Moffat, having qualified for the State meet at Modesto, but the remaining athletes will perform, and should give the frosh some strong competition. It is planned to enter the yearlings in the Orange county relays a week from Saturday.

MERCURY MITTMEN RETURN FROM TRIP

Mike Waters, Huerta Evans and Martin Malone, the three Los Angeles Athletic Club mittmen who went to Boston in quest of national amateur boxing titles returned home yesterday, wiser but not richer so far as pugilistic honors are concerned. Waters lost on a foul, Evans dropped his chances on a close decision and Malone went by the way side when he stopped a hard sock in the jaw that put him out. Out of the three, Waters has about the only real good alibi.

RING BOARD TO MEET IN NORTH

SACRAMENTO, May 4. (AP)—The State Athletic Commission will hold a meeting in San Francisco Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the branch offices of the commission in that city. This will be the first session since March and routine business will occupy the commissioners' time, according to Secretary Walter A. Yarwood.

STARS CHARMED BY ED TOMLIN

Curt Fullerton started on the mound for the Sheiks and was followed in more or less rapid order by Hulvey, Jacobs and Dick McCabe, Hulvey was charged with the defeat, for he was on the mound at the start of the seventh, during which inning the Stars lost their one-run lead and the ball game.

The Beavers started the run-making in the second, when they nicked Fullerton for three hits that produced a couple of markers. After Bagwell had rolled out, McCurdy punched a double to left to start trouble for the Stars. Cissell singled over second, scoring McCurdy and took second on Sweeney's throw in the general direction of the plate. Yelle popped to Kerr, but Tomlin smashed a hit past Lee to bring Cissell home.

Hollywood evened it up in the home half of the round when Lee Sheehan homed over the left-field bricks, bringing in Johnny Frederick, who had singled, ahead of him.

Both sides scored one in the third. Elmer Smith opened the Beaver half of the inning with a double to center and took third on Prothro's single to infield. Strand's sacrifice fly to Sweeney scored Smith and advanced Prothro to second. Prothro took third on a wild pitch but was out at the plate when Kerr took Bagwell's hopper and tossed to Murphy in time to beat the Duck third-sacker home. When McCurdy singled to right, putting Bagwell on third, Vitt yanked Fullerton and sent in Hulvey. Before Cissell could do anything official, Bagwell was caught at the plate on an attempted double-steal. Murphy to Kerr to Murphy. A walk to Lee, Kerr's sacrifice, Tomlin's wide throw to second in an attempt to pick off Lee, and Smith's bobble of the ball in center accounted for the Stars' third-inning marker.

MURPHY HITS HOMER

Portland went in front again in the fourth when Cissell was hit by a pitched ball and completed the circuit on Yelle's bunt and Sigafoos's single, but the Stars took the lead in their half when McDowell singled and Murphy slammed one into the right-field bleachers.

Everything went well for two innings, but in the seventh the Ducks scored four times to sew up the struggle. Tomlin opened the frame with a double and Sigafoos sacrificed him to third. Vitt ordered Smith passed and then Prothro ruined the strategy by rapping one of Hulvey's slow balls down the right-field line for three bases, Tomlin and Smith counting. Jacobs here relieved Hulvey. The Star southpaw hit Strand and Bagwell to fill the bases. A wild pitch followed, Prothro scoring, so Jacobs was derricked in favor of McCabe, who completed the task of walking McCurdy. Lee threw out Cissell at first, Strand counting. Kerr tossed out Yelle to end the inning.

Tomlin's freak homer came in the eighth, while Parry O'Brien's triple and Cissell's single gave the Beavers their final run in the ninth.

Tomlin walked Lee and Sweeney and Tierney singled to give the Stars a run in the home half of the ninth, but Frederick grounded to McCurdy to end the struggle. The score:

SAINTS AIM AT SECOND PLACE

Hope to Finish Near Top in State Track Meet

Santa Ana Coach Predicts Fifteen Points

Look to Breeding and Bear as Mainstays

SANTA ANA, May 4.—While it would be Thomas foolery to suggest that "Tex" Oliver's henchmen might arise to the heights and stick a running nose out in front of those extraordinary Glendale Dynamiters in the State interscholastic meet at Modesto Saturday, there are good reasons to suspect that the Santa Ana High Schoolers will be good for one more surprise and pin a toehold on second money, Pasadena or no Pasadena.

Pasadena, it will be recalled, was tied for the second spot in the Southern California interscholastic at the Coliseum Saturday by the youthful Mr. Oliver's hearties and 'twas bruited about considerably that Coach Claude Hippler of the Millionaires was greatly exasperated at this unexpected turn of events.

Young Mr. Oliver is not inclined to puffery as those who know him will testify, but after making a cursory inspection of the Northern California interscholastic results at the Stanford Stadium Saturday, in which the premier tracksters of that region bowed their respective craniums to Berkeley, and getting an earful from Chico where Vallejo outniggered an evenly-balanced field of young athletes, the Santa Ana mentor began "figgering" his charges would be up there—or thereabouts at 5 p.m. this Saturday.

LOOKS FOR POINTS

Oliver doesn't see how Santa Ana will score anything less than the fifteen points it recorded at the Coliseum, but he does feel that Pasadena is likely to lose some of its fifteen points rather than enlarge on its total; in other words, that Poly is more certain of holding its digits than is Pasadena.

"Jeddy" Welch, the skinny hurdler who scored a double victory for Pasadena at the Coliseum, is not such a cinch to repeat at Modesto because Bert Ritchey, the black fellow from San Diego, may not hit a hurdle up there and lose his stride. Ritchey defeated Welch in the Coast Preparatory League meet at Glendale and he was leading the Pasadenan at the Coliseum until he clicked his next-to-last obstacle. Welch is a cinch, however, in the low hurdles.

Harold Breeding should not have much difficulty in the mile. White of Petaluma is the best man in the north, but the 4m. 39s. he turned in at Stanford won't place him against the southern representatives. Hall and Storms, Breeding's most dangerous adversaries, aren't even eligible for the Modesto fest and the tall Santa Anan has proved on sundry occasions his superiority over Martines of Chino and Callahan of Manual Arts. Hover of Chaffey, may trouble him at the finish, but Breeding should win this race and perhaps smash some records because it will be his last crack at them as a prep-school runner.

BEAR MAY SURPRISE

There are those who maintain still that Harvey Bear can outsprint Frank Wykoff and Russ Slocum, the Glendale phenoms, over 220 yards. Be that as it may, Bear certainly won't be poorer than third at Modesto. Hables of King City, ran 10 2-5s. and 22 2-5s. at Stanford, but he will be lucky to get in the money unless he improves on that this week. Hables is said to have gotten a poor start in the century, however.

John Moffatt, lanky, Poly high-hurdler, who gave the boys a thrill by streaking to third place in the all-southern, may have to dig to hold this place against the northerners, but Moffatt is a fine "come-through" performer and as he can step better than 16s. when he is right, Oliver isn't fretting about his points in this race.

SUIT IMPENDING IN RUM SEIZURE

Federalship Attorneys Plan Action for Damages

Vessel Heads Seaward With Liquor Sealed in Holds

Order for Release Sent to Bay City by Andrews

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4. (Exclusive)—The long arm of the law which Uncle Sam stretched 300 miles out to sea to seize the liquor carrier Federalship two months ago, will be shackled with a heavy damage suit as a reminder that twelve miles is the limit of its authority at sea, according to legal representatives of the released vessel. They said they will conduct a conference with the ship's owners before taking action but intimated that actual damages in excess of $25,000 will be asked and punitive damages in several figures.

After all the formalities of release in conformity with a Federal Court order had been accomplished today, the Federalship steamed through the Golden Gate to sea shortly after 2 p.m. Sealed in its holds are 12,500 cases of liquor taken aboard into in February at Vancouver and consigned to Buenaventura, Colombia. Even thirteen quarts that had been taken from the cargo by Federal officials when the vessel was seized March 1, last, for the purpose of using as evidence in a projected prosecution, were returned and stored before the ship sailed.

At his own request, the private cabin supply of Capt. S. S. Stone also was sealed and assurances given that none of the liquor would be removed from the bond until destination is reached. A Coast Guard envoy accompanied the liquor carrier to sea, to remain with it until the twelve-mile limit was passed.

The vessel was shotlled into submission at the time of seizure on the ground that the liquor really was meant to be landed in California and the ship's papers were camouflage.

The Panama flag was hoisted when the release order was delivered today.

The Federalship's seizure brought about diplomatic overtures between the United States, Canada and Panama, and it is considered likely that the action of Federal Judges Bourquin and Kerrigan in ordering the vessel released will bring about a drastic interpretation of the Volstead Act and its powers.

ANDREWS ACTS TO END CONTROVERSY

WASHINGTON, May 4. (AP)—Steps to end the long controversy over the Panama registered steamer Federalship were taken today by Assistant Secretary Andrews, in charge of the Treasury's prohibition and customs service, who ordered the Collector of Customs at San Francisco to release the vessel if court orders for such action had been issued.

The instructions were sent to W. D. Hamilton, the collector, while the ship waited, steam up, and ready to sail with her $1,000,000 cargo of liquors when the signal was given.

Charged with being one of a group of rum runners which had repeatedly landed cargoes on the Pacific Coast, the Federalship was seized nearly 300 miles off San Francisco. Her seizure was termed illegal and a violation of treaty rights by the Federal court at San Francisco, and her crew was released.

A series of note exchanges between Panama and the United States followed, the American contention being that the ship was a notorious rum-runner and that the question of registry had been subordinated by the fact that neither ship nor cargo was Panama owned. The last request of the United States authorities was that guarantees be given by Panama that the craft should proceed directly to her regularly registered port of call Buenaventura, Colombia, if released.

The Department of Justice previously had instructed the District Attorney of San Francisco to drop further charges against the ship and crew on the grounds that her seizure was illegal, but prohibition officials made every effort to hold her.

Disappointment was expressed at prohibition headquarters today over the government's failure to retain custody of the craft pending further negotiations with Panama. Andrews had caused the attention of Panama to be called to what was termed the Federalship's repeated violation of friendly relations between Panama and the United States.

NEW SERUM FOR BITE OF VIPER FOUND

Protection Against All Types of American Snakes Declared Afforded

PHILADELPHIA, May 4. (AP)—Dr. Alfranio De Amaaral, formerly chief of the Sao Paulo Serum Institute of Brazil, has perfected a serum which is declared to be effective against the bites of all three types of poisonous North American snakes—rattlesnake, moccasin and copperhead. The serum was perfected after research at a snake farm at Glenolden, a suburb. The manufacture of the serum, like the research, is under the direction of the Antivenom Institute of America, made up of various scientific organizations and institutions. The finding of Dr. Amaaral and his associates have been confirmed through tests by the United States Public Health Service.

The serum is described as effective if injected within twelve to twenty-four hours of the bite and as the first of its kind equally potent against three distinct species of snakes. The institute is experimenting with the deadly fer-de-lance of the tropics.

Gas Shortage Check Cited in 'Cracking' Suit

INDIANAPOLIS, May 4. (AP)—There would have been a gasoline shortage in the United States from 1913 to 1921 if "cracking processes" had not been used in obtaining gasoline from crude oil, it was declared today in a brief of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana,) prepared for filing here.

The document goes before Charles Martingale, Master in Chancery, in the equity case brought by the government against the Standard Oil Company (Indiana,) and fifty-one other oil companies, to enjoin them from carrying out certain contracts relating to the use of patented processes for "cracking" crude oil to produce an increased quantity of gasoline.

GRAHAMS BUY PAIGE MOTORS

Former Truck Manufacturers Get Jewett Interests

New Owners Plan to Put Millions in Business

Detroit Factory Declared Among Most Modern

NEW YORK, May 4. (Exclusive)—A controlling interest in the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company was obtained today by the founders and former owners of Graham Brothers, manufacturers of motor trucks, which corporation passed to the Dodge Brothers organization in 1925 and later was bought by Dillon, Read & Co. The new managers of Paige-Detroit, Joseph B., Robert C., and Ray A. Graham, signed the contract today. The deal has been approved by the directors of the Detroit company but must be submitted to the stockholders.

GET JEWETT INTERESTS

Upon the completion of this contract the management of one of the oldest automobile plants will pass into new hands. The Grahams will acquire all of the common stock now owned by the Jewett interests in the motor car company. The plan will involve increasing the common stock from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 shares, and the issuance of $4,000,000 7 per cent cumulative voting convertible second preferred stock. No stock offering to the public is contemplated at this time.

Graham Brothers will put $4,000,000 into the business at once and plan to use another $4,000,000 for additional expansion and improvements as rapidly as will be needed in the development of the business.

The Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company is a Michigan corporation, which has, since its organization in 1909, manufactured motor cars in the medium-priced field. Within the last three years it has completed one of the most modern plants in the industry on a forty-five-acre site, located in the western section of Detroit.

MODEL FACTORY

Robert Graham stated today that he and his brothers considered Detroit the most favorable location for an automobile factory and that the Paige plant is modern and located on one of the best sites in that city.

"In taking control of the Paige organization," said Joseph B. Graham, who will be the new president of Paige, "we realize that the Paige factory, with more than 1,000,000 square feet of floor space, is among the most modern in the industry."

An income statement for the first quarter of 1927 announced today showed a loss of $185,798 as against a profit of $305,385 in the first quarter of 1926.

Henry M. Jewett retired as president of the company last December to become chairman of the board. He was succeeded by W. A. Wheeler.

VOTE BATTLE IN FEDERATION

Los Angeles Delegates to Begin Fight Today

Declare They Do Not Get Fair Deal in Balloting

Northern Woman Made Head of State Body

BY MYRA NYE
"Times" Staff Correspondent

SACRAMENTO, May 4. (Exclusive) Mrs. W. W. Green of Biggs today was elected president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs at the twenty-sixth annual convention in Memorial Auditorium. The fight of Los Angeles district for adequate representation is scheduled for tomorrow morning.

Mrs. Green is now president of the northern district. The election was unexpectedly set forward by a motion from a northern woman, and by the ruling of the State parliamentarian, Mrs. Annie Little Barry of San Francisco, preventing any nomination for the presidency from the floor. Four women had been prominently mentioned as possible candidates to oppose Mrs. Green. They are Mrs. James B. Lorbeer and Mrs. Sidney Thomas Exley of the Los Angeles district and Mrs. Henry Denyse and Miss Josephine Seaman of the southern district. Mrs. Green was nominated at a stormy session six months ago.

OTHER OFFICERS CHOSEN

Officers chosen by viva voce vote to serve with Mrs. Green are Mrs. George M. Turner, San Joaquin district, vice-president; Mrs. Lorbeer, Los Angeles district, vice-president-at-large; Mrs. Samuel S. Ripley, Alameda district; Mrs. Ed J. Wales, northern district, and Mrs. George Y. Wing, southern district, auditors. The president will appoint the secretary and parliamentarian. Formal announcement of the election will be made tomorrow.

This was the first battle of the convention war. Talk of secession, begun a week ago because of the complaints of the Los Angeles district on account of repeated injustices, grows in warmth. Indignation meetings are conducted at all hours.

The election of Mrs. Green pleases the north. It also pleases Los Angeles district, Mrs. Lorbeer explained, because it clears the way for a straight-out fight tomorrow on the amendments presented by the Los Angeles Ebell and Friday Morning clubs.

One amendment would have the presidency alternate between the north and the south. The other would provide a more equitable distribution of the voting power. Leaders of the southern cause have expressed divided opinion as to the advisability of a walk-out if the amendments lose.

The fight waged by the Los Angeles district has lessened interest in other matters. Only one resolution was offered by Mrs. George H. Laughlin of Pasadena, chairman of resolutions. This concerns protection of the nation from floods.

MESSAGE TO PRESIDENT

The federation sent telegrams to President Coolidge, Gov. Young and Secretary of the Interior Work asking the national and State governments to outline and adopt flood-prevention measures, with especial reference to the danger of deforestation.

Affirmation of the federation's belief in prohibition and law observance was contained in a telegram sent to Mrs. Henry Peabody of Boston, president of the National League of Women for Law Enforcement. This action, upon motion of Mrs. M. E. Jenkins, followed the address of Mrs. John C. Urquhart of Los Angeles on "Law Observance." Mrs. Urquhart left for Providence, R. I., to represent California at the national convention.

Mab Copeland Lineman spoke on the topic, "Know the Law of Common Things." She urged women to acquire a legal knowledge of property rights in addition to cultural education.

First steps were taken to organize a new department, that of business relations. Mrs. Robert J. Burdette spoke on a plan for raising a foundation fund for the general federation. She took occasion to counteract the assertions of the north that the Los Angeles district is dominated by its wealth.

Speeding Plane Linked to Desk by Radiophone

WASHINGTON, May 4. (AP)—Seated at his desk here, William P. MacCracken, assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics, today spoke by telephone with occupants of an airplane flying high above the earth miles away.

In the plane were Dr. J. H. Dellinger and Hardien Pratt, radio experts of the Bureau of Standards; William B. Stout of Detroit, designer and builder of the craft; R. W. Armstrong of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and Pilots Brooks and Russell.

STEEL BEST TO RESIST QUAKES

Engineers Relate Findings by Temblor Tests

Adobe and Brick Declared of Little Resistance

Devices to Cut Off Gas and Power Advocated

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) May 4. (AP)—Types of structures best fitted to resist earthquakes were considered at the opening meeting today of the eastern section of the Seismological Society of America at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Prof. Charles M. Spofford, head of the department of civil engineering at the institution, who for years has studied construction in relation to earthquakes, declared the tremendous loss of life in recent years could largely have been prevented by proper engineering practice.

The steel framed buildings of lower Broadway would be as safe in an earthquake as would the Leviathan in a storm at sea, if wall, floors and partitions were to be made of steel plates as is the ship, or of reinforced concrete, he declared.

TESTS DETAILED

As a result of a survey of ruins of Messina in Sicily, Kingston in Jamaica, Santa Barbara in California, and Cargago in Costa Rica, Prof. Spofford found that no building constructed entirely of material with a low tensile resistance or little elasticity was safe against severe shock. This applied to adobe, ordinary brick work laid in lime mortar and lime mortar rubble.

General elasticity, continuity and lightness of structures were of more importance than thickness of walls or low height, he declared.

Prof. Spofford advocated automatic devices to cut off gas and electricity at the instant of shock, and attributed to quick action of gas and electric employees at Santa Barbara the salvation of the city from possible conflagration.

Prof. Charles U. Brown of Brown University declared that while hitherto earthquakes have been studied through their effects in a sort of "posthumous" record, the value should not be overlooked of an anticipatory gathering of all geological, geophysical and engineering data that might serve as an appropriate basis for evaluating structures, their types, character, location and possible insurance in terms of earthquake liability.

ADVICE TO LOS ANGELES

Declaring that "a seismograph today is a great deal more of a plaything for the super scientist than a source of information for the engineer," John R. Freeman, a consulting engineer of Providence, R. I., said that efforts should be made to build devices that would measure the strongest earthquakes.

"In Los Angeles," he said, "there should be a seismograph in every fire station, or better, in every public building, if the structural engineer is to have worth while data. It does him no good to have an elaborate apparatus situated on a concrete base over bed rock in the mountains back of Pasadena."

SISTER AND BROTHER IN LOVE MATCH

Boy, Reared by Another Family, Marries Girl in Spite of Mother's Warning

NEW YORK, May 4. (Exclusive) Things were going badly for Mrs. Minnie Greenberg, 15 years ago, there were too many mouths to feed. And so it came to pass that 2-year-old Oscar Greenberg became Max Kashdan by the informal adoption route.

For thirteen years he bore the name of Kashdan. Then "Old Man" Kashdan—according to Oscar—lost his temper over an overturned coal scuttle and shouted at the boy, "You're no son of mine; you're Oscar Greenberg."

A perplexed youth kept on for a time, as Max Kashdan and then, two years ago, he learned, through a Jewish newspaper, that his mother was living, and found her.

A girl of 13 years sat at one end of the family table. She was Mollie Greenberg. "Your sister," Oscar's mother had said.

But a love stronger than that of sister and brother grew up between these two.

Two months ago Mollie and Oscar vanished. A telegram to their mother told of their wedding, it was disclosed today.

"We are married and will make our own home," the telegram read.

Yesterday the police found the contented couple. Both were jailed. Oscar admits his mother said Mollie was his sister. But he says he doesn't believe it, and Mollie says she doesn't, either.

Edison in High Spirits Finishes Long Vacation

FORT MYERS (Fla.) May 4. (AP) Thomas A. Edison was on his way north today in ruddy health and buoyant spirits after a vacation of two and a half months at his winter home here.

Before leaving he expressed the opinion that "Al Smith will never make it," and dismissed evolution with a deprecatory gesture. Answering the question as to what he thought of Gov. Smith's Presidential chances, he declared:

"Being a Catholic or Protestant has no effect on a President discharging his official duties. But Smith is all Tammany and will never make it."

Mrs. Edison said that the long vacation had greatly improved Mr. Edison's health, and disclosed that he had been suffering from a minor stomach trouble before coming south.

MURDER SEQUEL TO MAKING WILL

Mystery in St. Louis Lawyer's Death Deepens

Testament Written Few Hours Before Slaying

Former Pastor's Life Insured for $365,000

ST. LOUIS, May 4. (AP)—Clifford M. Hicks, 28-year-old law partner of former Gov. Major, made a will at 11:30 a.m. last Saturday, about ten hours before he was shot to death, it was learned today.

Hicks bequeathed $1 to his wife and $1 to his mother, stating they were provided for by his life insurance, and left the residue of his estate to Glen Hicks, a brother, whom he named as executor. He carried $365,000 insurance.

A receiver was appointed today for the St. Louis Finance Company, of which the slain attorney was secretary-treasurer. The petition asserted that Hicks was indebted to the company "to an amount unknown."

Hicks, Sunday-school superintendent and former minister, remarked before his death that he was "one of the best-insured lawyers in St. Louis."

Detectives today were working on a dozen or more angles of what was described by Chief of Detectives Kaiser as a "typical dime-novel plot." Hicks's body was found in a clump of bushes Sunday pierced by six bullets.

HEAVILY INSURED

He was insured for $365,000 and insurance seemed to be his first interest since he gave up the ministry seven or eight years ago. Although no longer active as a minister, the funeral of the young lawyer and business man yesterday brought out friends in religious circles and many business men who had known and dealt with him.

Business circles pondered his habit of making daily deposits ranging from $17,000 to $25,000 and withdrawals nearly as large. His widow, whom he had divorced and remarried, is the daughter of wealthy parents.

Police at first believed he was killed by robbers who feared he would identify them after he had reported being robbed of $5000. The appearance of a woman in the case, with whom he dined the night preceding his death, complicated matters, and yesterday's investigation linked him up with John Dunmeyer, a paroled broker convicted of handling bonds stolen in a gigantic mail robbery here in 1923.

Dunmeyer's conversation yesterday increased the skepticism of detectives concerning the robbery. The former broker said Hicks was always evasive about it and quickly changed the subject when it was mentioned. Hicks first reported the money was not insured, but later filed a claim for it.

Dunmeyer told authorities that he and Hicks had been working together recently in obtaining small loans for a finance company.

CLIENTS' COMPLAINTS

A number of complaints which thus far have developed nothing illegal were made against him by clients for whom he handled money, and these led the police to believe he might have been killed by victims of frauds.

His mother-in-law, Mrs Monima Betts, who succeeded her husband as head of the Fidelity Storage, Moving and Packing Company, could throw no light on the identity of the woman with whom he had dined shortly before his death.

She told, however, of going on an automobile ride with her son-in-law a week before the slaying, during which Hicks appeared so nervous and ill at ease that Mrs. Hicks insisted on returning home. Later the attorney admitted he had been threatened and ordered to leave town. Mrs. Hicks begged her husband to leave town and arranged a trip into Arkansas to which Hicks agreed on the day of the murder.

Oklahoma Town Badly Damaged by Hailstorm

SALLISAW (Okla.) May 4. (AP)—A hailstorm followed by more than five inches of rain last night destroyed roofs on a third of all buildings here and broke hundreds of windows, causing damage estimated at $400,000, a survey revealed today.

Hailstones more than an inch in diameter fell for twenty minutes. Some merchants said 90 per cent of their stocks were damaged by water while many persons reported the interior as well as the exterior of their homes wrecked by the torrent.

Trees were stripped of foliage and gardens leveled. A small stream in the center of the town soon flooded an area five blocks in width. No one was known to have been injured seriously.

FILM QUOTA URGED

Australian Cut in Block Booking Also Advocated

MELBOURNE (Australia) May 4. (AP)—The adoption of a quota system "whereby foreign films would be held to a maximum of 50 per cent, together with a reduction in block booking from three years to a maximum of six months," was recommended by Senator Guthrie in an address today to the Federal Films Committee here.

Senator Guthrie also proposed that the Australian censor should translate "American film slang into English."

(A bill which has passed second reading, seeking to aid British motion-picture producers in competing against American films, is now before Parliament in London. The bill would require British motion-picture houses to use at least 7½ per cent of British-made films in their programs, the quota to be increased until it reaches 25 per cent.)

NEWSPAPER STATES FRANCE TO PAY DEBT

PARIS, May 4. (Exclusive)—France will pay the United States the $403,000,000 due next year for the purchase of American army stocks in 1919, says Jacques Bainville, a close friend of Premier Raymond Poincare, in an editorial in the Nationalist newspaper Liberte. M. Bainville states that the French Treasury already possesses sufficient sterling, dollars and other gold securities to discharge the debt right now, and will pay it in June, 1926, when it is due. He cites passages in M. Poincare's Bar-le-Duc speech, revealing the Premier's plans.

MUSCOY

Factors That Win

MUSCOY

Response to the First Offering of Income Homesites on our 11,000-Acre Irrigated Tract of Fertile Land adjoining the City of San Bernardino was immediate and gratifying.

On Sunday, when the property was placed on the market, more than 2000 people inspected our handsome, new Administration Building, the Muscoy Practical Poultry Units, Rabbitry and the immense Development Program being carried out at an expenditure of millions of dollars. Opening sales aggregated $100,000.

Those who bought land did so because they were convinced that Muscoy has all of the essentials that are vitally important in the selection of an Income Homesite.

Check These for Yourself—

LAND—Permanent, dependable income every month of the year requires at least one acre, and preferably from 2½ to 5 acres of deep, rich soil, where a diversity of fruits, vegetables, berries or other crops can be grown in connection with poultry or rabbit breeding. You need plenty of room for houses and outside runs, raising green feed and for expansion. You cannot afford to risk failure by crowding your home, poultry or rabbit units and your garden into a fraction of an acre—with no room for growing.

Muscoy offers you several acres of the finest level land for the price you are asked for a fraction of an acre in many localities. Your land investment here is not top-heavy.

WATER—A dependable, abundant and low-cost irrigation supply is vital to your success on a country income homesite.

Muscoy's water supply and irrigating system are unexcelled in Southern California. Surface flowage from a mountain watershed of 100 square miles through two creeks is supplemented by inexhaustible underground storage reservoirs, the water from which is developed by shallow-lift pumps operating at minimum cost. Water in six-inch steel pipes under pressure is delivered to every homesite. Muscoy land owners own and control the water, a share of stock going free to the buyer with each acre purchased.

LOCATION—Transportation facilities to easily accessible markets and close proximity to schools, churches, modern business houses and to city facilities are necessary to your welfare. A locality remote from these things is a poor selection because it hinders your progress and breeds discontent.

At Muscoy you have service by three transcontinental railways—two of them traversing the property; the Pacific Electric, connecting with all points in Southern California; and paved highways leading in all directions. You have here pressure water, gas and electricity. And you are within 10 minutes' drive from the business center of San Bernardino, one of the fastest-growing and most progressive cities on the Pacific Coast, with a present population of 40,000; the best of schools, from kindergarten to Junior College; parks, theaters, clubs and the most modern metropolitan facilities.

Muscoy's Other Remarkable Advantages—

Muscoy is an immense development—the largest and most complete income home-site community put on the market in Southern California for years. A $5,000,000 improvement campaign is being carried out as rapidly as men and machinery can do the work. A big organization is behind you here in a big way.

Full co-operation is extended to you in poultry or rabbit breeding and in all agricultural lines. Muscoy's experts in crop selection, cultivation and in egg production are at your disposal at all times without cost. This makes your success doubly sure.

Muscoy is a two-hour drive from Los Angeles. An hour's motor trip takes you from here into the marvelous mountain scenery of the Sierra Madres that has made famous the 100-mile Rim-of-the-World drive.

Acreage at the Edge of Fast-Growing City Assures Big Increase in Property Values for Buyers Here

Muscoy, adjoining the city limits of San Bernardino, is immediately in the line of future growth of the city toward the north and west, in which direction the newest and finest residential sections are now being developed. Property values are advancing rapidly.

Full acres from $575 per acre up; small down payment and Easy Terms over a period of years

Call at our office at once for further detailed information regarding money-making opportunities at Muscoy, and let us arrange to take you to the property in one of our private cars, with no obligation on your part. Or send for our illustrated booklet by filling out and mailing the coupon.

HUSAR CITES ARMS DEAL

Sale to Shantung Tupan Admitted

Explanation of Bank Deposits by Accused Angeleno Causes Sensation

[Copyright, 1927, by the Chicago Tribune]

SHANGHAI, May 4. (Exclusive)—Leonard Husar, former United States District Attorney here, now being tried for his asserted receipt of a bribe of $25,000 for suppressing evidence in an international opium smuggling case, testifying in his own behalf today in the United States Court in China, declared that his large bank deposits consisted of profit in an arms deal rather than an opium deal. Mr. Husar's home is in Los Angeles.

Prosecuting Attorney George Sellett was cross-questioning Mr. Husar regarding his large bank deposits the next day following the conclusion of the opium deal when Mr. Husar declared his deposit of $37,000 consisted of his profit in an arms deal he helped put over for Gen. Chang Chung Chang, tupan of Shantung Province in 1925.

Mr. Husar's admission has created a sensation for he was United States Attorney then. According to his testimony he purchased the arms from an Italian and sold them to the Fengtien militarist.

DEFENSE ALIBI

Mr. Husar's chief defense consists of an attempt to prove an alibi to the effect that he was not present when the asserted bribe was paid. Tracy Woodward, American resident in Shanghai, and head of the opium ring, who paid the bribe, and who recently turned State's evidence, testified that he paid the bribe to Mr. Husar in a room in the American Club on the afternoon of December 19, 1925, in the presence of another American attorney here who negotiated the deal and also is under arrest in connection with the Husar case.

Mr. Husar testified that while he was serving as United States Attorney in Shanghai, he also was serving as legal adviser to Gen. Chang Chung Chang and receiving an annual salary of $6000, which was practically double the salary he received as United States Attorney.

AMUSING INCIDENT

Considerable amusement was produced in connection with the trial with Whitney Eissler, China representative of the United States Shipping Board, testifying in behalf of Mr. Husar, who admitted that he was not entitled to wear the Congressional Medal of Honor which he had worn for several years and had asserted he received from Congress several years ago. Dist.-Atty. Sellett wired to the State Department and obtained information that Mr. Eissler had not received the Congressional medal and that he borrowed it from an American stranded in Shanghai several years ago.

The government expects to conclude the case in a week.

ARCHIMEDES HELD OUTDONE

Seattle Professor Announces Angle Trisected, First Step in Squaring Circle

HOUSTON (Tex.) May 4. (AP)—The Houston Chronicle today publishes a story saying that trisection of an angle, which ultimately means the squaring of the circle, apparently had been accomplished by Prof. Bertice G. Hastings of Seattle. It quotes a telegram from Prof. Hastings to his nephew, Ed Rider, a member of the Chronicle staff, as its authority. The problem is said to have baffled the world's mathematicians for centuries.

Rider said he had received a message from Prof. Hastings asserting he was "ready to demonstrate his solution before any body of mathematicians in the world."

Prof. Hastings expected, Rider said, that the principles of the solution will have an important effect in draughting, designing and precision engineering.

Prof. Hastings, who got his ground work in mathematics at West Point, pointed out that more than 200 years before Christ, Archimedes brought out what was credited with being the first false solution. Two centuries ago solutions which were proven false were so many that the French Academy barred them from consideration.

Prof. Hastings's solution of the problem as received here by Mr. Rider, said: "Construct a right angle and on the sides of the right angle lay off equal sects with any radius and its double. Then complete the three squares, or two rectangles with a common unit square. With the sides of the rectangle as a radius, describe an arc of the right angle. Where this arc intersects the sides of the rectangles will be the points of trisection of the arc of the right angle. Connect with the vertex of the angle and three angles of 30 deg. are formed. This is easily proven by the sines of the angles. Since the trisector is double the side of the square, this ratio is one-half or .05000, which is the sine of 30 deg."

PROF. HASTINGS VETERAN TEACHER OF MATHEMATICS

SEATTLE (Wash.) May 4. (AP)—Prof. Hastings of Seattle, who announced through his nephew in Houston, Tex., today that he had discovered a way to trisect an angle geometrically, has been a teacher of mathematics in a high school here for more than twenty years.

Prof. Hastings said he had arrived at the solution of the problem while in a hospital here during February and March. He has written a treatise which is to be published shortly.

LUMBER KING INDICTED

Robbery of Bank Laid to Ring

Arsenal Under Barn of Rich Man Declared to be Haven of Bandits

CRESCENT CITY, May 4. (Exclusive)—Sensational charges that prominent citizens harbored a gang of burglars, robbers, bandits and train wreckers, including the notorious D'Autremont brothers, preceding voting of indictments today by the Del Norte county grand jury against Alex Moseley, wealthy lumberman and politician, and his two sons, Harold and Laurence. They are specifically charged with first-degree robbery in connection with the looting of the local branch of the Liberty Bank, October 15, 1926. The scandal has the entire Siskiyou mountain country "by the ears" tonight.

Three others are under arrest for the bank robbery. They were captured in an underground arsenal, assertedly underneath Moseley's barn, five days after the robbery, and officers said they recovered the $11,500 which had been stolen from the bank. Revelations by the trio and the supplying of several missing links in a circumstantial chain of evidence by a former Los Angeles chauffeur, who testified before the grand jury, resulted in today's true bills.

The chauffeur, Conroy Wilder, it was revealed, had been declared in on the plot, but was frightened. He fled and went to Texas, where he read of the hold-up at Fort Worth and gave information about the underground cavern on the Moseley property.

Then it was learned, officers asserted, that both Roy and Hugh D'Autremont, accused of dynamiting a Southern Pacific train at the Siskiyou tunnel in 1923, in which four members of the train crew were slain, had been harbored at Moseley's lumber camp, along with several other asserted criminals.

Hugh D'Autremont is now on trial at Jacksonville, Or., for the train wrecking and robbery and his brother, Roy, is under arrest on the Orient.

DEATH ASKED FOR HUGH DE AUTREMONT

COURTHOUSE, JACKSONVILLE (Or.) May 4. (AP)—The death penalty for Hugh De Autremont was demanded formally by the State in the opening address to the jury today by Special Prosecutor George M. Roberts. He outlined the evidence upon which the State aims to convict the youthful prisoner of murder in the first degree of Charles Johnson, brakeman, one of the four victims in the Siskiyou train hold-up.

Attorney Roberts presented in chronological order the events of quadruple murder and hold-up of a Southern Pacific train October 11, 1923.

VANZETTI IN PLEA TO GOVERNOR

Sacco Declines to Sign; Affidavits Accuse Trial Judge of Prejudice

BOSTON, May 4. (AP)—Bartolomeo Vanzetti and Nicola Sacco, under sentence of death in the week of July 10 for the murder of a pay roll master and his guard in Braintree seven years ago, today carried their world-wide fight for exoneration to Gov. Fuller with a personal plea for an investigation. The plea was submitted by Vanzetti from his cell in the Dedham jail.

Written by Vanzetti, with the aid of his counsel, the petition was signed by Vanzetti only, although it called for an investigation on behalf of both men. Sacco's refusal to sign was explained in letters submitted by William G. Thompson and Herbert B. Ehrmann, defense counsel, and Dr. Abraham Myerson, Boston psychiatrist, as the result of experience during the past seven years, "which has convinced him that it would be against his faith to do so."

Accompanying the petition, which covered twenty typewritten pages, was what the defense counsel have termed their best legal trump—a set of six affidavits each of which charges that Judge Webster Thayer (trial judge who later refused all exceptions and petition for a new trial,) showed "prejudice and bias" against the men during and after their trial.

The affidavits were signed by George U. Crocker, a leading Boston attorney; Robert Benchley, dramatic editor of Life; Elizabeth Bernkopf, newspaper reporter, who covered the hearings on motions for a new trial; Frank P. Sibley, who covered the trial for the Boston Globe; John Nicholas Beffel of New York, who attended the trial as a reporter for the Federated Press, and Mrs. Louis R. Bantoul of Jamaica Plains, who attended the trial as a representative of the Greater Boston Federation of Churches.

CALIFORNIA IN LEAD AS CLUB STATE

Pays More Membership Tax Per Capita Than Any of Union's Commonwealths

WASHINGTON, May 4. (Exclusive) California in proportion to population would seem to be the "clubbiest" State in the Union, according to taxes paid by club members on dues. For the nine months ending with March, 1927, according to figures compiled by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, the tax on club dues collected in California was $729,355, or about $25,000 less than was collected in the same period the preceding year.

In New York State, with its vastly greater population, the total tax paid on club dues was $1,680,733, and in Illinois, club members paid only $956,668. Whether the heavy club taxes paid in California is explained by the number of clubs and extraordinary number of club members or to a high rate of dues is not shown by the report.

The commissioner's figures also disclose that the total tax on theater-admission tickets in California during the past nine months was $1,003,-163, as compared to $1,491,565 in the corresponding months of the year preceding. When it comes to theater taxes, New York is way out in front of the procession with a nine-month tax aggregating $3,147,483; Illinois stands second with $1,440,737, and Pennsylvania third with $1,178,949.

Chicago Facing Economy Drive to Meet Deficit

CHICAGO, May 4. (Exclusive)—Although the Thompson administration has fallen reluctant heir to an $8,000,000 deficit in Chicago's finances, it was announced today that city employees would be paid, no matter what happens, and that the schools will not be closed or the terms shortened. Instead, there will be rigid paring to the bone of all city expenditures. Many contracts for supplies have already been canceled and the city will go on a hand-to-mouth basis until some way out of the serious situation is discovered.

The deficit will result in more unemployment, for the city cannot go ahead with projects for which $21,-000,000 was voted at the last election. These works would have provided steady work over long periods for thousands. Now, because of the deficit, these bonds cannot be sold.

One plan suggested, is the enactment of a statute providing for tax assessments on the actual valuation of property, instead of one-half value. This would double the city's revenue, but would bring violent protests from taxpayers, already heavily burdened.

Dr. Wheeler's Last Thought of University

VIENNA (Austria) May 4. (AP)—The last understandable utterances of Dr. Benjamin Ide Wheeler, noted educator and president emeritus of University of California, who is dead here, were of the university and "his boys there."

Dr. Wheeler, whose illness was diagnosed as arterio sclerosis, became pronouncedly ill shortly after Christmas, but nevertheless continued to travel extensively in Germany and Central Europe. Alarming symptoms appeared on April 28. Soon after Dr. Wheeler lost consciousness and died peacefully early yesterday morning.

His body will be cremated on Friday after a service by Rev. Cuthbert Wills, chaplain of the British colony here. The ashes will remain in Vienna for the present but possibly may be returned to California at a later date.

AIR CHIEF DISCOUNTS ACCIDENTS

Aviation Safer Than Ever; Deaths of Naval Flyers Due to Bad Luck, Says Admiral

WASHINGTON, May 4. (Exclusive) Flying an airplane is safer today than ever before, in the opinion of Rear-Admiral W. A. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics of the Navy.

In a report to Secretary of the Navy Wilbur today, in connection with the recent large number of air fatalities in the naval air service, Admiral Moffett stated that "a general summation of the history of flying in the Navy discloses that the unfortunate deaths which have occurred in the last few weeks are not a fair criterion, either of the safety of the airplane or the efficiency of the personnel operating them."

Admiral Moffett laid the recent wave of aircraft deaths in the Navy to the "vagaries of fortune." He also asserted that naval records during the twelve months ending March 26, last, disclosed that more than 20,000,000 passenger miles were flown by naval planes.

"During this time," he said, "there were nineteen deaths, or a death for every 1,000,000 miles traveled by the average aviator.

"The scouting fleet alone has just completed a cruise during which more than 750,000 passenger miles were flown and during which there was neither death nor a serious injury to the personnel. More than 3300 landings have been made on the Langley Field without ever seriously injuring an aviator."

High-powered airplane propeller blades, made from ordinary canvas, and compressed into a noncorrosive product of metallic strength, designed to enhance the degree of safety in operation, will be used by the Navy Department on its training planes in the future, it was said today.

COARSE GOLD HOTEL DESTROYED BY FIRE

COARSE GOLD, May 4. (AP)—Defective wiring in an ice plant is believed responsible for the destruction of the Coarse Gold Hotel and three adjoining buildings here this afternoon. Nothing was saved in the fire, which destroyed the twenty-five-room hotel built in 1880 when mining here was in its boom.

The forty-room annex was saved. The loss is roughly estimated at $50,-000, partially covered by insurance. The management has assured accommodations to the crowds who reserved rooms for the Coarse Gold rodeo.

CARROLL GAINS SLOWLY

GREENVILLE (S. C.) May 4. (AP)—Earl Carroll, New York theatrical-producer, still is decidedly weak and is gaining strength very slowly, it was said at the hospital here today where he has been ill several days following his removal from a train bearing him to Atlanta penitentiary.

ON HENPECKS

WHEN I hear a man complaining that he's henpecked I know he's a liar. For the words, "The worm will turn," were not written of the henpecked man.

Once a hen pecks a worm it loses all power to turn.

The chap who sneaks out to the club and confides his domestic troubles in the privacy of the lounge wouldn't be there if half he said were true. He'd be at home with an apron on.

I've noticed, too, that most fellows who yap about being henpecked don't object a bit to being chicken-pecked.

Three-fourths of the men who murmur pathetically that they are abused at home are merely trying to put their spoiled-baby consciences to sleep with a fairly-tale.

They're fishing for sympathy, feminine preferred.

They prefer to give their testimony where there's no chance for cross-examination. Then they give themselves a verdict on their own wishes and the bored listener's perfunctory sympathy. And then they step out.

Really henpecked men, on the contrary, are perfectly safe. The chicken-peck, the real peck of trouble, can not penetrate their cage.

Yes, Palomine, confidential whining doesn't prove you're henpecked. It only proves you're a worm and ought to be.

CHUCKLES from LIFE

Vane Love

You had thought me steadfast, true,
Resolute and staunch, you say.
But there came a lover new
And my heart has turned away.

Were I not so fickle, dear,
You'd not won me with such ease.
If a lady's fancy veer,
It will veer with every breeze.

Love like mine's a weather-cock
That the slightest wind will change.
If I vary, waver, mock,
You should never think it strange.

He I loved before you came
Was a charming fellow, too,
I do not deserve your blame
If I turn away from you.

Flattery's wind will still prevail
To deflect me—west or east,
And which lover blows the gale
Doesn't matter in the least.

Often people go on feeling dull, listless, heavy, when it's not necessary. A sluggish intestinal tract or improper elimination is probably the most frequent cause of foggy moods in healthy folks.

That's why Eno has been called by some enthusiasts a "health drink." In homes of culture all over the world, Eno is chosen as the safe, mild, thorough laxative. A dash in water makes a bubbly, cooling drink that nearly everyone enjoys. Neither in its taste nor its action is there anything about Eno to remind you of ordinary "salts." Its taste is delightful and its action mild.

It will not only help to clear up that present foggy feeling, it may help to prevent real illness.

CALLES IN TALK ON REVOLUTION

Movement Declared Lacking in Leadership

Called Most Unpopular of All Rebellions

Sole Sign of Activity Shown in Savage Attacks

MEXICO CITY, May 4. (Exclusive) Asked for a general statement on the military condition of the country, President Calles today expressed himself as follows:

"No rebellious movement has ever been more unpopular—first, because it is directed against the betterment of the workers and farmers; second, because it is absolutely lacking in leaders of prestige.

"The government faces two problems—domination by the Yaqui Indians and numerous groups of rebels captained by priests operating in the State of Jalisco.

"In Jalisco the sole problem facing the Federal forces is the pursuit of the rebels, as the latter have not and will not be able to control any towns.

"Their sole sign of activity is savage attacks on trains, such as the one on the Guadalajara passenger train on April 18, when they assassinated more than 100 defenseless passengers.

"No serious movement exists in any of the twenty-eight remaining states."

Rebel groups operating in the states of Guanajuato, Jalisco, Zacatecas, Durango, Guerrero, Puebla and Morelos have met reverses or been annihilated or dispersed; it was said today in an official statement by President Calles's chief of staff. Former Gen. Gallegos, accompanied by only five or six men, is reported in hiding. In the last fight, between Federals under Gen. Amarilla and twenty-five followers of Gallegos, eleven insurgents were killed and nine captured, the report said. Gen. Lopez says the rebels are gone from Zacatecas and Durango; in the last fight, near Valparaiso, fifteen were killed, fourteen captured and the total dead were twenty-nine. The Federal losses are placed at two soldiers killed.

Gen. Fox, in Guerrero, reports the insurgents there demoralized after the death of their leader, Baldomero Vidales, and seven other leaders are reported to have surrendered. In Puebla on Sunday the Federals killed four of a band of fifteen under Victoriano Barcenas, the report says, and declares that Epifanio Guerrero and eleven followers were killed in Jalisco. At the Capulin ranch in Guerrero, the Federals say they killed seventeen, including the leader, Julio Topete. At San Jorge in the same State, the Federals are reported to have battled fifty rebels, one among them some of the assailants of the Guadalajara passenger train. Four of the rebels and two Federals were killed, the report says.

For two weeks she lived at one of the best hotels and went around in a hired automobile driven by a chauffeur in livery. Then she left without paying. "Times" Daily Short Story

A PATRON SAINT -

By LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

His life passion was ecclesiastical architecture. He would go anywhere to view a fine church.

HE SHARED with me the back seat of the cab that picked us up at the bureau of the Messageries Aeriennes in the Rue des Pyramides at chill seven of that September morning. We had facing us a compact little Frenchman, with a fetching grin and snapping black eyes in the swart face of a faun; an air pilot, by name Guidon. When my fellow-passenger found this out he elevated fine brows above pale blue, wide eyes, flung out a bony hand in a gesture which I thought theatrical if French, and intoned impressively, though falsetto: "Ah, monsieur! Je vous salute!" Which Guidon, going on his grin, took as a huge joke.

Those two were chattering at a great rate; and since my own French is purely utilitarian, I never suspected that the man at my side was not French till he turned to address me in good colloquial English. Even then I found it hard to accept him as British. No national ever cut a figure less—what shall I say?—typical.

He was long of head and body and limb and amazingly emaciated. Blots of vivid color burned over the high cheek bones in his long, placid face. His temples were hollow, and his skull was streaked with wisps of light brown hair.

I couldn't see what he had done with his hat. His coat and waistcoat were of stout stuff that held still the hall mark of good tailoring; but for trousers he wore sleazy cotton bags wrinkled in the oddest way, horizontally, all up and down each leg, like poor accordion pleating. A bulgy canvas carryall, a moth-eaten steamer rug over his knees, one small brown paper parcel and a larger one naively secured with pins, held, he subsequently told me, all his worldly gear. And he gave the name of Smith.

When he learned that I was to fly to Budapest he became vivacious in a maiden-auntish way, and subtly gave me to understand I was fortunate to have fallen in with him, because he would be my companion du voyage as far as Vienna and I would find few so well equipped to show an air novice the ropes. He had been, he asserted, one of the first civilians to adopt the air as a regular mode of travel. "I am," he confided in modest pride, "the man who started the practice of tipping pilots."

I had supposed that an air pilot, holding a position comparable to that of a sea captain, was a personage of too much consequence to take a tip, but this authority said no, the pilots were underpaid and grateful for gratuities. He advised me for my own good not to give less than 50 francs, or about $3.50 (this was in 1922,) for each leg of our flight.

Guidon had no English, but his grin of a gamin covered us all the while. He was going out to fly a special plane alone for Bucharest. Our pilot for the Paris-Strasbourg flight was following the cab in one of those amusing little French automobiles that dart in and out of heavy traffic with the abandon of insects. His name was Robert, and when a traffic chance halted us wheel to wheel Guidon hopped out and the two pawed each other like puppies.

We were held up for hours at Le-Bourget. The day had broken clear over Paris, but reports said thick weather threatened this side of Strasbourg, and Robert was not keen for that. We wandered gopher around the drome till we tired, Smith lugging his precious rug, gossiping continuously in high-pitched but not unpleasant accents, and giving out no end of assorted information.

He hailed from an English cathedral town, by his account, and his life passion was ecclesiastical architecture. He would go anywhere to view a fine church. Only yesterday he had scaled an iron fence to get into the locked garden of some Parisian church, and had taken a tumble and barked his shanks woefully. He pulled up those weird trousers to exhibit these wounds, and I saw that he wore no socks. And when I suggested that he cover his head against a bleak breeze, lest he catch his death, he replied quite simply, "I haven't got a hat. I gave mine away yesterday."

"What on earth for?"

"I was tired taking care of it. I don't believe in having too many possessions."

In the restroom he produced from the lesser parcel two wee loaves of patent bread. Their fragrance, sniffed in passing a Parisian bake shop, had proved too tempting: "I do adore bread!" He offered me a gnaw, but looked relieved when I said I wasn't hungry, worried off a crust with his teeth, and munched to his heart's content. About mid-morning I bethought me of my flask and invited him to join me in a dram. "I never take spirits," he declared, "but I do love their smell." When I turned away from the water bottle he trotted over to it. "You don't mind, I hope, if I drink out of the glass you used?" He measured a little water into it and blissfully sniffed and swigged. "I always say there's nothing like the aroma of good spirits—except a brewery's. I do think breweries have the loveliest smell!"

A few minutes later, with the spontaneity of a played-out kitten, he curled up on a squeaky wicker settee and went to sleep.

After luncheon Robert decided to have a try for Strasbourg, no matter what. At his insistence I shared the cockpit with him, sitting head and shoulders out of the fuselage. That effortless swift sparing up into the blue of a golden afternoon filled me with an exaltation like nothing I had ever known. But when we had straightened out on our course and I remembered Smith and peered down into the body—he was there, all right, sitting sedately with the rug over his legs, a hunch of patent bread in one hand, lantern jaws busy, gaze steadfast to a little old New Testament in French. I nudged Robert and he looked and laughed and called above the engine noise, "Un vrai original!"

Smith was all of that, and more . . .

We ran into rain an hour or so later, then into blinding mist. Much flying, I take it, must develop a special sense; at all events Robert, without one sign of uncertainty, found in that impenetrable fog the old military flying field at Bar-le-Duc and made a landing that wouldn't have broken an egg shell. In another five minutes Guidon brought his Spad down with as much skill. We trudged down into the town, Smith trotting along with his folded rug held before him like a mangy apron, and lodged at the Hotel de Metz et du Commerce.

The pilots advised taking the night train for Strasbourg, to catch the plane for Prague which would leave there bright and early. But Smith elected to stick; the Messageries Aeriennes, he explained, would have to foot the bills for his accommodation on this forced stop. He loped off bareheaded in a downpour to have a look at the cathedral, and fetched back a poor opinion of it.

Then he went to bed, and for companionship I asked Robert and Guidon to dine with me, supplementing an excellent table d'hote with ecrevisses and champagne. Perhaps this last was what made Guidon find so much entertainment in Robert's translation of American wheezes. Robert was another type entirely, a lively, good-looking fellow with a mind. I complimented him on his English, and he replied modestly that he owed it to an English girl who had been his dear friend during the war. The peace, alas, had decreed their parting!

He and Guidon fell into an amiable wrangle over the relative points of English and French girls as amies du coeur, and one gathered that the English got the decision. Another item added to the score of French dissatisfaction with the peace. The two insisted on seeing me aboard my train. Charming boys: nobody in his senses would have dreamed of offering either of them a tip.

Neither had turned up in Strasbourg when the plane for Prague left the next day; it wasn't until the second morning that I saw Smith again. Then he ambled up while I was waiting for the airdrome car in front of the hotel which had wretchedly lodged me in Prague. He said he had come through all the way from Bar-le-Duc with Guidon, landing about an hour after I had the previous evening. He was carrying that horrid rug as usual, and the remainder of his quaint luggage was intact, all but the patent loaves; they had gone the way of all bread, and he was sad for the loss of them.

On the way out to the drome he told me he was in the habit of spending each winter at the Hotel Sacher in Vienna. Living was cheap there, with the krone at $1.40 the hundred thousand. Madame Sacher he claimed as an old friend. If ever I should chance her way, I would need only to murmur "Smith" to her ear. I might be sure that incantation would work miracles for me.

It transpired that a grave and mannerly Austrian gentleman had been assigned to pilot the passenger plane on the Prague-Vienna leg, whereupon Smith ran down the manager of the airdrome and wrestled with him, all but hysterically, for leave to finish his journey with Guidon. There were real tears in the pale eyes.

The manager, much diverted, in the end consented.

Guidon wasn't to take off till after noon. I looked Smith up just before embarking with my Austrian and found him squatting in the sunny lee of a hangar, poring over his New Testament.

"You are religious-minded, I see."

"Oh, quite," he innocently protested. "I picked this up for two francs fifty at a stall on the quais the other day, and I must finish reading it before Vienna."

"Why before Vienna?"

"Because I am going to give it away when I get there. You see, I've got only twenty-six francs left; so, instead of money in return for his amiability, I am going to make Monsieur Guidon a present of this little Testament. I think," Smith added with confidence in the mild eyes, "he will like it—don't you?"

To my shame, I was tempted to laugh; to my eternal credit, I did not. I perceived all at once that something rather wonderful had happened to me: that the fortuity of travel had put in my way a throwback to another age, a pure type of the medieval ascetic born centuries too late. In the time to which he belonged nobody would have thought him in the least extraordinary; and given a bit of luck, that is to say persecution, he would very likely have handed down to us the name of a saint. He was a queer fish only because he was out of fashion.

For all that, I would have given something handsome for a glimpse of Guidon's impish face when Smith offered to reward him with a New Testament in French of the second-hand value of f2.50.

On the one occasion when I did have the cheek to try to tip a pilot he humbled me with the high courtesy of his declination.

Conference Delegates Ask Cut in Duties

John Fahey Defends Position of United States

WASHINGTON, May 4. (AP)—Another attack on the tariff policy of the United States was made at today's session of the third Pan-American Commercial Conference here by delegates from Argentina and Uruguay, who contended it worked to the disadvantage of Latin-American countries.

It was defended by John H. Fahey, a member of the Inter-American High Commission and a former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, who cited statistics in support of his view that it was fair to all nations concerned.

Luis Duhau, who in an address yesterday, opened the assault on the American tariff, carried his fight a step further today. After assailing the policy of this government in another speech, he offered a resolution which declared that "the development of Pan-American interchange must be sought principally in the gradual reduction of customs duties."

It was referred to the committee on resolutions.

FAHEY MAKES RESOLUTION

To this committee also went a resolution offered by Mr. Fahey, which proposed "that the governing board of the Pan-American Union direct a compilation of statistics, which upon distribution will be useful to all members of the union in arriving at a complete understanding of barriers, technical and otherwise to trade between the countries of the Western Hemisphere."

In his attack on the United States tariff Mr. Duhau had the aid of Enrique A. Schroeder of Uruguay, who held that the rates on wool, hide and meat were having an adverse effect on his country's foreign trade.

Uruguayan institutions represented at the conference, he told the delegates, "request that the Pan-American Union make representations to the United States government in an effort to obtain a reasonable reduction in the customs tariffs on wool and hides and the removal of the existing impediments to the importations of Uruguayan meat."

Mr. Fahey declared, however, that the percentage of dutiable United States imports from Latin-American countries favored those exporting here.

REPRISAL MENTIONED

Mr. Duhau explained the motto of the Argentine Rural Society, of which he is a president. "Buy from those who buy from us," as a reprisal policy which is not permanent.

"It is only an emergency measure," he said, "to be employed while the customs barriers that suffocate the economic development of nations exist."

Antonio Anton of Cuba denounced the "unjust discrimination" in freight rates involving commerce between the United States and Cuba. He advocated a commission to discuss the question and evolve an equitable solution.

The situation of Bolivia was characterized as "onerous" by J. Adolfo Gonzales of La Paz, Bolivia.

"Are these manifestations nothing but courteous demonstrations, empty words for efficacy?" he asked the conference. "Shipments destined to Bolivia are minutely supervised by port authorities of countries through which they must pass. Bolivian customs houses have no autonomy of their own."

He urged the Pan-American Union, with the help of President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg, to find a way for adjusting the "impossible situation of Bolivia."

La Liga de la Paz es Obra de Un Indio

WASHINGTON, Mayo 4.—La liga de los iroqueses, asombrosa organización de un pueblo primitivo para terminar de una vez por todas el derramamiento de sangre humana, ha sido el tema de las investigaciones a que ha consagrado su vida entera el señor J. N. B. Hewitt, etnólogo del Instituto Smithsoniano, quien saldrá mañana de Wáshington para llevar a cabo, durante este verano, los últimos trabajos de campo antes de dar a conocer sus resultados. Comenzó coleccionando datos sobre la liga entre los iroqueses de Nueva York y de Canadá en el año de 1892. Después llegó a ser autoridad en el asunto hasta el grado de que algunos jefes indígenas vinieran a consultarle recientemente acerca de los principios de dicha liga. La federación de las cinco naciones iroquesas fué consumada hacia el año de 1570. La concibió el indio Deganawida.

Miras Ambiciosas de Inglaterra Sobre Estados Unidos

BY-PRODUCT OF LEMONS INCREASING

Gain in Cars Handled at Corona Plants in Season to Date Set at 2600

Approximately 40,000 tons, or more than 2600 cars of lemons were handled by lemon products companies operating in California from November 1 to April 1, last, and during March alone 750 cars were processed, according to a report of Manager H. E. May of Corona to the California Fruit Growers' Exchange. The March volume was more than the average yearly total of a few years ago.

The two Corona plants of the exchange are running three shifts daily, seven days a week. Arrangements have been made for rental of some of the facilities of the exchange orange products plant at Ontario in order that fruit offered by the members for lemon by-products can be promptly handled.

The season to date Mr. May states, has seen the greatest amount of early lemons ever produced in California. Although shipments of fresh fruit to eastern markets are away ahead of any previous season, the by-products facilities owned by the growers have been of great benefit in that they furnish an outlet and some return for surplus, lower grade fruit. Total shipments of California lemons during the period from November 1 to April 1, last were 4554 cars, over 600 cars more than were shipped in the same period of the preceding year.

The Exchange Lemon Products Company at Corona is now employing a force of 140 men daily. At maximum production, about 500 tons of lemons or a car every hour, are converted into by-products.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, May 4. (Exclusive)—The cotton market was strong and fairly active today, with prices working up over 30 points on the average, or $1.30 a bale from yesterday's closing advance of 35 to 50 points. It brought May contracts here up to 15 3-4 cents, July close to 16 cents, October of the new crop to 16.30 cents and December and January to about 16 1-2 cents.

These prices, the highest since early last September, illustrate how seriously the trade is regarding the flood situation.

Foreign spinners were heavy buyers of cotton futures in Liverpool and of Egyptian futures on the Alexandria market again today and their extensive advance was the direct cause of the further rise here. Egyptian futures went up 30 to 65 points.

Spot cotton at Liverpool advanced 21 English points to 8 3-4d a pound for middling, while futures closed firm near the top at about 20 points net advance on the day, or twice as much as had been due.

Further heavy rains in Mississippi and Northern Louisiana overnight with another serious break in the levees attracted attention stimulating new trade buying and for the first time also some new outside buying. Jackson, Meridian, Vicksburg and Yazoo City in Mississippi had from one to one and three-eighths inches of rain in the official report overnight.

GIANNINI SAYS MONEY PLENTIFUL ON COAST

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—Money is plentiful on the Pacific Coast and banking conditions are excellent, said A. P. Giannini, chairman of the Bank of Italy, and president of the Banc-Italy Corporation, today before sailing for Europe. Business on the Pacific Coast is good, especially in California. All but $5,000,000 of Banc-Italy Corporation's $130,000,000 capitalization is invested in securities, he said, and on July 2 its capitalization will be increased to $180,000,000.

BANK MERGER PROFITABLE

First Month Following Bank of Italy Consolidation Shows Increase; Higher Rate Expected

BY EARLE R. CROWE

From an operating point of view the consolidation program of the Bank of Italy is evidently an outstanding success at this early date. The financial results as unofficially reported are more than satisfactory, and the machinery linking the 276 banking offices scattered from the Oregon to the Mexican boundary lines is running as smoothly, it is stated, as the initial process of fusing the various units was accomplished.

Frequently, considerable time must elapse before the operating economies contemplated in a large consolidation are realized. In the first month following the consolidation it is understood that net profits of the Bank of Italy, in contrast to the usual experience, were approximately $600,000, a gain of more than 25 per cent over comparative profits prior to the merger program. Since that time the earnings have increased at even a greater rate, and now it is estimated that net for the year will run between $10,000,000 and $11,000,000.

CONJECTURES ACTIVE

In anticipation of these results conjectures have been current concerning a possible increase in the dividend when the rate on the new $25 par value stock is fixed. On the old stock the Bank of Italy was paying $18, or the equivalent to $4.50 on the new stock. The popular assumption is that the new rate will be established at $5 a share, or an increase of $2 annually on the old stock.

If profits run in conformance with the estimate of around $10,000,000, the Bank of Italy in 1927 should earn better than $8 a share on the 1,300,000 shares of $25 par value outstanding. At this rate a $5 dividend would easily be justified.

The initial statement of the consolidated bank as a member of the National Trust and Savings Association discloses a significant point that catches the eye of even the casual observer. The combined capital investment of the Bank of Italy, and its subsidiary, the National Bancitaly Company, is stated after deduction of the good will cost of the 178 banking offices purchased from the Liberty Bank of America and the Italian-American Bank. Writing off this cost, which might well have been set up in the statement of condition as an asset, excited the frank admiration of eastern bankers, it is reported, who themselves have been engaged in large bank consolidations.

INCREASE PLANNED

Progress of the Bancitaly Corporation, the investment trust specializing in bank stocks, has also been satisfactory from the remarks made yesterday by A. P. Giannini in New York. Just before sailing for Europe, Mr. Giannini said that capitalization of the corporation would be increased on July 2 to $180,000,-000.

Just what this means to stockholders is not exactly clear, although it is probable that the increase in outstanding capitalization will come from the $50,000 shares authorized for issuance in February, but withheld at that time. The directors authorized a total issue of 1,000,000 shares of which 450,000 were offered to the stockholders for subscription. Stockholders waived their rights to the remainder, which is probably the stock that will be issued in July.

In his New York statement Mr. Giannini also observed that all but $5,000,000 of the existing capitalization of $130,000,000 is invested in securities. He expressed the opinion that the large banks of New York City have not begun to reflect the prosperity of the country in the price of their stocks.

AMERICAN FOUNDERS' TRUST ASSETS GAIN

Total resources of the American Founders' Trust at the close of the fiscal year ended November 30, last, amounted to $18,880,985.35, as compared with $6,445,896.13 on November 30, 1925, according to the company's annual report issued yesterday by Louis H. Seagraves, president. Capital and surplus at the close of the year totaled $12,979,646.44, and financing during January and February of this year brought the total to $16,917,-019.44.

Gross cash earnings for the fiscal year were $1,327,280.23. After payment of charges, taxes and dividends on the preferred stock the trust carried to surplus, $507,326.89 in cash.

Reserves for the first preferred and share dividends appropriated from surplus now total $257,104.81. The reserve for dividends on second preferred stock has been accumulated to its maximum of $71,400, or five times the annual dividend requirements on the second preferred shares.

JULIAN OFF IN FURTHER PRICE DROP

Julian Petroleum preferred featured trading on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday, declining under heavy selling to another new low record for all time at 2½, later rallying to a close at 3 1-4 for a fractional net loss for the day. The common lost 10 cents to 55. In the absence of an official statement, numerous conflicting rumors were advanced as the cause for the decline.

Former United States Senator Frank P. Flint, chairman of the California-Eastern board, said, however, that no new developments had taken place in California-Eastern and that everything is being done to place the reorganized business in operation. He expects the exchange of stock will be made as soon as the audit of the Julian certificates is completed, in approximately ten days.

The balance of the oil list was stronger, as the gasoline price war ended. California Petroleum advanced 1 3-8 points to a high at 25 7-8 and Union Oil of California added 2 1-4 points to 44 1-4 and closed 1 1-4 points higher at 44 1-4. Standard moved up 5-8 points to 54 3-8. Richfield made the greatest gain, adding 2 7-8 points to a close at 21.

Bancitaly Corporation closed 1-4 of a point off at 113 3-4, while Bank of Italy lost 1½ points to 171½. Sunnyside Consolidated rallied 3½ cents to 13½ to lead activity in the mining list.

Willys-Knight April Sales in Sharp Increase

TOLEDO (O.) May 4. (Exclusive) Sales of Willys-Knight and Whippet motor cars for April in the United States and Canada totaled 27,401, giving an increase of 40 per cent over sales for the same period of last year, according to a statement given out today by John N. Willys, president of Willys-Overland, Inc.

This brings the total sales of this company for the year to date up to and including April 30, to 80,782 cars, the gain over the corresponding period of four months for last year being 27 per cent. In money value of retail sales the gain over last year is $17,169,000.

Complete registrations for January and February combined with those for March, which include all but a few States where registrations are relatively unimportant in their general influence on the total, show a gain for Willys-Overland during the first quarter of 16 per cent with the industry as a whole showing a 2.6 per cent loss.

On the Pacific Coast and in the Inter-mountain States the Willys-Overland gain for the first quarter over last year was 94 per cent, while the industry as a whole showed a loss in this same territory of 13 per cent. The Middle Western States, including Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Montana and Wyoming showed a Willys-Overland gain of 90 per cent against a gain in the industry as a whole of 13 per cent.

STOCK AND BOND VALUES UP

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—The aggregate market value of stocks and bonds listed on the New York Stock Exchange was $75,543,769,806 of January 1, it was revealed in the annual report of E. H. H. Simmons, president of the exchange, made public tonight.

This represents an increase of more than $5,500,000,000 in a year, nearly four-fifths of which was accounted for by increases in the market value of stocks and the remainder by the increased value of bonds. The aggregate value of listed securities at the beginning of 1926 was $69,-996,458,583.

The report shows the average price of all shares reached a peak on November 1, 1925, when it touched 70.47, and never during 1926 was the figure again reached. "This," the report said, "would lead to the conclusion that instead of the rise in share prices in 1926, concerning which there has been so much published comment, actually a decline occurred. However, 1926 was very exceptional for the great number and size of the stock split-ups which tend to artificially depreciate these average figures. The result is, even this all-inclusive average falls clearly to reveal whether or not 1926 was a year of rising stock prices. Careful estimates of the importance of this and other similar causes for variation in the average of all listed shares, however, go to show that the average price for all listed issues was reduced only a few points." The average of bond prices moved upward both in 1925 and 1926, the trend being slightest in United States government issues and greatest in American railway bonds.

Last year was the second since 1900 during which no insolvencies occurred among stock exchange members. The success in avoiding insolvencies was attributed by Mr. Simmons in a large measure to the questionaire system adopted by the exchange in 1922.

Discussing members' loans, Mr. Simmons said that "their growth in the past few years has occurred concurrently with a similar growth in securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange, as well as in practically all total figures for American banking. It is at any rate significant that on February 1, 1926, total exchange member borrowings constituted 4.952 per cent of the market value of all securities listed on the exchange, but on January 1, 1927, member borrowings amounted to only 4.353 per cent of the market value of all listed securities on this latter date."

GASOLINE SALES GAIN REPORTED

Gallonage Increase for State During Quarter is Placed at 9 Per Cent

Consumption of gasoline in California during the first three months of the current year increased more than 9 per cent over the same period of last year, resulting in an increase of nearly $390,000 in tax collected and available for expenditure on California highways, according to figures just released for the first quarter by the State Board of Equalization.

Total gasoline distribution of the fifty companies marketing gasoline in California in the first quarter amounted to 218,816,493 gallons, as compared with 198,493,085 gallons marketed in the first quarter of 1926, an increase of 19,321,425 gallons. Tax collected from the sale of this gallonage amounted to $4,376,329.86, as against $3,989,901.36 in the first three months of 1926, an increase of $386,-428.50.

Sales in the first quarter fell below the total gallonage of 223,058,322 in the fourth quarter of 1926. Of the ten leading companies, all but Pan-American reported smaller sales than in the final period of 1926. Pan-American increased from 9,366,553 gallons in the three months ended December 31, last, to 10,927,121 gallons in the first quarter of 1927.

Standard Oil of California continues to lead in sales, its aggregate for the first quarter being 53,870,892 gallons. Shell and Richfield with sales of 34,261,513 and 31,809,026 gallons respectively, remained in second and third places. Union sold 24,260,781 gallons and held fourth place, followed by Associated with sales of 22,-164,685 gallons. The others of the first ten came in the following order: California Petroleum, Pan-American, General Petroleum, Marine Refining and Wilshire.

London Daily Radio

BY ARTHUR W. KIDDY

LONDON, May 4. (By Wireless)—The markets today were quiet, but prices were inclined to improve. Japanese obligations were better as were artificial silk shares.

A good effect was produced by the Labor party's substituting rowdyism for argument in the trade union bill discussion, thereby increasing the prospects of a speedy passage of that measure by a large majority.

The markets were cheerful all day, partly because of much talk about a lower bank rate tomorrow, which should be disregarded. The big payment on the Consol load was comfortably arranged and the markets were helped by the firmness in New York exchange, but the forward quotations for dollars commanded a premium over spot.

The markets were also helped by the success of the recent loan flotations, the New Zealand loan of £6,000,000 having all been subscribed for.

Cities Service Building Natural Gas Project in Texas

Construction work has been started by the Cities Service organization on a natural gas pipe line that will open up the largest known gas reserves in the world, the Panhandle field of Texas, and connect it with the extensive pipe line and distributing system of Empire Gas and Fuel Company and other Cities Service subsidiaries, according to an announcement by Henry L. Doherty & Co.

This new development is a $15,-000,000 project and will make gas from this area available for Kansas City and other important points supplied by Cities Service subsidiaries, including many industrial customers who have hitherto depended on other forms of fuel. The completed pipe line will have a daily capacity of about 100,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas.

FLOODS AID COTTON UPTURN

Real Basis for Price Recovery from Low of December Held to Lie in Record World Consumption

NEW YORK, May 4. (Exclusive)—A 38 per cent jump in the price of raw cotton from its recent low of December 4, 1926, just five months ago today, is what the favorable turn in cotton has produced marketwise. Impetus to the advance has been supplied by reports of the increasingly heavy losses inflicted by flood conditions.

Destruction in the great area below Memphis, principally domestic consumption this year may equal 7,750,000 bales which when added to exportation of 11,000,000 bales would nicely offset the unprecedented output of last year.

While these figures show plainly enough why cotton prices are rising, a variety of circumstances in the next month or two might easily change the cotton picture either for good or bad. Nobody knows as yet what the final effect of the flood will be. That an enormous area has been destroyed nobody questions. How much of this may be recovered through replanting is a question still to be answered. To a degree not commonly appreciated, the future of cotton now depends upon the weather. Further heavy rains probably would reduce the prospect for a sizable 1927 crop but there is still a chance for a big production provided weather conditions remain favorable and replanting is successful. It is this variety of possibilities that confronts the cotton market at the moment and gives it so general a public interest.

Jardine Goes East

John Earle Jardine, Sr., president of William R. Staats Company, investment bankers of Los Angeles, will leave today for a three-weeks' tour of the East, combining business with pleasure. Before returning Mr. Jardine will attend the annual spring meeting of the board of governors of the Investment Bankers' Association at White Sulphur Springs to be held from the 8th to 12th inst., inclusive.

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, May 4. (AP)—A fair amount of trading in territory fine wool is reported today, selling at 92 @93 and 64 blood actively combing is being done with a few large worsted mills. One-quarter blood 58 to 56's bright grade have been sold. Prices on good wools continue steady, but otherwise selling is quiet, quality are poor. Trading is quiet in foreign wool is rather dull.

LONDON, May 4. (AP)—At the wool sales held here today, 11,500 bales were offered of which 10,000 were sold. There was a good selection, but competition was somewhat limiting and although there were a few instances calling for the unwilling ness of owners to meet the fall in prices.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—Prices moved generally higher in the curb market today, with buying well distributed. Advances, however, were moderate, except in a few specialties, among which there were several new highs.

Oil shares continued in demand despite a further covering and reports that the California price war has been terminated. Pandem moved up more than a point, following the development of a new field in Texas, but later lost most of the gain. Richfield Oil and Pipe Line issues advanced a point or so.

Celanese Corporation preferred led the advance in the specialty group with an advance of nearly 5 points to a new high of 138 7-8, while the common stock also sold up 5 points. American Rayon Products touched a new high at 10 and Melville Shoe went up 4½ points to 79½. Also a new top, Safeway Stores jumped 7 to 269, while Warner Brothers Pictures and Van Camp preferred each gained a point or so.

Motor shares showed early strength on expectations of favorable second-quarter earnings exhibits by some companies, but ceased off in the later dealings. Auburn Auto lost all its early gain of a point. Marmon went up to 86½, a gain of 1½ points on the day, in response to the inauguration of dividends.

Public utilities displayed strength, gains of a point or more being scored by American Superpower A, Commonwealth Power, Penn Ohio Edison and American Light and Traction.

The new Remington-Rand 5½ per cent bonds, listed today, were in demand around 100 3-4.

reports that the gasoline war on the coast had been terminated.

Numerous specialties moved up into new high territory, including baking, food and tobacco shares. National Biscuit touched a new peak of 124 1-2, up nearly 5 points, while Purity Baking B, Loose Wiles, American Tobacco A and B and Schulte also reached new maximums with gains ranging from 1 to 2 points.

Wide fluctuations occurred in several public utility issues, Laclede Gas leaping 18 1-2 points to a new high, while Brooklyn Union Gas and Market Street Railway preferred rose sharply.

American Beet Sugar was one of the few soft spots, declining to a new low for the year. Armour of Illinois preferred broke 6 3-4 points.

The money market continued easy, with time loans quoted at 4 3-8 against 4 3-8 to 4 1-2 yesterday, while prime commercial paper was unchanged.

An advance of 17 to 20 points in cotton, presumably on extension of the Mississippi flood damage, featured the commodity market. Wheat and sugar showed little change, while coffee advanced 8 to 21 points.

A rise in demand sterling, which touched 64.85 5-8, the highest since last August, and a decline of 10 points in Italian lira were the contrasting features of the foreign exchange market. French francs ruled just below 3.92 cents.

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE—A fairly liberal supply was on hand Saturday, including several cars that arrived Tuesday too late for the market. Prices were uneven on a rather slow market and all classes generally lost 10@25 cents with spots in some instances 25 cents lower. Plain half fat steers showed the maximum decline. Approximately thirty-five loads were on the market, including twenty loads from the Imperial Valley. The yards were practically cleaned at the close, excepting several lots of plain cows, mostly from dairy sections.

Three cars of good 1152 to 1291-pound Central California grass steers topped at 9.25, while three loads from the same section averaging 1161 to 1184 pounds made 9.15. A load of medium 983-pound grassers made 8.75, this price also taking the best Imperials, a six-car string of 1013-pound weights. Two loads of 1191-pound Imperials turned for 8.50, while seven loads averaging 913 to 982 pounds cleared from 7.50@8.00. A part load of 1211-pound Imperials made 8.00, with a few at 7.50. Three cars of common and low medium grassers averaging 942 to 975 pounds turned from 7.75@8.00. Odd head of common kinds sold down to 6.50.

A car of good 853-pound grass heifers topped at 7.50, while two cars of good 1060-pound grass cows realized 7.10. Small lots of cows including quite a few from dairy sections, turned from 6.00@6.75, with common kinds down to 5.00. Three cars of medium 985 to 974-pound Imperial cows went over for 6.25. All cutters and bulls were called 10@15 cents lower. Cutters sold mostly from 4.00@4.75, with low cutters around 3.00. The bull supply was mostly medium kinds from 5.00@6.00.

CALVES—A rather slow market resulted in this division with the general trade calling a decline of 25@50 cents. Odd head of choice vealers sold around 10.00, while a few medium and good kinds turned from 10.00@12.00. A load of 913-pound calves went over for 9.50, while common kinds and heavies sold down to 6.50.

HOGS—About half of yesterday's estimated supply had not arrived at a late hour. Four loads of the few offered early sold readily around 10@15 cents higher. One load of doubtful test had not sold at a late hour. The day's top was 12.00, paid for a load of 172-pound Colorados, while a load of 160-pound weights made 11.90. A load of 174-pound California butchers made 11.90, while a load of 204-pound Colorados turned for 11.75. No packing sows were offered and the general run was quoted from 9.00@9.50.

SHEEP—None. Medium to choice milk lambs were quoted from 12.50@14.00, with medium to choice shorn ewes from 5.00@6.50.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—Prompt oversubscriptions of two new bond issues, aggregating $65,000,000, coupled with easy money rates and a revival of rumors of an early decrease in the New York Federal reserve discount rate, imparted a firm undertone to prices in today's bond market. While the demand was not heavy, substantial gains were nevertheless recorded by a number of the railroad and public utility shares.

Insurance companies and other large financial institutions are reported to be heavy purchasers of seasoned listed securities. Several of the speculative issues, particularly those with convertible features, rallied in sympathy with the upward movement in stock prices.

Increased interest in the foreign group resulted from the discussions on foreign financing at the meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce in Washington. Most of the liens were firm on the theory that the warnings issued at that meeting would result in fewer new foreign issues to compete with those outstanding. French bonds were strong on private cable advices that the troublesome match monopoly problem finally had been settled on terms satisfactory to the French government. Holland-American 6s and Rhine-elbe 7s were conspicuously strong.

Revival of activity and strength in Erie convertible 4s, series D, which jumped 5½ points to 111½, was the outstanding feature in the rail group. Substantial gains also were recorded by St. Paul refunding 4½s of 1914, and some of the other low priced issues. Strong spots in the public utilities included the Third-avenue issues, Market-street Railway 7s of 1940, New York Railway income 6s, and Brooklyn Union Gas debentures.

United States government issues were firm.

Industrial mortgages moved within rather narrow and irregular limits. Armour of Delaware 5½s sank to a new 1927 low at 89½ and then rallied above 90.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in the order mentioned. Unless otherwise stated, sales in small fractions of a point are omitted, but the range includes them. Where no transactions are recorded on a day, the bond is not listed. Where no sales are recorded for the week, the bond is not quoted. Where no sales are recorded for the year, the bond is not listed. Where no sales are recorded for the week, the bond is not quoted. Where no sales are recorded for the year, the bond is not listed.

Profit Taking Halts Advance on Wheat Mart

CHICAGO, May 4. (Exclusive)—A broader outside interest in wheat combined with more bullish news advanced all deliveries ¾@1¾c in the early trading to a new high on the present movement, with May selling up to 1.40½, but heavy realizing sales developed on the upturn, and the close was ¼c lower to 1¾ higher, the former on May and the latter on September. May finished at 1.39¾@1.39¾, July 1.34¾ and September 1.31⅝.

A leading local professional, who has been talking bearish on corn of late, was credited with being a heavy buyer to cover shorts and prices advanced sharply with the close at net gains of 1⅝@2¼c, with May leading. The latter finished at 77¼c, or 4¼c under July, compared with 4¾c under at the opening on Monday, while September was 85⅝@85¾c. Oats were unchanged to ⅛c lower, with September the weakest. May closed at 47¾c, or ¼c over July, while September was 45¾c. Rye declined ¾@⅞c, with May 1.05¾ and July 1.02¾.

Shares in Liverpool took fright over the delay in spring wheat seeding in Canada and the reports of floods in the United States, and were free buyers in that market, forcing prices up 1⅝@1¾d at one time with the close ¾@1¼d higher, July there being 22¾c over Chicago at the time, compared with purchases of No. 3 hard for July-August shipment from the Gulf at equal to 20½c over o.t.f. Buenos Aires closed 2d@5½c higher with July 6¾c over Chicago at 1.40¾.

There was active buying on futures here early by houses with foreign connections, and also by commission houses, but the swells brought in profit-taking, while on the dips commission houses were persistent buyers, making numerous sharp bulges and breaks. Outside interest showed a tendency to broaden, and the market was active the greater part of the day. Winnipeg closed ¾@1¾c higher.

The corn market was quiet early, but later there was heavy short covering, which found offerings light, and May sold up to 78¼, or 3½c over Tuesday's close, the finish being on a reaction due to profit-taking. Cash corn failed to follow the bulge in futures, and at the last the spot basis was 1@2c lower, compared with May with shipping sales of 85,000 bushels.

Rumors with eastern and northwestern connections were good sellers of July oats, and the latter went to a discount under the May for the first time in a number of weeks. There were also realizing sales in the September, which found support lacking. Cash interests bought May and sold July. Seeding in Iowa is practically completed, according to weekly weather crop report.

The bulge in rye of late has apparently checked foreign demand, and sales of only 100,000 bushels were reported at the seaboard. Buying of futures was less aggressive and with profit-taking a decline was easily attained.

Bog prices were stronger and at the close, after opening 10c lower, the product was moderately traded in. Lard was 3½@5c higher, about ribs 10c higher and bellies 15c lower to 1c higher. Lard in Liverpool was unchanged to 3d lower.

CHURCH IN THE PIT

Churchgoing has been made easy for the workers in the Mynydd Newdd coal mines in Wales. They have a chapel all their own at the bottom of the shaft, so that when they descend into the pit they can have a short service before going to work. A coal trolley serves as a pulpit. The oldest of the miners acts as pastor, the congregation sitting on the rough wooden benches. The services are conducted as fully as possible and are impressive.—[London Tit-Bits

OIL NEWS

BY EDWARD C. KEGLEY

The experiences of drilling into another's well which happened to at least two operators at Signal Hill and later in the Huntington Beach tidelot field, has just been duplicated in the new townlot field at Inglewood, according to field reports.

The Pearl Petroleum Corporation, which is said about 200 feet from the Pacific Southern Securities Thurston well, which is stated in 2900 feet, and then reported that it was drilling in the sand. It is the Petroleum Securities well. The Thurston well is down approximately 2800 feet, and in view of the fact it was decided that the best thing was for the Pearl crew to move in its hole back 100 feet or so and start a new hole.

Quincy Well

The Superior Oil Company has completed its Rudnosky No. 1 well in the Ventura district, offsetting the producer of the Continental Oil Company, one of the "mystery" wells, concerning which scouts, operators and the public in general is known no more than can be learned by looking at the derrick and the well.

The Rudnosky well is almost a direct offset to the Continental's Pyne well, the same in fact, about six hundred feet up at about 2200 barrels a day. Its productivity has been considered practically a sure shot to pick up a producer, which was found to be the case, and this is just a couple feet, and this is just a couple depth of the Superior well

Bard Well

The California Petroleum Corporation, of which the California-American Company each picked up the oil in the Alamitos Heights yesterday, is now using casing to shut off water, according to field reports. The Petroleum got the oil sand at about 4760 feet, and drilled into it about twenty-five feet before bridging back, and is now using casing.

Bow Wells

The California Petroleum Corporation has definitely abandoned four wells in the Signal Hill Extension Beach projects, according to official reports. The abandoned wells are Brown No. 3 and No. 4, and Taylor No. 1.

Bixby Bush

The Bush Basin Oil Company, which is eventually on top of the Alamitos Heights, made a successful test of its No. 1 well yesterday and found that apparently it has struck bottom water, according to field reports.

The Bush Basin well is understood to have drilled into the oil sand at 3000 feet after picking up a showing at 2900 feet, and this is believed to be the reason for its water trouble. However, it is said that the field has yet found the bottom fifty or sixty feet of oil sand, and the Bush Basin crew is believed to have tried to take in too much water.

Signal Hill Field

The W. Inberia, veteran operator and manager of the Los Angeles Oil Company, has entered the Seal Beach field in Alamitos Heights, according to field reports. Roberts has a location for his No. 1 well, awaiting derrick, it is reported.

Bixby Well

The Standard Oil Company expects to be ready to put on production today on the well of its MacGrath lease, offsetting the Southern Pacific, according to official reports. Bixby No. 11 and Belover No. 1 are also due for immediate completion.

Bixby Well

The Hartman Oil Company is reported to have given up hope of striking deep production in the west part of the townlot field at Seal Beach, and is preparing to shut down at about 3800 feet. The company was supposed to have been drilling between 3200 and 3800 feet in its last chance to get production of the well which has been a source of community guessing for months.

Bixby Well

Shell & Johnson are preparing to drill a new well in the west end of the Signal Hill field, according to official reports. The well is opened at the corner of Pacific Coast and Olive avenue.

Bixby Well

The Standard Oil Company yesterday completed its Baldwin No. 7 well in the Huntington field, according to official reports. The well was drilled to 3000 feet, and came in at the rate of 2000 barrels a day of 34.6 deg.

SHIPPING and Los Angeles Harbor NEWS

VOYAGE MARKED BY ADVENTURES

Fierce Gale Speeds Passage Through Straits

Capt. E. H. Christensen yesterday brought the McCormick liner West Nilus home from an 111-day circumnavigation of South America, a voyage that began at this port on January 13, last, and replete with unusual affairs, but not all unfortunate. The West Nilus's 6000 tons of South American cargo included the season's record coffee shipment, 37,000 bags.

Two days out of Los Angeles, on January 15, the ship's chief officer, Alfred Larson, fell from the top of the radio house and landed on his head and shoulders two decks below. His only serious injury was a compound fracture of the right arm, which Capt. Christensen set himself, with the aid of radio advice from the surgeon of the Norwegian whaler Kommandoren, then off Magdalena Bay. Forty days later, when the ship reached Montevideo, Mr. Larson had recovered so completely that no medical attention was necessary.

GALE SPRINGS UP

On February 40, when the West Nilus was about to enter the Straits of Magellan, she struck a southwest gale of hurricane force, which blew with such violence that everything movable was torn from the ship's decks. Capt. Christensen said that when he reached Cape Pillar he had but two choices: of either risking the rocky straits or attempting to heave to against the hurricane, in which he was able to make no progress at forced draught.

He headed for the straits and so violent was the gale that the West Nilus traversed the tortuous 300 miles of the straits in a single day.

"Finally, when we got outside off Cape Virgin," Capt. Christensen said, "the wind had hauled into the west and was blowing with such force that I was forced to run before it for 100 miles to two more able to head north on our course."

NEEDED MECHANIC

The ship loaded at Montevideo and Buenos Aires and off the Brazilian coast Capt. Christensen found a Brazilian fishing schooner in distress and dismasted, with twenty men aboard. He went to her aid, got a line aboard and was prepared to tow her to port when the native skipper yelled, "send a man down to fix our engine, we don't want a tow." The West Nilus dropped the line and proceeded.

One hundred miles south of San Benito Island on the night of the 1st inst. the West Nilus sighted distress signals from a small vessel about ten miles offshore. The steamer went to the ship's aid and found that it was the local fisheries tender Heston, drifting in deep water with her tail-shaft broken. Capt. W. A. Brunick refused a tow, but asked Capt. Christensen to radio this port for a tug.

The West Nilus also set a new steaming record of thirty-two days from Santos to Los Angeles, including stops of four days at Bahia, Colon and Puerto, Colombia. In addition to the large coffee cargo, she brought in 47,000 bags of linseed from Buenos Aires.

HEAVY BOOKINGS FOR EAST ON FINLAND

Four hundred and eighteen passengers, the largest list to leave California for the East Coast this season, will sail for New York via Panama and the Canal, tonight aboard the Panama-Pacific liner Finland. The Finland is four days behind schedule eastbound, she having been delayed at San Francisco where she was rammed in the stern by a Sacramento River steamer.

At daylight, Saturday, the Manchuria, the Finland's sister ship in service, is due from New York with approximately 800 passengers.

Prominent among those sailing tonight on the Finland are Mrs. Genevieve Parkhurst, editor of the Pictorial Review, New York; E. R. Werdin, Los Angeles fire commissioner, accompanied by his wife and daughter; N. Rodney Webster, local police commissioner, and Mrs. Webster; Mrs. E. H. Earl, wife of the chief surgeon of the liner Manchuria; Henry Kanter, vice-president of the Anglo California Trust Company, of San Francisco; George Burnham, grand commander of the Knights Templar, of this city, and A. Cameron, official of the Shell Company of California.

The seven port pilots yesterday blossomed out in brand new caps, carrying their badge of officer, viz.: "Pilot, Los Angeles Harbor Department." It is also planned to further dignify the men who bring into port all off-shore ships with new uniforms, already designed.

The McCormick liner Abron yesterday arrived from Gulf ports with 4200 tons of general cargo for local discharge, the largest single shipment of Gulf products to be unloaded here in several years. The Abron, on her first visit here, is the second to arrive of the new five-ship service of the Pinkbine-Guild-McCormick combine. McCormick's new intercoastal steamer West Cape, recently purchased from the United States Shipping Board, will arrive here from the Atlantic on the 25th inst. on her first voyage.

Ships under seven flags were in port at Los Angeles Harbor yesterday. They were represented as follows: Great Britain, freighter Balblair, tankers San Lorenzo, Oleander, San Gaspar, barge Daylight; Norway, freighter Evanger, whaler C. A. Larsen; Sweden, motorship Axel Johnson; Panama, steamer Oaxaca; Holland, steamer Noorderdyk; Japan, steamer Manila Maru; United States, thirty-two vessels.

The Johnson Line motorship Axel Johnson will sail for North Europe today with a full passenger list and 6000 tons of Pacific Coast products, of which twenty-two passengers and 15,000 cases of citrus fruits in refrigeration were loaded at Los Angeles Harbor. Her sister ship in service, the Santos, is due from Gothenburg, via Antwerp, on the 23rd inst. Included among the Santos's cabin passengers for this port are A. C. Scanlan, Mrs. Scanlan and their son.

AIR MAIL SCHEDULE

Now in effect: Universal postage rate of 10 cents per half ounce anywhere in the United States or Canada applies on all matters sent via Air Mail.

Transcontinental air mail service to and from Southern California is operated in both directions daily, leaving Air Mail Airport (Los Angeles) at 7:35 a.m. Pacific Time and arriving at Hadley Field (New Brunswick, N. J.) at 5 p.m. Eastern Standard Time the second day. Arrival at the New York City postoffice is one hour later.

Westbound departure from Hadley Field is at 12:15 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, which arrives at Los Angeles at 9:30 p.m., Pacific Time, the second day.

The Los Angeles daily closing for air mail is 5:30 p.m. at Arcade Station and at 6:45 a.m. or a little later at the air mail letter boxes, painted red, white and blue, and located in various parts of the city.

Items for the air mail are restricted to packages not over eight (8) ounces in weight and of not more than eighty-four (84) inches in length and girth combined.

PACIFIC COAST ROUTES

Collections are made at all air mail boxes not later than 5 p.m. and at the Arcade Station postoffice not later than 10:30 p.m.

The route will be operated on the following schedule: Northbound, leave Los Angeles 12:01 a.m. Arrive at Bakersfield 1:45 a.m.; Fresno, 3:20 a.m.; San Francisco, 6:30 a.m. Seattle, 2 p.m. Southbound, leave Seattle 9:45 a.m.; San Francisco, 12 noon; Fresno, 3 p.m.; Bakersfield, 5:30 p.m. Arrive Los Angeles, 7:15 p.m.

Los Angeles customs collections will show a marked gain this fiscal year over last, according to Louis H. Schwaebe, collector, who conferred at the port yesterday with W. H. Mehan, deputy collector in charge at the harbor. Collections are now around $5,000,000 for the year ending June 30, 1926. They will exceed $6,000,000 this year, and may approach $7,000,000, he declared. If imports during May and June hold up as indicated.

General Steamship Corporation will have two French, one Italian and one British vessel in port simultaneously Saturday. Entering the Pacific-Northern Europe run for the French Line will be the steamer Vermont from Bordeaux with 900 tons of steel for Los Angeles City Hall, and other cargo. Notre Dame de Grace, sister ship of the mine line will load cali homeward bound for 1000 tons of sardines, cotton, borax and concentrates. The Italian steamer Duchesse d'Accela will arrive from Mediterranean ports for the Libera Line, and the Silveray, a British motorship will come from New York to inaugurate Kerr Pacific's new direct service to Calcutta and Java, and back.

Growth of shipping activities of the Los Angeles Steamship Company yesterday resulted in the allocation by the Harbor Commission of an additional berth at the Wilmington terminal, Berth 158, which will give the company four berths with a frontage on the slip of about 1400 feet.

Williams Line also received permanent assignment of Berth 159, and joint use of Berth 160 with the Nelson Steamship Company, and the latter berth will have its shed extended 180 feet north at a cost of $49,000. Increased business in the intercoastal trade was responsible for giving Williams Line more space.

Cutting of slips and laying of railway lines for the Ford manufacturing and assembling plant at the port have reached a point where construction of buildings is imminent. A huge sign erected yesterday says the plans will handle 50,000 cars and trucks yearly; will employ 1200 men, and will distribute through 218 dealers.

Maybe This Contains A Hint For You

John Wildt

San Francisco, Calif.—"To those who suffer with their kidneys I would recommend Dr. Pierce's Anuric. My kidneys were in bad shape, they were weak, caused me pain and sore. When I would stoop over it was with difficulty that I could straighten up, and I would have sharp shooting pains across my back just over the kidneys. Black specks would appear before my eyes, I had no life, felt tired and worn out. I saw Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets advertised and got a bottle at once and by the time I had taken a second bottle my kidneys were better, the pain and aches had disappeared from my back and I felt like a new man."—John Wildt, 127 Dore St.

HERD OF GOATS GIVEN TO CHARITY

Aboard a Milk Diet

Alberto Gambo with mother goat and family.

The milk of human kindness turned out yesterday to be very much desired goat milk when an un-named person gave thirty-six milch goats to the Goodwill Industries to be used in that organization's charitable work.

Frederick H. Blair, manager of the Goodwill Industries, announced that the goats will be distributed among poor families who participate in the industries charitable work and to families where the wage-earner is incapacitated. The gift is considered of double value because goat's milk is of great value to undernourished children and adults.

The person giving the goats, which has become something of an annual custom, requested that his name be kept confidential. One of the goats is a mother with two kids.

Zane Grey Sees Wedding of Ship Captain Abroad

Word reached here yesterday from Auckland, New Zealand, of the marriage of Friederich E. Klebingat of San Pedro and Phillis Cramond Reid of Auckland. The ceremony was performed on the deck of Zane Grey's schooner Fisherman, of which Capt. Klebingat is master. Zane Grey, who set out from here on a cruise about four months ago, was present at the wedding.

Capt. Klebingat and his bride met in the Pacific Islands three years ago. Capt. Klebingat then commanded the schooner Melrose and Miss Reid was accompanying her father on a yacht cruise. Subsequently their acquaintance was maintained by correspondence, until they met again when the Fisherman called at Whangaroa on its present cruise.

The bride was presented with a necklace and the bridegroom with a wrist watch by the officers and crew. The bride will return with her husband to California on the Fisherman.

Capt. Klebingat is 27 years of age. He is a Nova Scotian, coming of a long line of fisherman ancestry. He came to San Pedro two years ago.

GAS GALLONAGE BATTLE AT END

Pan-American Follows Suit of Other Companies

Motorist Proves Only Victor in Price War

With the announcement yesterday by the Pan-American Petroleum Company that it had increased the price of gasoline from 12½ to 18½ cents in accordance with the rise of the seven other major companies of Southern California, the great battle for gallonage was officially ended, at least for the companies.

In oil circles, the question naturally arose as to who was the victor in the price-slashing fray which began about six weeks ago. The officials of all companies admitted a loss while the rates hovered from 14½ to 13½ cents a gallon. Gasoline was being purchased from filling stations at a figure, which if it had lasted much longer, would have bankrupted them, they say.

Pan-American officials would make no official statement as to why they raised their prices with the other companies. It was intimated, however, that San Gas did not want to play a lonesome role at 12½ cents while the others were enjoying an 18½-cent rate.

Associated Oil was the last company in Los Angeles to remain in the field selling gas at 12½ cents. At 1 o'clock yesterday, however, it followed the lead by California Petroleum, General, Shell, Union, Standard and Richfield companies. The Union and Standard companies made their decision to raise Tuesday night.

California Petroleum was the first company to announce an increase and it was quickly followed by Richfield, General and Shell.

POMERENE DISCUSSES FARM ISSUE

Ex-Senator, Visitor Here, Says Political Split Will Not be on McNary Bill

No doubt there will be a definite political split next year between the industrial East against the agricultural West and South, but it will not be on the lines of the McNary - Haugen bill, Atlee Pomerene, former Senator from Ohio, who is in Los Angeles in connection with the prosecution of government oil lease cases, said yesterday at the Biltmore.

Atlee Pomerene

"In Ohio the farmers were not for the bill and recently I found that there was a strong sentiment among Iowa farmers opposed to it," said Mr. Pomerene.

Mr. Pomerene has been mentioned as likely timber for the Democratic nomination for President but when questioned regarding this yesterday he replied, "Forget it."

Although the prohibition question is not likely to have a place in the platform of either political party next year candidates will be voted for according to their stand on this question, he predicted.

COURTHOUSE ANNEX TO BE BEGUN SOON

Supervisors Decide to Rush Building to Make Room for Extra Judges

The county needs a new Courthouse, but the time is not ripe to start one, was the conclusion reached by the Board of Supervisors yesterday after a conference with Presiding Judge Wood of the Superior Court, Everett W. Mattoon, County Counsel, and Kemper Campbell, president of the Bar Association.

A building to be known as the Superior Court annex, however, will be constructed immediately on the east side of Broadway, between the Thorpe Building, at 132 North Broadway, and the Hotel Melford. This building, which will cost $160,000 unfurnished, will be rushed to completion to provide accommodation for the ten additional judges provided for the county by recent legislation. It will contain sixteen courtrooms, and thus provide space for several extra-session courts, to be presided over by judges from other counties, under Judicial Council assignment.

It is hoped to have the annex completed in six months. The county already owns the building site.

SKULL FRACTURED IN ACCIDENT

Morris Fine, 50 years of age, of 3049 Eleventh avenue, was struck yesterday by a truck at First and Hill streets, almost directly in front of the Receiving Hospital. He suffered a skull fracture and possible internal injuries, but has a good chance to recover, according to Dr. Carey, who attended him. The truck was driven, police say, by T. A. Richards.

GRAVEYARD FOR RUM RUNNERS

End of Many Damp Voyages

LOS ANGELES HARBOR is acquiring a "rum runners' graveyard" of no mean proportions at the United States Coast Guard Base in the Outer Harbor, where craft of every sort from small, sleek little speedboats to a sturdy power schooner are tied up awaiting Federal Court action.

The ships are those which have been seized by the Coast Guard for asserted rum violations and will remain at the base awaiting disposal of their cases—legal, not liquor—by the United States District Court.

LOS ANGELES RANKS FIFTH FOR PHONES

Survey Also Shows City to Stand First in California in Number of Connections

Los Angeles ranks first in California and California ranks fifth among States in the number of telephones in use throughout the United States, according to a recent survey of the State Railroad Commission made public here yesterday.

Los Angeles is also fifth in the United States and seventh in the world in the number of connected telephones in the large cities of the world, being surpassed only by New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, London and Berlin, the report states.

London has 500,000 telephones to serve 7,500,000 people, while the population of the Los Angeles telephone exchange area for 1927 is estimated at 1,310,000. This exchange now has one telephone to each 3.9 persons, or 26.1 telephones to each 100 population.

COURT QUESTIONS KISS QUOTA

Husband Says Seven a Year Not Enough and Counsel Believes Wife Ought to Give At Least Fifty, but Divorce Expert Declares Twenty-four Sufficient

The question, for various reasons, was not suitable for consideration on a hot day, so Judge Summerfield took it under submission, for reflection during the cool of the evening.

What Lawrence Wilson wanted to know was whether he had been done right by in the matter of kisses. He said his wife, Helen May Wilson, had vouchsafed him exactly seven during the year they lived together. He was dissatisfied with the situation and wanted a divorce on the ground that seven were not nearly enough.

"Well, why aren't seven enough?" Judge Summerfield demanded. "The law only says a husband is entitled to reasonable affection. Maybe seven kisses a year constitute reasonable affection."

"Why, Your Honor," exclaimed Charles R. McCarty, aghast. McCarty was Wilson's lawyer, and he evinced the horror appropriate to the judge's implied indifference to the matters of the heart. "Not by the wildest stretch of the imagination could seven kisses a year be considered reasonable," Counsellor McCarty protested.

Judge Summerfield spied Frank Dunham, Pasadena magistrate, sitting at counsel table, waiting to try a case.

"Counsellor, how about it? Are seven kisses annually enough?" he asked.

Dunham blushed.

"U-u-u-h, that all depends on a lot of things," he replied. "Of course I have not seen the lady but, well, offhand I would say that seven are not enough—just in general."

"Certainly not. Fifty's more like it," put in Attorney McCarty.

The judge next appealed to Larry Doyle, young in years but a veteran in divorce court. Larry knows all about such matters.

"Judge, a husband is entitled to not less than twenty-four kisses a year," Doyle opined.

Judge Summerfield looked impressed.

PARROT FORCES BADLY BEATEN AT PRIMARY

Boss's Candidates Eliminated in Seven Council Districts, Run Second in Four Others

The Parrot forces, which hitherto have controlled the city administration and the Council, suffered mortal reverses at the municipal primary election Tuesday, according to complete returns compiled by City Clerk Dominguez yesterday.

In seven of the fifteen Councilmanic districts the Parrot candidates were eliminated altogether, their opponents—all independents—being elected at the primary. In four others the boss's candidates ran second to independents and have less than ever chances to win at the final election, June 7. In one of the four remaining districts Parrot had no candidate.

Particularly disconcerting to the administration were the outright elections of Councilmen Jacobson, Davis and Colden over Parrot candidates and the election to the new Council of W. M. Hughes, William G. Bonelli and Arthur Alber. Two of the strongest machine Councilmen, Criswell and Zahn, were defeated.

HOWARD W. DAVIS

Councilman Hall in the Eleventh District, who, with Councilman Colden, was bitterly opposed by the Central Labor Council, was also elected, as were Councilmen Sanborn and Shaw. Three other administration Councilmen—Sparks in the Fifth District, Hughes in the Third District and Barnes in the Twelfth District, trailed antiadministration candidates—Webster in the Third, Martin in the Fifth and Foster in the Twelfth.

FOUR NEW COUNCILMEN

Four new Councilmen were elected at the primaries—Arthur Alber in the Second District, William M. Hughes in the Fourth, Howard W. Davis in the Seventh and William G. Bonelli in the Fourteenth. If Martin, Webster and Foster are elected on June 7, this will make a total of seven new Councilmen, all antiadministration.

WILLIAM G. BONELLI

Six incumbent Councilmen were elected at the primaries. They were Councilman Randall, who was opposed by Frank W. Berkshire, Parrot candidate; Councilman Shaw, Councilman Hall, Councilman Jacobson, whom Parrot and the unions made most intense efforts to defeat with Assemblyman William M. Byrne; Councilman Sanborn and Councilman Colden. Councilmen Workman, Allan, Criswell and Zahn were defeated and eliminated.

This leaves but five Councilmanic contests out of the fifteen places in the Council to be contested at the city election in June. These are in the Third, Sixth and Tenth districts.

The complete returns showed that aproximately 122,724 voters cast their ballots at the polls at Tuesday's primaries, which was 30 per cent of the registered vote. This was one of the lowest percentages of the registered vote cast at a Los Angeles city primary election. At the primaries two years ago the total vote was 42 per cent of the registration, but there were mayoralty candidates voted on at that election.

Although the number of voters at Tuesday's election was comparatively small, ten of the fifteen Councilmanic contests were decided and all but one of the twenty-four judgeships on the Municipal Court were filled by election, fifteen without opposition and the other contests being decided on Tuesday. Of the five places on the Board of Education, Clair L. Peck was elected for his unexpired term without opposition, and for the other four places, one was elected—Carrie Parsons Bryant, with Robert L. Burns and Letitia J. Lytle and J. L. Van Norman nominated. These four, with Clair L. Peck, comprised the Citizens' School Committee ticket, so that the tremendous vote received by these four candidates was a striking indorsement of the present management of the Los Angeles school system, to a continuation of which administration the five candidates were pledged. As showing that the people of Los Angeles are determined to keep the schools 100 per cent American, Sam Globerman, who was backed by the radicals, received the smallest vote of the seventeen candidates.

WILLIAM M. HUGHES

SHELDON VS. BLEDSOE

The only Municipal Court judgeship contest to be decided at the June 7 election is that for Office No. 14, the nominees being Caryl M. Sheldon and A. J. Bledsoe. In view of the fact that Sheldon led Bledsoe 20,000 votes and narrowly missed election at the primaries in a field of four, Sheldon's election at the

FILM ACADEMY ORGANIZING

Application for a charter for the organization of a motion-picture academy to be known as the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences was filed in Sacramento yesterday. The organization, according to the application and to members of the motion-picture industry here, is intended to represent to the industry what the Academie Francaise represents to the world of art in Europe.

Many prominent persons in the motion-picture industry have been instrumental in founding the proposed academy. Negotiations have been carried on for more than three months between the leaders of motion-picture work and have resulted in the concrete result presented to State officials yesterday.

FAIRBANKS PRESIDENT

The organization will strive to work with present existing bodies, according to its founders, and will in addition, attempt to carry the work of those bodies to a further point.

Heading the new academy is Douglas Fairbanks, as president; Fred Niblo, vice-president; Frank Woods, secretary, and M. C. Levee, treasurer. These officials will work with a board of directors chosen from five departments of the motion-picture industry in the planning of the academy's activities.

The board of directors includes Mary Pickford, Louis B. Mayer and Joseph M. Schenck, representing the producers; Douglas Fairbanks, Milton Sills and Conrad Nagel, representative actors; Jeanie Macpherson, Carey Wilson and Joseph M. Parnum, writers; Fred Niblo, Frank Lloyd and John Stahl, directors and Roy Pomeroy, Cedric Gibbons and J. A. Ball, the technicians.

The academy, if the charter is granted, will be formally introduced to the industry on the night of the 11th inst., at a banquet to be held

by Harry Carr

I AM very much interested to see whether a real army song results from the offer of a prize of $1500 by the Infantry Association.

Most great national songs have just happened . . . like "Dixie."

As a usual thing a musician, setting out to write an immortal song, gets stage fright and puts in so many noble thoughts that nobody will sing it.

"A HOT TIME"

When Joe Hayden and Theodore Metz wrote "A Hot Time" they probably had no idea that it would live forever as the song of the Spanish-American War.

It happened exactly to express the idea. Although that war changed America from a one-horse republic (not even accredited with diplomats of ambassador rank by the great powers) to the world's greatest empire, it can't be said that it started as more than a magnificent adventure. It was just a 'hot time;' that's the fact.

"OVER THERE"

The World War was singular in that George Cohan sat down with deliberate intent to write the song of the soldiers. He did it with "Over There."

Although, if the truth be known, it never was as popular with the soldiers as a ribald ditty: "Mademoiselle From Armentieres."

A curious thing about the songs of the late war was that the most popular song died in the middle of it. The British army went to war singing "It's a Long, Long Way to Tipperary," and it faded out. I would like to know why. These things do not "just happen." They always have a definite reason.

THE BLOODY SHIRT

For instance, "Marching Through Georgia."

When I was a boy that was really the most popular of all national songs. It died out when the bloody shirt was buried between the North and South. When the old differences were buried that song—which will always be like a red rag to a bull to every Southerner—was discreetly laid away.

MARCHING MEN

One of the things that struck me most forcibly about the German army during the war was the character of their songs. I remember seeing a German infantry regiment marching to the front singing a plaintive little song—not in march time—about a little bird.

At that, I shouldn't be surprised if there were some deliberate intent behind it. They were marching in "route step." Here and there they had small bridges to cross. A marching song would have thrown them into step. Very few bridges will stand up under the swing of men keeping step.

DOG TROTS

The greatest strain on any structure—in proportion to weight—is the peculiar running of a dog. Five hundred dogs, if their snapping, jarring feet were able to keep step—would wreck Brooklyn bridge. If you don't believe this, notice the vibration of your floor the next time your little dog trots across. Next to a dog, the swing of man keeping step is the worst strain.

SONG OF HATE

Whatever the new song is to be, let us hope that some one with a human brain writes the words.

Francis Scott Key wrote the words of "The Star Spangled Banner," and he ought to have been

PRISONERS' AID FUNDS PLEDGED

New Step in Rehabilitation Taken by Sheriff

Worthy Cause Pointed to at Breakfast in Jail

Rehabilitation funds for the young prisoners in the County Jail, as well as jobs when they leave the institution, were promised yesterday at a breakfast given by Sheriff Traeger in the jail to forty-six representatives of business and professional interests in the city.

The breakfast, it was stated by the Sheriff, was given to acquaint the heads of large industries, leaders in professional lines and heads of newspapers with a need for the aiding of young, or first-time, prisoners, in order to rehabilitate them after release.

DOHENY LEADS PLEDGES

At the conclusion of the conference, E. L. Doheny, oil magnate, pledged himself to a gift of $5000. This was later increased by other pledges.

The members of the gathering partook of a breakfast consisting of grapefruit, scrambled eggs, sausage, corn fritters, toast and coffee. Addresses were made by many of those present. D. W. Pontius, vice-president of the Pacific Electric, stated that whenever possible his company would aid men who were recommended to him by the Sheriff. This was followed by a similar promise by Louis B. Mayer of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

OTHERS MAKE TALKS

Addresses also were made by J. Wiseman MacDonald, Rev. G. A. Briegleb, George Rogers of the Union Oil Company, E. L. Doheny, D. F. McGerry, president of the Chamber of Commerce; the Sheriff, Undersheriff Biscailuz and Col. R. E. Frith, formerly dry administrator for the government, and now in charge of this rehabilitation work for the Sheriff. Supervisor Beatty pointed out the need of such work, but the inability of the Supervisors to appropriate funds for such a purpose.

Sheriff Traeger explained that the gathering of yesterday and its outcome was the result of thought along that line since the establishment, six years ago, of his honor camps, which have grown from a single camp with thirty men to four, with a total of 180. Forrest Murray, representative of the District Attorney on the county parole board, and Municipal Judge Georgia Bullock told of the help such a revolving fund would be in connection with their work. It was expressed that the fund would be used to finance prisoners until after their first pay day, and also to provide them with work.

IMPROVEMENT PLAN ORDERED

W. B. Mathews, special counsel, yesterday requested the City Council to instruct the City Engineer to prepare the necessary descriptions of a proposed municipal improvement district to include territory bounded on the north by Ninety-second street, on the east by Normandie and Halldale avenues, on the south by the south boundary line of the city and on the west by the west city boundary and Western avenue. The request was referred to the City Engineer and the Water and Power Committee.

FISH FLAGS FLY FOR BOY'S FESTIVAL

THERE'LL be clanking swords in Japanese homes today but only the swords of ancestors, symbolic of the knighthood that shielded the weak and battled against tyranny.

For today is Boy's Festival, the event which, on each May 5, transcends in Nipponese eyes the American Easter and rivals even Christmas Eve. Through it all runs inspirational tradition. Boy is usually king of the household.

Gayly colored fish flags representing the carp, noted for its strength and daring, have been floating above Japanese homes for ten days, heralding the event. For every boy a flag is flown, a big one for a big boy and tapering down. At Fish Harbor there is no evidence of race suicide.

Arising early today the boy will slip into the chief room specially decorated for him. Scrolls will depict a fierce warrior in full panoply of battle. Nearby will greet him the armor of a soldier ancestor and bows and swords handed down perhaps centuries.

It is the one day he may gorge himself, too, and special dainties are wrapped in iris leaves, for iris grows deep rooted and thus sets an example of perserverance and endurance. Finally, he may stay up late that night, a concession rare and relished and a fitting climax to his day of days.

Bear Bite Saves Him 10 Days on Liquor Charge

Ruell Thomasson was driven into bootlegging by a bear, he told Municipal Judge Turney after entering a plea of guilty to a charge of selling liquor.

"That is unusual," commented the judge, "how did it happen?"

"Well," replied Thomasson, "I had a steady job for one of the creamery companies. The company has several bears for advertising purposes, and they take them around the streets in wagons. This bear always got grouchy when they took it out, but I didn't know his temper was so bad. I was standing near the wagon and the animal's chain was longer than I thought. It jumped at me and before I could get away bit my thumb."

Judge Turney expressed extreme sorrow and sympathy but also expressed doubt that the bite could force a man into bootlegging.

The defendant explained this by saying that he couldn't work and the company had not paid him compensation. To live until he received pay for his injury he started selling liquor, he said.

Judge Turney agreed that the bear's bite justified only a ten-day reduction in sentence, so Thomasson was sentenced to fifty days in jail instead of the usual sixty days.

WIFE SUES ATTORNEY

Suit for divorce, based on cruelty charges, was filed against Marion P. Betty, widely known attorney, by his wife, Margaret, yesterday. A year ago Mrs. Betty filed a suit for separate maintenance. Her divorce complaint recites the same causes for action.

Theft Suspect Finds It Pays to be in Jail

Sometimes it is a blessing to be in jail, according to Milton Crofton, 27 years of age, who yesterday was acquitted of a charge of robbery when he proved in Superior Judge Stephens's court that he was a prisoner in the Compton Jail at the time the asserted robbery was committed.

The trial was one of the shortest in the history of Los Angeles Superior Courts, lasting but twenty-two minutes. After hearing Crofton's defense presented by Attorney S. S. Hahn, the jury returned a verdict of "not guilty" without retiring from the room.

Crofton was accused of holding up W. W. Webb, proprietor of an oil station at 930 East Slauson avenue, and obtaining $30. Supporting Crofton's story was C. R. Balbridge, a police officer, who testified that the defendant was a prisoner under his charge in Compton at the time of the asserted robbery.

HOTEL AND OFFICE BUILDING PLANNED

A proposal to erect a combined hotel and business building at Fifth and Flower streets is under consideration by R. F. Crittenden. It was learned last night. Officials of the Federation of the State Societies said they were approached with a proposal to have the federation participate in the project, but have not done so.

SKILLED TRUCK DRIVERS NEEDED

Traffic Officer in KHJ Talk Says Owners Look for Safe Operators

The demand for skilled operators of automobiles and trucks is greater than the supply, Sergt. E. L. Johnson said yesterday in his daily traffic lecture from radio KHJ. This is a new trade calling for more brain and more nerve than many of the so-called skilled trades, he said.

The day of roughneck drivers who know little about safety and do not care much has definitely passed, the sergeant declared. Accidents are very costly to commercial car owners and they are looking for men who are really in the safe-operator class, he said.

FILM ACADEMY CHARTER ASKED

at the Biltmore. At that time, it is expected, the actual working plans of the organization, with the details of its functioning, will be presented to the 200 or more members who are expected to be enrolled before that time.

WILL ERECT BUILDING

Details of the workings of the organization were not in shape for release last night. It was stated, however, the new body will co-operate with existing bodies, such as the Motion Picture Producers' Association, in movements beneficial to the industry, and will in addition, encourage by prizes, scholarships and other means, any move for the improvement of the industry as a whole.

The academy will eventually erect a building in which its activities will be centralized, it is said. It will also extend an influence into every branch of the industry by means of various allied groups, responsible to a central group of executives. These groups will seek methods of possible improvements in the industry, will endeavor to promote harmony in its different branches and will try to reconcile possible differences between members of branches of the academy. It will also recommend the granting of assistance or prizes to persons bringing forward improvements in the making of pictures.

A pot of chemical mixture boiling over on an open flame started a fire that destroyed the plant of the Paragon Chemical Company, 635 South Anderson street, shortly before 1 p.m. yesterday.

The fire spread with such rapidity and threw up such a great column of smoke and flaming brands that a second alarm was turned in by firemen first arriving at the scene. One fireman, Thomas Markham, of Engine Company No. 5, suffered minor burns.

According to Inspector George T. Price of the fire department, loss to the chemical company was estimated at about $17,000. The insurance expired about two weeks ago and was not renewed, it was reported. The loss to the building was estimated at about $10,000, the one-story brick structure being gutted. Minor loss from smoke and water was sustained by the Palmolive Company of Los Angeles, occupying an adjoining building.

UNIFIED HARBOR PLAN ADVANCES

mer member of the Board of Harbor Engineers at Washington, declared that united action on the part of both cities was absolutely essential toward obtaining some modification of the government's conditions in respect to the appropriation. Maj. Finch, United States district engineer here, declared that tremendous progress had been made by the two cities since they had actually attacked the unification problem and consequently urged that no effort be made to have the government modify its stand until a real effort to meet the conditions had been made. He expressed confidence that all the conditions set up by the government could be met.

"Prospects for port unification were never brighter than now," he declared, "and it has been realized generally that such unification will not only bring the government appropriation but that it is also an economic necessity."

JOHNSTON SPEAKS

Col. E. N. Johnston, however, declared that modification of the government's demands and conditions would be necessary before anything could be done. But he declared that the Allen plan was aimed to accomplish the first step in the program and urged its adoption.

"The two cities must first reach an agreement as to what elimination or modification of conditions they desire and the chances are that they will receive what they ask and work on the breakwater can be started by the fall of next year."

Otherwise, he said, the work might be delayed until 1932. A united front by the two cities in their demand will bring whatever changes in conditions are essential from the government.

After the favorable vote on the plan and the motion to appoint the committees to put it into effect, the meeting adjourned.

WOMEN ARRAIGNED

Operation of Employment Agency Without Permit Charged

Trial was set by Municipal Judge Bullock for the 10th inst., for Mrs. Della Wold, operator of the MacDonald Beauty College, 732 South Broadway, and Mrs. Kathryn Blanchard, manager, when they were arraigned yesterday on a charge of operating an employment agency without a license.

The complaint against the two women was signed by Miss Freda Klaas, 5501 Cimarron avenue, one of the students at the school, and twelve other students have been subpoenaed by Clerk William Staley to appear against the school officials.

According to the story told by the girls to Chief Deputy City Prosecutor Concannon, the school officials guaranteed to place graduates in positions after they had completed a course of training.

In continuing the case against the beauty culture school operators, Judge Bullock allowed them to be released without bail pending trial.

WOMAN SERIOUSLY BURNED IN EXPLOSION

Mrs. Mary C. McKenna, 40 years of age, of 1065 West Avenue 50, was burned seriously by an explosion of gas while cooking dinner yesterday, police reported. Her hair was burned off and she was badly burned on the upper part of the body. Surgeon Carey attended her at the Receiving Hospital. When Mrs. McKenna regained consciousness she cried out for her daughter, Mrs. Jessie Baker of the same address, who has been missing for a week, police said.

UNRULY MOTOR DROPS CLEW

Pair Buffeted by Indecision to Go Back or Ahead, Taken to Jail

Officer Jetton and Butts say they watched a car go back and forward, back and forward, and then repeat the maneuver several minutes yesterday at Highland Avenue and Sunset Boulevard. The car had two occupants.

"What are you doing?" the officers said they asked.

"We've been on a party," they say was the answer.

At the Hollywood station the men described themselves as Arbit Anderson, 24 years of age, and Dallas Hope, 25, both chauffeurs living at the Beverly Hills Hotel. They were booked as suspected automobile thieves, and a charge of being intoxicated was booked against Anderson.

DR. PORTER RESIGNS AS LAW DEAN

Southern California Legal School Head to be Replaced by Dr. Justin Miller

Dr. Frank Monroe Porter, head of the school of law of the University of Southern California for twenty-three years, has resigned as active dean, and has been appointed dean emeritus by the board of trustees of the local university, according to advice from the office of President R. B. Von Kleinsmid. Dr. Porter became dean of the Trojan school of law in 1904, when the enrollment was but sixty students, and under his deanship the professional school has been classed Class A by the American Bar Association, and is a member of the Association of American Law Schools.

Dr. Justin Miller, professor of law at the University of Minnesota and now on leave of absence from that institution and serving as professor of law at the University of California, has been named as Dr. Porter's successor, effective officially with the beginning of the academic year, July 1, next.

DR. FRANK M. PORTER

Coincidentally with bestowing upon Dr. Porter the title of dean emeritus, action was taken by the board naming the auditorium of the law school "Porter Hall."

Dr. Justin Miller is a member of the American Bar Association, of the Minnesota State Bar Association, of the council of the Association of American Law Schools and of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity.

Dr. Miller is a graduate of Stanford University. He has engaged in law practice in San Francisco, and in 1921 went to the University of Oregon as professor of law. In 1923 he became professor of law at the University of Minnesota.

He is also a member of Delta Sigma Phi, national debating fraternity; Delta Chi, national law fraternity, and of Alpha Pi Zeta, professional fraternity.

High-Salaried Tram 'Expert' Files Report

The preliminary report of Delos F. Wilcox, $5000-a-month "transportation expert" who was engaged to assist the city in its fight against the increased fare rate sought by the Los Angeles Railway, was filed with the City Council yesterday.

The report was not read, and was referred without comment to the Public Utilities Committee of the Council.

ashamed of himself. For one thing, they are vicious and libelous; for another thing, they are high-school poetry.

That song is by now thoroughly fixed as our national anthem—although nobody but an opera singer, with a peculiarly good range, can sing it. But somebody ought to write some new words. There is no reason why we should go on to the end of time making nasty cracks about the British Empire.

Even if we didn't like the English—which we do—there are strong reasons why it behooves both nations to be more than good friends.

MOTHER'S DAY PLANS ANNOUNCED BY RABBI

Honoring Mother's Day, Rabbi Isaacson of the Temple Israel will devote the Friday night services of the synagogue at Vine and Lexington streets to its observance. Rabbi Isaacson has chosen as his topic of discussion, "Mother—Then and Now." The talk will be preceded by several special numbers. Mme. Rosa Rosanova will render an appropriate recitation, while Leon Ramon, youthful cinema player, will tell of a son's love for his mother. Karl Kernohan, radio singer, will offer several musical numbers in accord with the subject of the sermon.

CONTRACTS AWARDED FOR MALIBU BRIDGES

Contracts for the construction for four bridges on the State highway through Malibu ranch were awarded by the Board of Supervisors to the Horton-Whipple Construction Company yesterday on their bids, totaling $83,100. They are to be of two and three-span concrete construction. "Through the kindly co-operation of Mrs. May K. Rindge, owner of Malibu ranch, the county is able to maintain good, practicable detours pending construction of the bridges," Supervisor Beatty, in charge of road work, announced.

MINNESOTA DANCE TOMORROW

The program for the Minnesotans Friday evening will include vocal solos by Lowell Planalp and Dr. H. O. Johnson and monologues by Roy King. The rally will be held in Music Art Hall, 233 South Broadway. All Minnesotans are invited and will have a chance to dance after the program.

BAZAAR FOR FILM GUILD

A bazaar for the benefit of the Screen Children's Guild building fund will be given at the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce on the evening of the 6th and 7th inst. Motion-picture stars have donated gifts to be sold and among the entertainers will be Oscar Knudson, painter, and Mme. Stubergh, wax-figure artist.

FESTIVAL AT SCHOOL

A May Festival will be given at 1:30 p.m. today at the Thomas Starr King Junior High School. The program, of eleven numbers, begins with a flag drill and ends with folk dances and a May Pole dance. E. C. Reeb, physical director of the school, prepared the program. The school is at 1400 Myra avenue.

LEADER AND VETERAN OF FILMS HERE

Hays to Make Short Stay While Griffith Returns to Assume Local Duties

Two of the motion-picture industry's most important members, Will H. Hays, president of the Motion-Picture Producers' Association, and D. W. Griffith, veteran director and producer, returned to this city yesterday from the East.

Hays arrived with Maj.-Gen. Charles McKinley Saltzman, head of the United States Signal Corps, and J. P. Conrey. Griffith brought in his party, Barton Hepburn, an actor recently signed, and G. J. Lloyd, his press agent.

Will H. Hays

Hays will be here for a short time only. He will attend the coming quarterly meeting of the Motion - Picture Producers' Association and will then proceed to San Francisco, where he will address the general assembly of the Presbyterian church. He will report on the progress of a drive for $18,000,000 for the pensioning of retired ministers, of which he is in charge.

Griffith will remain here indefinitely. He has recently been signed by the United Artists organization for the post of director-general of the Cinema Finance Company, holding company for United Artists. He will also personally direct a number of productions for release through the same concern. His first is to be started as soon as a preliminary plans, over which he started conference with Joseph M. Schenck ference with Joslowing his arrival yesterday, can be brought into shape.

D.W. GRIFFITH

Griffith brought only one actor with him yesterday in spite of numerous recent rumors that he would bring a cast of half a dozen to this Coast. Barton Hepburn is son of the late president of the Chase National Bank of New York and is reputed the wealthiest actor on stage or screen today.

Griffith explained Hepburn's presence after his arrival yesterday by stating that, in his opinion, only people who have had wealth and luxury are able to maintain their personality and front in the face of motion-picture salaries. He stated he will endeavor to find more capable actors and actresses from the ranks of the wealthy and the well-to-do.

CHAPLIN WOULD PURGE CHARGES

Attorneys Move Amendment of Divorce Complaint

Seek to Strike Out Clauses Asserting Turpitude

Spouse's Counsel Score Plea as Veiled Attack

Ageneral whitewashing of the divorce complaint filed by Lita Grey Chaplin against her comedian-husband was asked yesterday by the quartet of attorneys representing Charles Chaplin in a demurrer and motion to strike filed in Superior Court. Virtually all of the more sensational tid-bits in the divorce bill are attacked in the motion to strike and the demurrer as extraneous and impossible of corroboration.

The motion to strike, ten pages long, covers the scorching details of the divorce bill in detail and asks that they be thrown out wholesale, while the demurrer attacks those portions of the suit which deal chiefly with verbal family tiffs between the comedian and his wife. Even the fact of marriage at the time the complaint was filed is questioned on the ground that it is not set forth in the bill.

The motion to strike asks that reference to Mrs. Chaplin as "a virtuous and inexperienced" girl of 16 years of age at the time of the marriage go out. It seeks the deletion of the charge by Mrs. Chaplin that the comedian sought to force her to undergo an illegal operation and the further charge that he married her without any intention of carrying out his marital obligations.

WOULD DELETE SEX ANGLE

Reference in the complaint to Chaplin's moral conduct also is attacked.

Both the demurrer and motion to strike are to be argued before Judge Hahn of the Superior Court next Monday. At that time, it was indicated, the entire affair may undergo a complete and sensational airing. The papers filed yesterday were signed by Gavin McNab, Loyd Wright, Nat Schmulowitz and Charles E. Millikan, representing Chaplin.

"The demurrer is but a thinly veiled personal attack on Mrs. Chaplin. It shows obviously that Chaplin has absolutely no intention of making a fair settlement with his wife —a settlement which would have been more than fair under the circumstances—and that he never has had such intention, in spite of all his talk about 'hold-up' and similar statements.

"It is apparent that the only way to treat him is to get him into court and tell the truth about him.

PLAN VICIOUS FIGHT

"A fair and reasonable basis of settlement has always been held out to him, but apparently he has no intention of paying or settling. It is going to be a vicious fight and Chaplin can expect a return in kind."

Mr. Young also stated that an agreement had been reached with Joseph Schenck, head of United Artists, under which the film magnate's deposition will not be necessary. The corporation, he said, has agreed to furnish a statement to him of the comedian's financial dealings and interest in the corporation. A detailed statement as to the earnings of Chaplin's latest picture, "The Gold Rush," and the advance to the comedian for his uncompleted picture, "The Circus," also will be forthcoming.

Dispatches from Washington reported that the comedian had reached an agreement with the government in his income tax troubles. He has turned over to the government a total of $1,300,000, to be held pending final decision in the case.

Mayor and Knox Have Conference on Budget Slash

Mayor Cryer and Roy A. Knox, director of budget and efficiency, yesterday held their first conference on the municipal budget for the coming fiscal year. The meeting was very brief and was confined to a general discussion of the requests made by the various city departments.

It will be necessary to lop $6,300,000 from the total requests of $29,855,707 to keep the budget within the city's estimated revenues.

Knox and the Mayor will call the heads of the different city departments before them in the next few days, and will hold a series of conferences before deciding definitely where to apply the reductions necessary.

KENTUCKY PICNIC NEXT WEEK

DOG BATTLES DOG TO RESCUE BOY

Child Badly Mangled Despite Efforts of Collie to Whip Great Dane

CLAREMONT, May 4. (Exclusive)—Paul Webb, 6 years of age, son of J. E. Webb, a rancher near here, was bitten terribly today by a Great Dane dog, his face being slashed to the bone in several places. His condition is critical, but he may recover if no infection develops.

In a battle with the big dog to save the boy's life, a collie, partly paralyzed, broke his leash to take part, attacking the Dane with all his might. The father had a fifteen-minute fight to rescue the boy.

Webb had just bought the Dane and had padlocked him to a wall, instructing his son to leave the dog alone till he became accustomed to his new home. But the boy decided to take his new pet for a walk. The Dane attacked him at once. The collie had been a pet of the family for several years.

BULLOCK'S

Cleverest of Coffee Tables, $7.50!

Tea Wagon $23.75

With its one drop leaf! And made of genuine mahogany! Use it for an End Table . . . or a Coffee Table! An excellent introduction to these other Thursday values . . . in Bullock's Five Furniture Days.

The Tea Wagon at left . . . of solid mahogany; with the good looking oblong drop leaves which form a square table when lifted. A Tea Wagon is the hostess' best friend! Therefore . . . a bridal gift suggestion, is it not?

Have you shared yet in Bullock's Five Furniture Days? Others have . . . and have discovered that this is a carefully planned Event . . . with values of a very practical nature. A once-a-year occasion during the first week of May; that more may come to know Bullock's Furniture.

Drop Leaf Coffee Table $7.50

Among others, there is one phase of Five Furniture Days at Bullock's that demands consideration. Prices are very low, yes. These prices hold good whether you make use of Bullock's Deferred Payment Plan or not. You need feel no hesitancy in inquiring about this payment plan. It is simple and dignified. Bullock's urges that you use it. End Tables such as this at the left are more than the ordinary table! These are decorative; beautifully unsophisticated. And Bedroom Suites suggest a charming simplicity when done in this manner. Walnut and gumwood, with just enough of decoration to forbid severity. For the lines in this are dignified. A Dining Suite that has found many admirers in Five Furniture Days is this at the right. With its double pedestal base it departs radically (and interestingly) from the usual thing. The Table, Buffet, 5 Side Chairs and an Arm Chair. (Server and China Cabinet may be purchased to match, if a 10 piece suite is desired.) And what living room can achieve friendly informality without a Fireside Bench of some sort? At right above is one covered with mohair or tapestry. You may select from several different coverings. Again the invitation . . . come, share in this week's offerings.

INNER REFLECTIONS

When it comes to eating chicken also, a bird in the hand is worth two on the fork.

CONTACTS

A speed-fiend motorist ought to learn a great deal in time. He comes in contact with so many people.

ROLLING HOMES

Home isn't just a matter of four square walls. For most of us now it is getting to be a place on four rubber-tired wheels.

GOING STRONG

Most of us wouldn't mind reaching the ripe-old-been age if we could only be the sort of has-beens that Tyrus Raymond Cobb is.

THE LARGER PUBLIC

It's natural that a lot of the best literary brains in this country should be engaged in writing advertising. Writers like to write what the public reads.

LONDON TEA SHOP

A Four chimpanzees in the London zoo take tea every afternoon at 4 o'clock. After they have thus Anglicized the monks perhaps the British will give them the vote.

THE FATAL KISS

A Missouri matron of 50 shot and killed a man 75 years old who tried to kiss her. Now that the ladies are becoming so expert in the use of their artillery septuagenarians will do well to postpone their courting until they are invited.

ALWAYS KEEPS PACE

A statistician forecasts that at the present rate of increase the grandchildren of the great-grandchildren of the present generation will have average incomes of $11,000 a year. From which we assume that in those days it will cost the average man at least about $12,000 a year to live.

CLIMBY STUFF

A woman complains because she cannot remember her dreams. This is nothing to worry about. It is best that these doorjinks be not recalled. Folks who waste time in reviewing their visions have no competence for the business of the day. The dream book is as obsolete as the bartenders' Guide.

CHICAGO FISH STORY

Firemen testing two powerful pumps in a Chicago office building found them choked with fish from the lake. The fishing season has just opened in Southern California and it is surprising how many fishermen, without pumping, can choke an office building and all its occupants with fish stories that will never be tested.

THE SENSITIVE BIVALVE

The curator of the London zoo says that oysters are much more sensitive than lobsters, which does not contradict the old adage that one can't criticise an oyster, but indicates the cruelty of such criticism. Mr. Johnson once remarked that the first man to eat an oyster was a hero, but not until now was he known to be a brute as well. We no longer believe that might is right.

MAY DAY DUDS

The threatened May Day fling in Britain was a dud. The Reds vented their spleen only with their mouths. There was no red revolution in Paris as prophesied. The parade in Mexico City turned out to be a Catholic party. They attacked the police in spirits, but broke nothing outside of a few heads. The homes of the rich in New York were guarded; but nothing happened. In Moscow, the home of May Day duds, held a celebration that aroused nothing but yelks from their sleep. They tried to start something in Los Angeles; but discovered later that they had started a trip to jail.

ON THE FARM

Some economists assert that if American farms were run on the same lines as the average industry or business they could show a decent profit and the product would be marketed to proper advantage. But elements and hazards enter into agriculture that cannot be found in any other arena of human adventure. The mines and factories are in the keeping of experts, while farms may be largely said to be in the keeping of amateure—that is, there is little specific training for all the contacts that the farm may furnish. The agricultural college and the national and State governments now provide information and education that are doing wonders in overcoming ancient handicaps. As a result the modern farm raises all for which its soil and market are best suited and there is a minimum of what may be called lost motion. There is no reason why the life of an American farmer should not be the most desirable of human activities.

THE PRIMARY RESULTS

The people of Los Angeles are to be congratulated on having made an excellent start at Tuesday's primary election toward cleaning house at the City Hall and ridding the city government of the Parrot-controlled City Council. The City Hall political machine was started toward the junk pile by the people's votes and the job can be completed at the city election on June 7 if the good work is continued during the next month and on election day, June 7.

The political gangsters will make a desperate fight during the next four weeks to recover from the blow dealt them on Tuesday and by the use of money and city jobs paid for by the taxpayers will seek to retain at least a foothold in the Council. It behooves every good citizen to see that a clean sweep of the Parrot candidates out of the City Hall is made on June 7.

The vote in all districts showed that the people are sick of the entire administration crew in the City Council. The defeat of President Workman, Councilmen Allan, Criswell and Zahn, as well as the election of William G. Bonelli of Occidental College, who was opposed in the Fourteenth District by Andrew S. Wilson, the administration candidate, were among the outstanding indications of this determination to have a new deal. Another was the rebuke given Councilmen Hughes, Sparks and Barnes, who ran second in their districts. Hughes was led by Ernest L. Webster, Sparks by Virgil A. Martin and Barnes by Douglas E. Foster. Martin, Webster and Foster, who are now nominees, are experienced business men who were literally drafted by their districts to run against the incumbents.

Incumbents who were elected at the primaries included Councilmen Colden and Jacobson, both antiadministration, Councilman Hall, who was bitterly opposed by the union alliance machine, and Councilman Randall, who is detested by Boss Parrot and Mayor's Secretary Kinney.

The lack of any influence in Los Angeles municipal affairs of Senator Hiram Johnson is shown by the fact that his speech here a few days before election was in support of the Parrot-Cryer city administration and its candidates. Johnson made a special appeal for the re-election of Councilman Criswell, who was defeated.

The voters refused to be hoodwinked by the cry of the Johnsonites that the administration Councilmen should be elected because they "are for Boulder Dam." The voters made plain their opinion that Boulder Dam was not the issue in the Los Angeles city election. Instead they voted for restoration of city government to the people and for putting an end to such sell-outs of the public interest as the West Adams storm-drain extras, the Victory Park assessment district, the unionising of city employees and the brazen efforts of Labor Secretary Civil Service Commissioner Buzzell to intimidate civil-service employees into voting against Councilmen who dared refuse to wear the yoke of union labor.

It was noticeable that of those Councilmen who voted on the side of the contractor and against the people in the West Adams storm-drain extras matter, Councilmen Allan, Criswell and Zahn were defeated and Councilmen Hughes and Barnes ran second in their districts.

In the contests for judgeships on the Municipal Court the voters are again to be congratulated for re-electing the twenty-two incumbent judges, who have made excellent records, and for defeating Judge Richardson and electing Dudley S. Valentine to that bench. The people who insist that our judges be men who have the respect of the community have long been trying to oust Judge Richardson, and at Tuesday's election succeeded after an excellent campaign conducted by the Bar Association and the United Church Brotherhoods. High tribute was paid by the voters to Mrs. Georgia Bullock, who now presides over Division No. 6 of the Municipal Court and who led the ticket.

The voters, having gone to the polls to drive machine politicians, walking delegates and radicals out of the city government, did their duty in the Board of Education contest with enthusiasm. The four candidates indorsed by the Citizens' School Committee ran many thousands of votes ahead of the other thirteen candidates, the result constituting a vote of indorsement and confidence to the present administration of the Los Angeles school system and insuring the people that this same able management in the interest of all of the people will be continued.

The efforts of the Central Labor Council to fasten the yoke of unionism on Los Angeles received a stinging rebuke. Candidates indorsed by so-called organized labor in return for past and prospective services in unionizing city employees and Los Angeles industries in general were almost uniformly defeated. Among those wearing the union label and who were beaten, even for nomination, were Councilmen Workman, Criswell, Barnes and Zahn, Frank Mouser opposing Councilman Hall, whom the unions bent every effort to defeat, Assemblyman Byrne opposing Councilman Jacobson in the Thirteenth District, scene of another major union effort, Karl F. Schweiser opposing Bonelli in the Fourteenth, and L. A. Edwards opposing Councilman Colden. The unions supported Judge Richardson, defeated by Valentine, Lee Taylor, who was beaten by Judge Bush, and A. J. Bledsoe, second to Caryl Sheldon. For the Board of Education the Labor Council supported Sam Globerman, who was last in a field of seventeen, and Greely Kolts, who was eighth.

Notwithstanding that in twenty-six of the twenty-nine offices voted on the candidates indorsed by The Times were successful, The Times takes no credit to itself for the gratifying result. It is rather a tribute to the sound sense of the voters, whose verdict is foregone once the merits of the situation are made clear to them.

The Times, however, wishes to emphasize that the results of the primary, important and notable as they were, are only a beginning. The good work must be carried on at the final election on June 7 and thereafter, if the blighting influence of Parrot and his Reds, radicals and walking delegates is to be lifted permanently from Los Angeles.

SMITH SKIDDOO

The women of the W.C.T.U. of Chicago have taken up the trail of Al Smith. They announce that the Democratic women defeated him in 1924 and will repeat in 1928. There are many whom we should rather have after us than the women of the country. The women of the Democratic party have no intention of being wet nurses.

An Appeal to You

FEEDING THE BILLIONS

Prof. Ross of the University of Wisconsin is a chip off the old block of Malthus, English economist, who nearly a century and a half ago startled the breadwinners of the world by his announcement that population was increasing faster than the food supply. The Wisconsin professor estimates that at the present rate of increase the world's population will multiply thirty-two times in the coming century so that by 2027 there will be 60,800,000,000 persons on earth instead of the 1,900,000,000 now said to be living in all the world. Obviously, food supplies would have to be increased thirty-two times to feed them on the present scale.

Rev. Thomas Robert Malthus, in his "Essay on Population," said:

"The power of propagation being in every period so much superior, the increase of the human species can only be kept down to the level of the means of subsistence by the constant operation of the strong law of necessity, acting as a check upon the greater power."

Rank militarists have used the Malthusian theory to justify the wars of the world, claiming they were but operations of necessity to reduce the human race to proportions coinciding with the food supply. Malthus estimated the doubling of population once in a period of twenty-five years. Six times it has doubled, then, according to his theory, and man is better supplied with food than when the famous British economist was making his gloomy predictions on the fate of man.

While modernists have been increasing the food supply with the opening of new agricultural areas and the invention of farming machinery, they have likewise raised the world's birth rate to 45 to 1000 and reduced the death rate to 15 to 1000. Prof. Ross sees in this situation a new equation to be solved by posterity. A large factor in the increase of population is the reduction of the death rate by the science of white races applied in the oriental countries. The birth rate has continued as before or even increased and the oriental population of the world will comprise a major portion of the 60,000,000,000 estimated for 2027 if conditions now existing maintain at that time.

This does not constitute a great problem for the descendants of the living America, as Prof. Ross suggests, but merely discloses the rich prospects for the coming generations and reveals a ready solution to the "farm relief problem" that has been so long engaging the wise men of Wisconsin, Kansas, Nebraska and other points Mid-West. California is building ports out of which to send food supplies for the great population that already lies across the Pacific. The California producers themselves are making ready to grow a few thousand shiploads of food a year, and when the Orient needs it California will have the ships to carry it to the market. Rail lines—who knows but air lines—will take cargoes of grain and vegetables and fruit from California and the back country—back as far as Wisconsin no doubt—to the billions of hungry persons across the sea.

America west of the Mississippi can eventually produce enough food for all its own needs and the import demands of the populous nations lying around the world-embracing shores of the Pacific. The business of today is to forget the "strong law of necessity" and apply American brains and energies to the demands of humanity. Instead of permitting them to kill each other off in protracted wars born of famine, California and its sister States of the West and Mid-West must engage in the tremendous commercial and industrial task of making the Pacific population of the world glad of its heritage and confident of its future. The Pacific era is a-borning. The infant is a giant. Its cry is a roar. Americans of vision are feeling the thrill of it. The realization of this era will be won by human service and not human conflict and it is time to go to work.

A PROPHET OF GLOOM

Looking into the big end of a telescope a correspondent of the New York Times sees little faith in God or man in this day and generation. Scrutinizing commerce, he observes meager honesty. Large quantities of government graft loom forbidding. All statesmen are politicians. Professional men are mountebanks. Corporations corrupt their employees in practices that do not align with honor.

Theatrical managers and novelists are dragging the world through filth and then laughing at the debauch. News stands are but manholes of the bottomless pit. Children are disrespectful to their forebears and parents are puerile with their offspring. Disregard of the marital vow is a national disgrace and all the sacred conventions are on the toboggan. Conversation even in cultured circles is distinctly loose, and vulgar ostentation flaunts itself among the wealthy. Lack of courtesy makes the poor a boor. Indeed, nobody seems to suit the critic.

He who accuses others of being out of step should watch his own stride. The man who sees little good in his own country and imagines his fellow-citizens are all wrong with the world could consult an alienist with profit. A man's opinion of his neighbor is a coefficient of his neighbor's thought of him. The scamp who can see little good in his home, his business and his church has likely made a sorry mess of things. Only those who look through smoked glass can see spots on the sun. And they always see them.

Doubtless there are theatrical managers and novelists who could be massacred without benefit of clergy and not damage society. There are parents who ought to have been headed off from matrimony by the license clerk or a club. There are children that ought to be spanked. There is a vulgarity that ought to receive facial massage from Gene Tunney.

But when all is said and done this world is not half bad, after all. Today is a brand new day—the best the race has known. It is "plum full" of blessings, and there are more good men employing and enjoying them than ever before. In the main, more folks are climbing and glorying in the climb than ever before. Business, government, social life and religion are all on upgrade track.

THE PERFECT LIFE
By James J. Montague

I always thought the hobo,
Who roves from spring till fall
About the land nor turns his hand
To any work at all,
Possessed some special talent
Or genius, one might say,
Which taught him how, with beadless brow,
To loaf his time away.

I've often thought with envy
About the life he led—
No fuss or fret, no toil nor sweat
To gain his daily bread.
No stirring of ambition
Beneath his ragged breast,
Yet raiment, fare and time to spare
Are all at his behest.

Now I have heard these gentry
Who look on me with scorn,
And rightly so, as well I know—
Are made, instead of born.
They were not just plain lucky
Like Shelley or Babe Ruth,
Their way of strife evading life
Was taught them in their youth.

I know not how they learn it,
Or who confers degrees,
And sends them forth south, west and north
To lead their life of ease;
But were I some years younger
I'd save up all my pelf
A year or so, and then I'd go
And learn the trade myself!

LETTERS TO The Times

According to Their Means

LOS ANGELES, April 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The prompt response on the part of the public to the distress call of the sufferers by the most stupendous disaster this country has ever experienced is worthy of all praise. The Times list, headed by its liberal donation of $1000, contains the names of many to whom the subscription of even a single dollar means a real sacrifice, and among those donating larger sums there are, no doubt, many who can ill afford it. This proves that charity and good will are not empty phrases and that no worthy cause appeals in vain.

When the President calls for $5,000,000 for this pressing need it looks like a large sum. That it will fall far short of covering the damage done there can be no question, and ways and means will be found to raise all the money that may be needed.

This country numbers among its people many to whom a donation of $1,000,000 would mean less than that of a single dollar to those who earn it by the sweat of their brows. Will this class respond in proportion to their means? Let's hope so.
G. H. MOLL.

For More Publicity

SHERMAN, April 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In the interest of public safety I herewith take the liberty of making the following suggestion:

That some publisher's association or other agency (possibly our auto clubs would co-operate) establish a clipping bureau with the object of giving thorough publicity to every automobile accident of a serious nature—where any personal injuries whatever have been sustained.

I would have all the details of such accidents printed in every daily and weekly newspaper in Los Angeles county. Such a course would, I think, be calculated to impress even the most reckless motorist as to the appalling increase of such tragedies and might set them to thinking.

I would not advocate statutory enactment to accomplish the end in view as the proper kind of pressure applied to publishers and film producers (in fact, all agencies disseminating information) would probably bring better results.
J. M. CHADWELL.

Clean and Wholesome

LOS ANGELES, April 27.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The stand of The Times for clean motion pictures and for higher ideals in the direction of the country's fourth great industry should be commended and supported.

Cleanliness is next to godliness. Motion pictures affect the home; therefore, the production and exhibition of them should be in line with good public policy.

As a gratifying sign of the times I will cite that the other night I attended the annual midnight frolic of a group of musicians where the lid was supposed to be taken off. I was pleased to find that, save for one rather suggestive song, the entire program was entertaining, clean and wholesome.
MRS. HELEN SEABURN.

For Gravity Water

PASADENA, April 29.—[To the Editor of The Times:] After hearing the demagogical tirade of our senior Senator from California delivered in the Philharmonic Auditorium I cannot view him in other light than a "Great I Am." The vilification of others in trying to set himself right before the danger was farcical in the extreme. help Imperial Valley against flood danger was farcial in the extreme. Such action is demanded now by the exigencies of the situation. The river cannot be controlled in a month or a year to make it safe for those people who live under that menace.

A report from the government engineer says that by going farther up the river the city of Los Angeles can have gravity water. Do the city of Los Angeles and Southern California seek the expense of pumping over an elevation of 1200 to 1400 feet in the face of gravity water delivered from a higher location? Let the cost of getting to the higher location be what it may, it is only paid once. The cost of pumping is paid every day, week, month, year and on to eternity perhaps.

Southern California is yet in its infancy; it has a future beyond conception backed by conditions and advantages known nowhere else on this continent. Why not grasp the situation in all of its greatness.

The heartfelt thanks from a thankful people would go up in the years to come when they come to realize what gravity water means over an expensive pumping system as planned. There is a great field of opportunity, there is no champion at this time of this phase of the Colorado River development. Your paper is the logical forum through which the people may be educated to see the folly of present-day plans which carried to maturity will result in building a monument to our shortsightedness.
APOLLOS FULLER.

SHOES SHIPPED TO INDIA

Persons of the upper class only wore shoes in India until recently, but at the present time shoes are sent from Europe in rather large numbers. And their use has become quite general in all parts of the country. At first the natives showed no inclination to keep their shoes in an orderly appearance, but later they became addicted to the use of shoe blacking and the wearer of European footwear now takes pride in maintaining an immaculate finish on his shoes.

DEVASTATION

BY ELEANORE J. PARKER

And the people fled.
In those four words is the story of human impotence before the fury of the water.

There is no argument, no hesitation, for the roaring monster of angry waters is upon them even as they flee.

It sucks down into the slimy mire the things that they have toiled for—the furniture, the grain, stored for the winter, even the cattle that were, perhaps, sorted in the mad rush for safety.

The roar of the waters falls upon the ears of the people as they cling to frail rafts—their yesterdays were known. Children terrorized by the fear of grown-ups are numbed into an eerie silence.

In this, her greatest crime upon the people of America, Nature is in a revengeful mood. Unanaria her resentment as she sweeps the cities and fertile agricultural lands into oblivion.

She is an angry mother, robbed of her greatest and finest assets by the greed and waste of modern man.

In her ruthlessness she has him down, down into the mire and slime of the stricken plains.

"I will have no mercy. I am supreme, for I hold the winds and the waters to curb you. I am Nature, the despot and the queen. I stir the earth to new productivity to feed the race. I temper the wind to the young shorn lamb, I twine its roots to strengthen it for its ultimate service to man.

"Greed, and the tree falls, and other takes its place. I have sown seed into the heart of the earth for the conservation of the species, and man wastefully destroys it. I see them, then means for the future. I build for posterity; man, blind and lacking foresight, bungles with his conscious brain."

The leaves whisper of the coming of the night a sad refrain, for their days are numbered when the roots of the warm earth is torn from its moorings by the mighty force of the oncoming waters.

The antlike humans, seeking safety, swarm into camps to face new terrors, for the grim specter of famine and pestilence is hovering, like vultures, over them.

The crying of the people is heard in the land. Old and young are filled with awe in this hour of national disaster. "Men and women, halt for a moment, and consider the plight of these unfortunate sufferers, victims of the sins of their forefathers."

The trees, guardians of the waterways, are gone, and in their stead flood the children pay for the lack of conservation.

The trees, God's gift of shade, shielding and protecting, are gone. Now, in this hour of sorrow, the trees send forth a message of regeneration, for in the whisper of new growth, new life, to new glory.

Forests will rise upon the fertile soil. Seeds will burst into young trees, for in the soil is the elemental force, and in the warm rain promise of new and greater days.

Trees and water, God gifts to the people, unyielding in their demand for proper conservation, they take a terrible toll for their waste or misuse.

The forests, so full of beauty, are for the people, and in the heart of man lies the power to destroy them by carelessness or neglect.

In all the glory that is the city of Los Angeles, there always there, the lovely trees sacrificed to the god of progress.

If upon the broad avenues of moonlit nights the stately pepper trees were planted with serenity and grace would this street of the dreams of men and women be?

The palms, hidden away in the streets of homes, are lonely. But, in the heart of the city, the canopy of glory again would be a new beauty to this city of the south.

The street of the trees would be a lovely street. The people would grow bright with new hope. Men and women, leaders of the new city, would feel the peaceful beauty upon the great avenues. The way, and gay butterflies of fashion would pass thereon with the thing of that old, fast-dying English charm, enhanced by the palms and gently undulating trees.

Trees and more, and more trees, inseparable, living upon the other for life, and for or new lands deforested as a menace to man and property.

BILL THAT BAFFLED

Governments have always been careful in the printing of money that there have been mistakes made in it. However, there has been one notable exception to this in the United States. In 1862 a bill into circulation that showed on one side and $50 on the other.

This was discovered by a bank clerk. When he was making up his accounts for the day he found a discrepancy he could not explain. Placing the bills in front of him, he counted them over and over, finding them over and then turning them back in the order in which his right hand.

The baffled clerk summoned his associates, and they, in turn, tried to solve the mystery, in desperation, he called the manager and demonstrated to him. The two decided to examine every bill individually, and the faulty one found. It had been accepted as a $100 note.

The Treasury Department was notified and had a record of the bill. There had been two subscriptions to it due to their being printed from the same press. One had a $50 reverse and a $100 obverse, and the other had a $100 reverse and a $50 obverse. Each one had been discovered before any one was issued.—[Boston.]

And the people fled.

In those four words is the tale of human impotence before the fury of the water.

There is no argument; no hesitation, for the roaring, raging demon of angry water is advancing even as they flee.

It sucks down into the mud and mire the things that man has toiled for—the farms, rich with grain, stored for the winter, and the cattle that were, perforce, deserted in the mad rush for life.

The roar of the waters beats upon the ears of the people as they cling to frail rafts—rafts that yesterdays were homes. Children terrorized by the fear of parents are numbed into an eerie silence.

In this, her greatest onslaught upon the people of America, nature is in a revengeful mood. She snarls her resentment as she sweeps the cities and fair agricultural lands into oblivion.

She is an angry mother, deprived of her greatest and finest assets by the greed and waste of modern man.

In her ruthlessness she beats him down, down into the mud and slime of the stricken places.

"I will have no waste. I am supreme, for I hold the waters and the winds to curb you. I am nature, the despot and the friend. I stir the earth to new production to feed the race. I temper the wind to the young sapling. I entwine its roots to strengthen it for its ultimate service to man.

"Greed, and the tree falls. Another takes its place. I put the seed into the heart of the fruit for the conservation of the species, and man wastefully refuses to see them, then moans for its loss. I build for posterity; man, poor and lacking foresight, hampers me with his ceaseless waste."

The leaves whisper all through the night a sad refrain, for their days are numbered when the cold warm earth is torn from their roots by the mighty force of the oncoming waters.

The birds, frighted by this terrible moving force beneath them, fly and in their flight make the solitude of the waste lands seem deathlike.

The antlike humans, aliases of life, swarm into camps to meet new terrors, for the grim specter of famine and pestilence are hovering, like vultures, over them.

The crying of the people is heard in the land. Old and young are filled with awe in this great national disaster. "Men and women, halt for a moment, and consider the plight of these unspeakable sufferers, victims of the 'sins of their forefathers.'"

The trees, guardians of the watersways, are gone, and in the terrible flood the children pay for the lack of conservation.

The trees, God's gift of beauty, shading, shielding and beautifying, are gone. Now, in this hour of sorrow, the trees send forth a message of regeneration, for their whisper of new growth, new ways to new glory.

Forests will rise upon the flooded soil. Seeds will burst into green trees, for in the soil is the germinal force, and in the water a promise of new and greater forests.

Trees and water, free gifts to the people, unyielding in their demand for proper conservation, they take a terrible toll for man's waste or misuse.

The forests, so full of charm, are for the people; yet so seldom is in the heart of man that he is the first to destroy them by fire or by neglect.

In all the glory that is to the city of Los Angeles, she must always there, the lovely trees sacrificed to the god of progress.

If upon the broad way of commerce moontide masses gather, the pepper trees were planted, serenity and grace would come to this street of the business men and women gather.

The palms, hidden away on the streets of homes, are beautiful. But, in the heart of the city, a canopy of glossy green would bring new beauty to this city of the south.

The street of the trees would be a lovely street. Tired eyes would grow bright with new joy. Men and women, coming to the new city, would feel the greater beauty upon the green-treed boulevard way, and gay butterflies of women would pass thereon with something of that old, fast-dying English charm, enhanced by green palms and gently undulating trees.

Trees and men, and men and trees, inseparable, leaning each upon the other for life, old lands or new lands deforested are a menace to man and progress.

BILL THAT BAFFLED CLERK

Governments have always been careful in the printing and issuing of money that there have rarely been mistakes made in both. However, there has been at least one notable exception to this in the United States. In 1862 a bill was put into circulation that showed Lincoln on one side and $50 on the other.

This was discovered by a bank clerk. When he was making up his accounts for the day, he found a discrepancy he could not explain. Placing the bills in his left hand, he counted them, one by one by one, placing them over and placing them in his right hand. Then he counted them back in the other direction. When done from left to right to each balanced. When done the other way there was a $50 deficit.

The baffled clerk wasted two hours endeavoring to find his error. Finally, in desperation, he called the manager and demonstrated his trouble to him. The two decided to examine every bill individually. This they did, and the faulty one found. It had been accepted as a $100 note.

The Treasury Department was written to and had a record of the bill. There had been two misprints made due to their being reversed in the press. One had a $50 reverse and a $100 obverse. The other had a $100 obverse and a $50 reverse. The error or one had been discovered before it was issued.—[Mentor.

BOY WEEK PLAN AIDED BY RADIO

All Other Civic Movements Also Furthered

Smith's Los Angeles Band in Special Program

Hawaiian Players Feature of School Concert

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

There is scarcely a movement of importance nationally which does not find radio broadcast of untold importance and value in spreading general information about its work and particular data regarding specific events.

Boys' Week, now under way, finds the various broadcast studios ready and waiting to acquaint the general public with the aims and ideals of this country-wide movement, as well as to call the attention of listeners to channels of activity in which the boys of the land will serve this week.

Child Health Week, about which Mrs. Susan Dorsey, City Superintendent of Schools, so ably spoke from KHJ last Sunday night, is utilising radio stations everywhere to acquaint parents with this vital work which is doing a worth-while task in close co-operation with the public school systems of the nation.

FOR MOTHERS' DAY

Mother's Day next Sunday will see practically every station in the United States with the broadcast of special programs, both music and speech, in special commemoration to the mothers of the land—the KHJ night broadcast, for instance, being a radio offering dedicated to the gold-star mothers.

This week also ushered in national music week for which radio has done so much in these few comparatively few years of public broadcast. Better programs, more varied offerings, and a finer appreciation for the best in music and art, can all be traced in large measure to the influence of carefully prepared and well-rendered programs from transmitters.

Mothers' Day, Boys' Week and Child Health Week, Music Week, Clean-up Week, Garden Week, Forestry Week—there is literally no end to these nationally known movements for civic betterment in which the leading figures in each movement realize and recognize the sweeping scope of activity in which the studios of Radioland can help.

SCHOOL BROADCAST

The weekly school broadcast from KHJ at 1 o'clock yesterday brought tinkling tunes and timely talks to the pupils of the various city schools who were listening in at the several auditoriums and assembly halls.

MUSICAL PROGRAM

The musical broadcast of the night included Willis Attebery, directing Smith's Greater Los Angeles Band in a selection of marches, overtures and waltzes; Raymond Harmon, accompanied by Allen Dudley, giving his farewell radio recital before leaving today for Europe; Samuel Furede, 'cello virtuoso, in a classic program, including Goltterman's compositions; one of Frede's own numbers, "Prayer," and also his own "Hungarian Fantasy," for which he was accompanied by Marika de Karekparo, distinguished concert pianist; and the closing broadcast of KHJ for the day, an hour program by the Los Angeles Railway Orchestra.

Speakers of the air program for Wednesday included Fred C. McNabb, with his weekly garden talk; Rev. W. H. Blackburn of the United Brethren Church, with the Scripture reading; Dr. Marx Baumgardt and his astronomy talk; and Lal Chand Mehra, beginning a series of semimonthly radio talks on the psychology of life.

The 5:30 to 6:30 broadcast was taken up by the daily music memory test for the school children, followed by the Ray-O-Vac Twins and the KHJ Concert Trio.

VISITORS AT STUDIO

Among the visitors to KHJ studio this week have been Edward D. Carter, business manager of KFVD at Venice; J. W. Fitzgerald, Southern California distributor for Neutrowound receivers; Don Hunt, KMOX announcer of St. Louis, who will be on the children's hour program tomorrow night; Jim Fouch, owner of radio KMIC in Inglewood, and Dr. S. Wall, "Pegleg" of the Hobby Club at WBCN in Chicago, a famous radio character known to thousands of kiddies in the Middle West, and E. K. Barnes of KMTR, who was a member of the KFWB staff for nearly three years.

One of the most interesting visitors of the week dropped into the studio yesterday when Capt. W. Frost of the Royal Fleet auxiliary "Oleander" of the United Kingdom, made his first visit to Southern California as well as his first visit at a broadcast station anywhere.

STYLE SHOW FOR SPRING AT EXHIBIT

Manufacturers Sponsor Preview for, Which Live Models Will be Used

A group of textile manufacturers met with Miss Iris Ashton in the Southern California Manufacturers' Exhibit for luncheon yesterday, and made their first plans for a spring fashion preview, to be held in the main exhibit halls a week from next Wednesday evening. Plans advanced so far that an announcement of such an event was authorized, and some details already are arranged.

Miss Ashton, who will supervise the affair, plans to have a representative line of local makers of women's wear exhibit in a series of events, with live models, on the main floor of the hall, which will be rearranged for that purpose. There will be displays of lingerie, bathing suits and accessories, pajamas and night robes, negligees, frocks, sports wear, hats, shoes and the other frills dear to feminine hearts. All will be shown in groups in proper sequence, and a coterie of lovely models will display them in a series of miniature fashion parades during the evening, with music and other features interspersed. The idea has met with pronounced approval from the manufacturers of such wear here, and will be carried out in good style. More will be announced as details are further perfected.

A Mothers' Day address will be given Saturday by Dr. G. W. Haas, health expert, which will be without charge, as are all events in the exhibit or display halls.

Mrs. Wyman's cooking class will be held on Friday, and the furniture men will have luncheon today, with a discussion of plans for furthering their display potentialities.

One of the lovely affairs of yesterday afternoon was the garden tea with which Miss Helen Haverty entertained at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Haverty, on Shafto Place, the affair also serving to announce formally the engagement of the charming young hostess to Frank C. ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

GAINING, VITAMINS AND CARBOLIC ACID

"My son and I have obtained great benefit from increasing our calories according to your directions. We both belonged to the T.T.T. I would like to know if baking soda destroys the vitamins in cake and bread, or if taken for indigestion after meals? Also does fruit acid retard the flow of the normal stomach acid, if eaten with meals? Would covering the body all over with carbolic ointment cause poisoning?—Mrs. R."

Yes, baking soda used in cooking apparently does destroy the vitamins. But you should not depend upon your bread and cake for vitamins. You should get all of them in fresh vegetables and fruit, milk and cream. There is no need of cooking vegetables with soda. It is quite logical to suppose that soda taken after the meals would destroy the vitamins in the stomach. But why take soda for indigestion? You should find out the cause of the disorder and remove it.

No, fruit acids will not retard digestion nor decrease the hydrochloric acid of the stomach.

Yes, there might be a degree of poisoning from absorption from carbolic spread all over the body.

I'm glad you and your son have had such good results and let us know of them. If those having no organic trouble as a cause of underweight will conscientiously increase their calories of right food about 1000 C. more than needed, they should gain one-quarter of a pound a day, just as those overweight will reduce that amount by reversal of the process. For more detailed instructions, we have a booklet on the subject, for which you have to send 10 cents in stamps in addition to a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

HAIR DYE

1.—If dye can be applied to the hair without staining the scalp, there is no absorption by the system. Many of the hair dyes have in them powerful chemicals that are very harmful if absorbed. The fact that you have used a dye containing harmful chemicals for three years without injury does not guarantee that you can continue.

We have an article on the hair, which takes up baldness, dandruff, graying hair and the care of the scalp. Send only a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

NURSING COURSES BY MAIL

You cannot learn nursing by mail, Miss P. Even though you should receive a "handsome lithographed diploma" and the title of graduate nurse from the mail concern.

You could not convince the State board that your qualifications were sufficient to permit you to be a registered nurse; nor could you convince any physician or patient of your abilities when you applied for a position.

You have to have bedside experience, which you will have to get in a course in a hospital, in order to be recognized as a trained nurse. Most of the hospitals now require at least a high school education as a preliminary. However, the requirements vary in different States. Apply to one of your local hospitals for data, and do not spend your money uselessly for mail courses.

Mrs. H.—Our article on common eye troubles takes up styes, pink eyes, etc., and gives a good eye wash formula. Send only s.a.s.e. with your request.

Tomorrow: Stuttering

My Dear Followers: When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope bearing your full name and address. The practice of writing and asking is the only one for which you must inclose 10 cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it to any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the stamped, self-addressed envelope if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

The LAST WORD By ALMA WHITAKER

THE NINE GENTLEMEN

Esther is annoyed. She considers she has been imposed upon. She has been practically compelled to pay out $142 for the funeral of a strange man in whom she had no interest whatever.

Esther was left a widow with $10,000 insurance and a nice little home. Her only son is married. So Esther has no one but herself to provide for. But just when she had arranged her affairs nicely and got comfortably out of mourning, a sick old man appears on her doorstep and manages to convince her that he is the stepfather of her deceased husband, and the widower of her late mother-in-law whom she never met.

He told Esther he was down and out—otherwise he would not have hocked her up. He told her that, when he married her husband's mother, he had a good job and about $9000, but that said lady successfully fleeced him of his capital and had turned him out when he lost his job. He reminded Esther that this $9000 and some more besides, saved out of his earnings, had gone to Esther's husband when his mother died. So Esther had directly benefited by his loss.

Esther received him coldly and wished not to believe him. But he offered irrefutable evidence and Esther was finally convinced, much against her will. Anyway, she declared, she didn't see that it was up to her to do anything about it. She sent the old fellow away discomfited, but he had the indecency to come back and die on her front porch the next day. Half a lung and starvation was the Coroner's verdict.

Being a small town, everyone soon knew that the dead man was vaguely related to Esther; besides, he had all sorts of evidence in his effects. So, for the sake of public opinion, Esther vouchsafed him a Christian burial, but she was so mad about it that she had to write and tell us the injustice that had been put upon her.

We will therefore tell the little story of the "Nine Gentlemen of Hsiakman—Heathen Chinese All." The case had just been revealed in local courts.

Two years ago one Hippolyte Martinet started to beg his way round the world. He got as far as Hsiakman in China, and died while eating raw meat thrown at him by a Chinese butcher.

No one knew anything about this foreign beggar, but nine Chinese gentlemen convened and decided that it was their honorable duty to give this foreign beggar a decent funeral. They bought him a coffin, hired six coolies to carry him, four more to lower him into the grave, etc., and did everything in reverent style.

It now transpires that the foreign beggar has a family in this country who are heirs to $4000 left by him in an American bank. But as the Nine Gentlemen of Hsiakman have made no official claim for reimbursement the court cannot see that they are rewarded. The court did, however, declare:

"And it is further ordered that the minutes of the court express its appreciation of the piety of the Nine Gentlemen of Hsiakman."

The gallantry of the Nine Gentlemen was revealed through the investigations of the American Consul in China. And an American court has gone on record approving their pious action. These men might so easily have consigned the foreign beggar to a pauper's grave. No public opinion urged them to their piety. It was essentially a gallant and gentlemanly action on their part, without hope of reward or appreciation of any kind. We should prefer to call it a Christian act.

Esther had an opportunity to make hers a Christian act.

Fresh Flowers

An aspirin tablet in the water with cut flowers will keep them alive a great length of time.

Prepare for Paperhanging

Be sure the chimneys are clean before any paperhanging is done in the house, or, when fall comes along and the furnace is started, your new paper will have to be cleaned.

Holes in Lace

A novel method of mending a hole in lace and one that proves very successful is to put a piece of paper under the hole and stitch on the machine until the hole is filled. Then pick out the paper. Use very fine thread for the stitching.

Ready to Go

A pair of sateen bloomers of black with elastic at waist and knees is a joy to the mother of a creeping baby. She can safely dress him and put on these dark trousers until she is ready to go out and upon removal her baby is nice and clean and all ready to go.

Good Business for Everybody

The wise mother has a large box or some sort in which sonny packs away his toys each night before he goes to bed. Then the box can be put away and all disorder has disappeared. At the same time sonny is learning the great art of orderliness.

Rest for the Clock

Saturate a piece of absorbent cotton with kerosene oil and place it in the bottom of the clock. Let it remain there for three or four days. Then remove and start the clock. The fumes from the oil will thoroughly clean and rejuvenate the works of the clock.

Efficiency Tips

Add the leftover starch to the water when washing the kitchen linoleum. It will brighten it wonderfully.

When storing table or bed linens, be sure to wrap them in dark-blue paper to prevent them from turning yellow.

Add two lumps of sugar to each quart of olive oil as soon as the can is opened and it will not become rancid.

When the front stairs have to be painted, paint each alternate tread and when these are dry paint the other steps.

Where Shall We Dine TONIGHT

IF you are looking for a place to dine that is out of the ordinary—where the food is as nearly perfect as skilled chefs can make it—the service smooth and unobtrusive—and the atmosphere restfully luxurious—a luncheon or dinner here will delight you.

Peel Your Skin Back to Youth

Stop your face from looking aged and worn, blotchy and discolored. Beneath that faded skin there is a complexion as soft and beautiful as a young girl's. Do not allow the covering of ugly scarf skin to continue to hide your youthful beauty forever. Peel it off completely, entirely, without fail, in the privacy of your own home.

Smart women everywhere now use pure mercolized wax, which unmasks the face of all imperfections. Obtain an ounce at any drug store or beauty counter, and use as directed. Freckles, blackheads, lifeless or old skin disappear, like magic.

Soft and smooth with the glowing freshness of youth your skin beams forth in a very short time. Mercolized wax brings out the hidden beauty.—[Advertisement.

PARADE of FASHION HERE AND ABROAD

CLASSIC TAILOR-MADE POPULAR IN PARIS

PARIS. (AP)—The tailored suit with black coat and striped or checked skirt is a costume often seen in Paris this spring. The vogue of black and white as well as the trend toward more conventional styles contributes to its popularity.

The new suits are more fitted at the waistline. Hips are snug and often the backs of the coats are fitted by almost imperceptible small tucks. The tendency is toward the single-breasted, one-button coat, slightly cut away in front.

Bernard, famous for tailor-mades, has a suit with a black coat and gray and black checked skirt which is a composite of many new notes in the tailor-made.

RUBBER STOCKINGS PROTECT SILK HOSE

PARIS. (AP)—Rain proof and spot proof stockings of transparent rubber are obtainable in Paris for protection of sheer silk hose. The waterproofs reach to just below the knee and have a complete foot which is slipped over the silk stocking.

DESIGNERS OFFER SUSPENDER DRESSES

PARIS. (AP)—The suspender dress is sponsored by a few Paris dressmakers for sport costumes. In the lightweight woolens of contrasting effects which France has designed in many versions for spring, the suspender dresses show up well.

3101 E. 44TH ST., EAST LAKE, TENN.

Springtime streamed in through the open windows. The green fields of Georgia were basking in the sunshine. Somewhere a bird was trilling. It was a day to be happy.

But the pale woman at the table sighed and pushed away her plate. Nothing tasted right. She couldn't eat much. She couldn't sleep well, either. She was so weak, it was hard to do her work. When the baby cried, she wanted to cry, too.

She had not been well for four years. Her husband watched her with a man's helpless expression. But his mother knew a remedy.

"My mother-in-law," says Mrs. Belle Thompson, 3101 E. 44th St., East Lake, Tenn., "told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I took six bottles of the Vegetable Compound. I could sleep and would get up in the morning singing and feeling fine. I am the mother of three children, and always after the babies came I had to take treatments, but I can truly say that this last time I have only used the Sanative Wash. It does more good than the treatments. It keeps me on my feet to care for my children and I do most of my work. I feel it my duty to let you know how both of the medicines have helped me."

Another Happy Woman

"I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the little books you give away and began to take the medicine. After the first few bottles I began to feel better and could eat better and had fewer headaches. I feel like a different person. At anytime that I don't feel good I take the Vegetable Compound again, as I always keep a bottle on hand. You may use this letter for every word is true. I will answer any letters sent to me."—Mrs. JENNIE BOLLEKMAN, 611-11th St., Union City, N. J.

CLUBS CALL FOR CONTESTANTS

Youthful Orators Acquire Added Experience

Elaborate Programs Planned for Semifinals

Victors Will be Honor Guests at Hotel Luncheon

Youthful orators who have won their spurs in the district finals of the Fourth National Oratorical contest on the Constitution are in heavy demand throughout Southern California and other points in The Times zone, according to information received by Prof. Alan Nichols, zone contest director.

JULIEN SOURWINE

Kiwanis clubs and other similar civic and patriotic organizations are furnishing these contestants opportunity for perfecting their declamations in advance of the semifinals, which will take place throughout the entire zone tomorrow evening. Several calls for the services of these young declaimers have been received at contest headquarters, while outlying sections are making direct contact with their local champions.

Elaborate programs are being prepared for the eight semifinal sessions. In each instance the host school is providing an excellent musical program, in addition to the feast of oratory around which the event centers. Prominent members of the bar and educators will act as judges in these final eliminations prior to The Times grand finals on the 13th inst.

The remaining week, breathing space between semifinals and finals, will be largely given over to the finishing touches that make or mar the forensic effort. Coach teachers who have groomed many thousands of students in this contest will bend every effort to near perfection with the eight who are to battle for the opportunity of representing this zone in the national finals on the 27th inst.

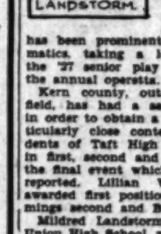
In honor of those contestants who are entering the grand finals, Prof. Nichols is arranging a luncheon in the ballroom of the Alexandria at noon on the 13th inst. Educational and civic leaders have been invited to this event to the number of 300. All of the eight contestants will be on hand—they being the guests of honor on this occasion.

Julien G. Sourwine, Reno, winner of the district finals in that section of Nevada, has shown marked ability in debate and oratory during his school career. Twice he has been captain of the school debate team—1925 and 1927—he represented his school in debate, extemporaneous speaking and dramatic reading at the recent State forensic tournament and was acclaimed State champion. He has been prominent in school dramatics, taking a leading role in the '27 senior play and a part in the annual operetta.

PHILIP MENDEL

Kern county, outside of Bakersfield, has had a series of contests in order to obtain a decision in particularly close contests. Three students of Taft High School finished in first, second and third places in the final event which has just been reported. Lillian Wentworth was awarded first position. Jim McCummings second and Billy Clark third.

Mildred Landstorm of Kingston Union High School, winner in Fresno county, outside of Fresno, will be a contender against Miss Wentworth in the semifinals at Fresno tomorrow evening. This contest is expected to be a close one and considerable enthusiasm is shown throughout the entire section, according to word brought back by Prof. Nichols from a hurried trip to Kern and Fresno counties.



MILDRED LANDSTORM

Covina High School gave first position to Philip Mendel and while young Mendel failed to place in the district finals this year his fellow-students have every confidence that he can do so in 1928 and already he is contemplating casting his hat into the ring for next year's event. Harry Gervetz, who placed first in this district, is a student at the Monrovia High School. His oration subject, "Liberty Under Law," lent itself to a stirring oration and he has many followers who are of the opinion he will finish high in the semifinals.

With the semifinals in the State of Utah already completed, despite the late start made by this State—which was entered for the first time this year—leaders in the educational field are in a position to give the contest serious thought and reflection and to pass opinions as to its value. The natural enthusiasm of a new toy has been worn away and the actual value of the event as an educational feature is now presenting itself. A single statement gives a consensus of the entire State, in so far as reports have been received. Angus M. Maughan, principal of Richfield High School, in concluding his report of the district finals—of which he acted as manager—volunteers the following remark:

"Permit me to say from the standpoint of our school I feel that our contest has been by far the most successful oratorical and public speaking contest we have ever had. Heretofore we have had an annual spring oratorical contest for which we have given awards and medals but never before has there been the enthusiasm and interest manifested nor has there in any sense been the same good derived.

Rod La Rocque has been given a new long-term contract, as have also Rudolph Schildkraut, Kenneth Thomson, Victor Varconi and Eleanor Fair.

DeMille recently signed Virginia Bradford to a new long-term contract, and the latest contract to be given was to Frank Marion, who plays the leading juvenile role in "The Country Doctor."

Frank Marion's real name is Francis Marion, but due to the probable mix-up resulting in names from the fact that Frances Marion is a well-known scenario writer, the studio has been searching for a name for the youth.

Marion was a child actor, appearing for the first time in pictures as the little brother of Ben Alexander in D. W. Griffith's "Hearts of the World." He played also in Mary Pickford's starring vehicle, "Little Lord Fauntleroy." Following his childish efforts at acting, in which he was very successful, he gave up picture work in favor of school, and recently graduated from Loyola College. He is giving an excellent account of himself in "The Country Doctor," which stars Rudolph Schildkraut.

Dick Barthelmess Comes Home

It is the longest time the two have been separated since Barthelmess made his trip to Europe over a year ago, and the star spent the first day of his homecoming with the little girl. Today he returns to the First National studio to resume work on the picture, which has been in production since the first of the year.

About two weeks will be required to complete "The Patent Leather Kid," following which Barthelmess will at once begin work on "The Drop Kick," a story of college life from the novel "Glitter," by Katherine Brush. It is planned to make this picture at Stanford University. It will be followed by "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come." Both stories will be produced for First National by Al Rockett.

Marie Dressler Busy

There seems to be a good chance that Marie Dressler will not be able to get to Europe this summer after all, the movies having apparently got her.

Having just finished a picture for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, she is now negotiating with United Artists for a role in one of the pictures to be made there.

J. D. Williams Here

J. D. Williams is among us for a short time, but it is likely that he may have some interesting announcements to make ere long. He leaves for New York within a few days.

Williams has occupied an important place in picture making during several years past, notably with First National, and of late he has been producing pictures in England. Whether he will continue to make pictures abroad or will make affiliations in this country is not yet certain.

Additions to Cast

Two important additions were made by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer yesterday to the cast of "Twelve Miles Out," starring John Gilbert. They are Richard Travers, well known for his work in Lillian Gish's "The White Sister," and other pictures; and Tom O'Brien, noted for his roles in "The Big Parade," "The Fire Brigade," and others.

TOM O'BRIEN

Young Fairbanks as L'Aiglon

That ambitious young trouper, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., has his heart all set on playing the role of L'Aiglon, and whether it is on the stage or in pictures, or both, he cares not.

Douglas Fairbanks Jr.

F. W. Murnau, as almost everybody knows, is to film the play, and he has young Fairbanks in mind for the role. But Murnau has gone to Europe to make a picture for U.F.A. and will be gone goodness only knows how long.

In the meantime, Frank Reicher is planning to stage a revival of the classic in this city, and if he does there appears no doubt but that Fairbanks, Jr., will have the role he covets in the spoken version.

William Farnum's Plans

While William Farnum is all engrossed just at present in his splendid portrayal of the duke in "The Firebrand," which has just left El Capitan Theater for San Francisco, the star still has time to look ahead and plan. Arthur Hopkins has written Farnum that he wants the actor for a new play in New York. Also Farnum has a play by Mrs. Paul Armstrong concerning revolutionary days in Ireland, which he is anxious to put on in Los Angeles.

Tough on Ruggles

What rather unknown young actress possesses the prettiest legs on the screen?

Wesley Ruggles wants to know. And while other directors at Universal envy him his job, Ruggles is interviewing and gazing upon young ladies, in search of the most beautiful nether limbs. The possessor of these legs will win a nice role in "Silk Stockings," Ruggles's new production for Universal, starring Laura La Plante.

Here is the test the applicant must be able to stand: Her legs must photograph well both in black and in white stockings and in no stockings at all. This is because, in the picture, she appears in turn in black and in white stockings and in no stockings at all. Many legs that photograph well in black are failures in white, and vice versa, Ruggles says.

But the point is, some young lady has a very wonderful chance to make good if she owns a pretty pair of limbs.

Eddie Cantor Tells It

The former Follies star has just returned from New York, where he went following completion of his second starring comedy, "Special Delivery." He has gone for several weeks. He walked out on the "Fireman, Save My Child" set, expecting at least a cordial "welcome back" from Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton. Just then the studio siren sounded for 5 o'clock.

"Hello, Eddie," Beery casually greeted Cantor, "where have you been all day?"

"And that," Cantor said, "is fame."

Gillstrom Will Do Another

When Director Arvid E. Gillstrom finished work yesterday on "Clancy's Kosher Wedding" at the F.B.O. studios, he learned that arrangements had been made for him to remain on the lot for another picture.

Gillstrom, who is under contract to the Christie studios for a major portion of their 1927 product, is permitted to free lance to other companies.

Musical Comedy Star to Act as Host to Guests

Mr. Cawthorn, now working in pictures at the Fox studios, will introduce the cast of "Seventh Heaven" and Frank Borzage, director, at the close of the program. Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, Ben Bard and Albert Gran are among the principal players.

SAYS VERA REYNOLDS IS VERSATILE STAR

Versatile Vera Reynolds! This is William De Mille's terse description of the star of "Corporal Kate," whose newest starring picture, "The Little Adventuress," a screen edition of A. A. Milne's successful play, "The Dover Road," will be the screen feature at the Hillstreet Theater next week. The versatility of Miss Reynolds is revealed, thinks her director, by her four most recent roles. In "Sunny Side Up" she played a dancer in a musical revue; in "Risky Business" a wealthy society girl; in "Corporal Kate" a manicurist who goes to France with the Red Cross, and now, in "The Little Adventuress," she is a little artist, who, under a romantic spell, elopes with the wrong man.

Victor Varconi plays the lead opposite Miss Reynolds, while others prominent in the supporting cast are Phyllis Haver, Theodore Kosloff, Robert Ober and Fred Walton. Clara Beranger adapted "The Little Adventuress" for the screen.

CABARET FAVORITES EMPLOYED BY STUDIO

To make cabaret scenes in the films what they should be, Pearl Leonard and Nina Hinea, featured favorites at Miller's Cafe Lafayette, have been in such demand that Harry M. Miller has loaned their services by day to various directors for cafe scenes in numerous pictures, where night club, cafe, restaurant and cabaret atmosphere was demanded by the script. In addition they appeared nightly at the Cafe Lafayette.

Reginald Barker, Alan Crosland, John Ford and William Beaudine are directors for whom they have recently appeared. They have also appeared for Sid Grauman, who is considering using the pair in a new prologue he is creating.

CHARLES MAILES TO ARRANGE FAREWELL

Varying the usual plan of having personal appearance of stars on the opening night of a run only, Sid Grauman has decided to hold a fitting farewell ceremony for "Old Ironsides" at the close of its highly successful showings at Grauman's Egyptian on the 12th inst., in which members of the production will take part.

He has asked Charles Hill Mailes, who plays Commodore Preble in the piece, to arrange for the farewell festivities.

ENGLISH CAPITAL APPLAUDS OPERETTA

Information received by Charles R. Baker, business manager of "The Vagabond King," the new Friml operetta which is now appearing at the Biltmore Theater, from Russell Janney, producer, advises that the London premiere of the piece, which took place on April 18, last, at the Winter Garden, proved a sensational success. An all-English cast was employed, with Derek Oldham as Francois Villon and Winnie Melville, one of England's best-known singing actresses, as Katherine De Vaucelles.

Three companies are now presenting the play—one in Boston, one in the English capital and the one at the local playhouse.

IS TWICE CAST

FIRE-FIGHT THRILLS ARE APPLAUDED

Large Audience Enjoys Showing of Flame-Battling Epic at Million Dollar

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

Even if the yellow-colored flames look all too theatrically lurid, "The Fire Brigade" is a great thriller. So don't be misled into thinking that this is merely a propaganda picture when it is really a rip-roaring melodrama.

Of course, "The Fire Brigade" isn't just the sort of production that belongs to a more or less enlightened age of screen fare, but then it is the rousing sort of entertainment.

With the band playing out in front, the first showing of this picture eventuated with considerable show of popular interest last night at the Million Dollar Theater. There were plaudits in the exciting portions, and a general ovation when the good old horse-driven fire engine responding to the "fourth alarm," dashed madly ahead of its modern motorized descendant. All the hokum of this particular incident, did not diminish the reaction that it aroused of sentiment and enthusiasm.

"The Fire Brigade" is really a combination of spectacular blazes, self-evident pathos, and a gratuitous love story. The blazes have the most to do with its dramatic effectiveness. There are two big fires—one at the start, and another as the climax. The latter occurs in an orphanage, and develops a gripping rescue of a little youngster whose life is threatened by flames and falling concrete and plaster. The final scene discovers the child on the high roof of the building, and the fireman who is attempting to save her is almost buried beneath a mass of debris, rocks and timbers trying to free himself in the effort to reach her, and leap from the tottering cornice of the building.

The firemen's field day is an interesting episode. A swan dive performed by one of the men is somewhat breath-taking, and daring climbs are made up the sides of a model building, and the uprearing ladders on the moving ladder trucks. For anyone who has not seen a fireman's field day this is a revelation of prowess, and perhaps embodies a few thrills not on the regular program.

The story of the picture is for the most part just a very ordinary one about the young fireman falling in love with the daughter of the big city capitalist which you can believe if you feel very good-natured. I don't deny the possibility, but the way it all comes about is not very cajoling to the imagination.

The sympathy and devotion between the three fire-fighting brothers is much more inviting, and there are a lot of good monkeyshines in which they take part, with the old fire captain. The mother-love theme evidences some heart throbs in connection with the death of two of the boys while they are on duty.

Pictorially, the film is not altogether enticing. The flames are occasionally tinted a tomato blond that is inclined to be distracting. On the whole, though, the dramatic effect of the fire and destruction is exceptional—by far more realistic than the bulk of such scenes as shown in the past.

People will, I think, like Charles Ray in "The Fire Brigade." His comedy is better than his seriousness, but he does some dramatic hits toward the finish very forcefully. Altogether, his is an effective portrayal. May McAvoy is pretty and pleasing as the girl.

Bert Woodruff is a mirthful personage, while Tom O'Brien, who is well cast as one of the brothers, is very much in character. Herbert is the capitalist and Eugenie Besserer the mother, while DeWitt Jennings, Warner Richmond, Dan Mason, Vira Ogden and Erwin Connelly are other principals. Miss Ogden does an amusing caricature.

The direction by William Nigh is very efficient, especially as this is a type of picture that involves no end of difficulty in the making. Kate Corbaley and Alfred A. Cohn provided the story and adaptation.

After the showing Conrad Nagel introduced the principal members of the cast, who all were warmly applauded. The prologue made a very definite hit, dancing and singing numbers being given from a raised platform, representing the recreation room of the fire house. The lower portion of this set, as you might suspect, recalled romantically the days of the old-fashioned fire engine, and white horses which were hitched up to the wagon and driven off the stage at the finish.

Executive Sees Deeper Note in Screen Comedy

"The purely gag comedy is waning. Its successor will have a more sincere story and plot as its background, with pathos to excite an occasional tear, and perhaps an unobtrusive moral," says Edward J. Montagne, editor-in-chief of the Universal Pictures Corporation.

With the reputation of being one of the most astute men in motion-picture production, Montagne keeps in close touch with the public's demands through the exhibitors and many other sources. Upon this information he bases the foregoing prediction.

"I firmly believe that during the next year we will see a decided change in the type of comedy being made," Montagne continues. "The gag comedy was great entertainment while it lasted and served a useful purpose. It was a wide departure from the heavy type of dramatic story which had a good run."

Ideal entertainment, Montagne believes, should send the audience away with a thought of some kind, and if possible a brighter outlook on life.

Betty Blythe Welcomed in Screen Return

Appreciative of the talents of the beautiful Betty Blythe, motion-picture circles were quick to welcome the popular actress back into their fold, for, no sooner had she returned from abroad, where she was featured in foreign cinemas for more than a year, than she was immediately cast in the Warner Brothers picture, "The Belle of Barcelona."

Miss Blythe's histrionic experiences across the Atlantic will be an invaluable asset to her, it is said, for they give her a broad outlook upon European methods of picture production, a feature so important now that American films are invading every portion of the globe.

"SENORITA" IS NEW FILM

With Bebe Daniels in the role of a girl who masquerades as a swashbuckling caballero of the South American pampas, "Senorita" opens today for a week's run at the Metropolitan Theater.

The picture presents Bebe in a decidedly new and different role. Garbed as a devil-may-care young Spanish-American, she rides, fights, fences, and brings consternation to the ranks of her grandfather's traditional enemies. James Hall plays the lead opposite Bebe, as Roger Oliveros, leader of the rival clan. He meets Bebe one day when she is not disguised, and immediately falls in love with her, not realizing that she is the dashing young "man" with whom he is to fight a duel on the following day.

BEBE DANIELS

"Senorita" was directed by Clarence Badger, who has directed Miss Daniels in many of her past successes. The supporting cast also includes William Powell, Josef Swickard, Tom Kennedy and others.

Director Has Simultaneous Hits Running

It is seldom a stage director has two successful productions running at the same time. Harry Mestayer, however, happens to be one of the few who enjoys this distinction. "The Donovan Affair," the baffling Owen Davis drama that keeps audiences guessing at Wilkes's Vine-street Theater, was staged by him. At the Majestic Theater "An American Tragedy" which rounded out ten successful weeks in Hollywood and is now continuing its successful run downtown, was produced under the direction of Mr. Mestayer.

Not content with resting on his present laurels, Mr. Mestayer is now busily engaged in selecting the cast of a comedy scheduled by A. G. Wilkes and C. O. Baumann for presentation at Wilkes's Vine-street Theater following the view of "The Donovan Affair."

"Deacon" Cast Will Play to Aid Destitute

A benefit performance of "Alias the Deacon" will be held Sunday afternoon at the Hollywood Playhouse, according to an announcement of the board of directors, and the entire proceeds will be given to the flood sufferers. The players, stage crew, and the whole personnel of the theater will donate their services to this cause.

Berton Churchill, starring, will not only donate his services, but also one-eighth of his weekly salary to aid the victims of the most disastrous flood in the history of the United States.

Regular matinees are on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. "Alias the Deacon" is now in its last three weeks.

CHINESE LEGEND IS VIVIDLY PORTRAYED

"Turandot," the last Puccini opera, received an interesting exposition by Ethel Graham Lynde and May MacDonald Hope at the Biltmore Tuesday afternoon before a large audience. The story of Chinese tradition and drama was vividly unfolded by Mr. Lynde in expressive word and gesture supplemented by the playing of the piano score by Mrs. Hope in a brilliant manner.

The opera bids fair to be one of the popular successes of the coming fall season of the Los Angeles Grand Opera Association.

Andreas De Segurola, New York impresario, who is in Southern California playing in pictures, added an interesting note to the opera reading by telling of the first performance at La Scala in Milan when Toscannini stopped as the last note written by Puccini was played and turned to the audience with the dramatic words: "Here Puccini died!" The work was finished by Alfono, composer of "Resurrection."

ADAPTS "SHOWBOAT"

In addition to the manifold duties incumbent upon him as editor-in-chief of Universal Pictures Corporation, Edward Montagne is writing the screen version of "Showboat," by Edna Ferber, which is to be filmed by the Laemmle organization as one of its biggest productions of the year.

Portrait of Widow Cagle Called Great

Miss La Verne makes Widow Cagle a character taking general rank with such historic portrayals as Joseph Jefferson's Rip Van Winkle. She makes the role one of the outstanding ones of the present era of the American stage.

Drum Will be Gift of Abe Lyman Tonight

When Abe Lyman gathers his instruments together tonight after his concluding performance at the Uptown Theater, where he has played a twenty weeks' engagement, his famous drum will remain behind in California, as a souvenir.

The drum will be autographed, and presented to the fair lady or handsome gentleman, with the orchestra leader's compliments, to forever grace the trophy collection of the winner.

Lyman's concluding performance is also the last showing of Jack Mulhall and Alice Day in "See You in Jail."

Karl Brown, a directorial "find," whose first picture, "Stark Love," is being acclaimed a unique success everywhere, hails from the ranks of the cameramen. For years he was James Cruze's cameraman, and in that capacity he filmed all of that director's big pictures for Lasky noteworthy among them "The Covered Wagon."

Brown now is at work on his second directorial effort, "His Dog," by Albert Payson Terhune, a story very similar in type to "Stark Love," which he is filming for Cecil B. De Mille, with Joseph Schildkraut and Julia Faye.

SHOOTING NIGHT SEQUENCE

Battle sequences of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" were launched last night, with Arthur Edmund Carewe, male lead, launched in his most dramatic work of the Harry Pollard film. There still remain just about six more weeks of shooting after which Carewe will be available for proposals now pending the completion of his Universal engagement. Carewe has been associated with Universal for the last eighteen months.

AL JOLSON WILL PLAY HERE SOON

'Mammy' King Will Bring Musical Show to Biltmore for Three Weeks

Al Jolson, "world's greatest entertainer," opens a three weeks' engagement at the Biltmore Theater the 23rd inst., in his new musical show, "Big Boy," which has been hailed as the biggest success of his career. This will be his first appearance here since "Bombo," three years ago.

In "Big Boy," Jolson plays the role of a negro stable boy who rides the winner in the Kentucky Derby, the running of which takes place on the stage, with four real race horses coming down the stretch. There are two acts and fourteen scenes, all of which are laid in and near Louisville. The company totals 100 people, and travels via a ten-car special train.

The "mammy" king is bringing a new bagful of laughs and is singing a brand-new collection of songs, including "Me and My Shadow," "Swanee River Trail," "One O'Clock Baby," "What Does It Matter?" "It All Depends on You" and "Ain't She Sweet." He also renders a group of negro spirituals with an octet of jubilee singers from Alabama.

Stars to Judge in Contest for Handsome Blond

The most beautiful feminine strawberry blond and the most handsome male with a topknot of the same color, will be awarded valuable prizes by the Cinderella Roof Tuesday evening when Manager George McCarthy will stage a "Strawberry Blond" contest, with Mabel Taliaferro and Sterling Holloway, featured in the farce comedy of the same name at the Orange Grove, judging the affair.

A number of awards will be made, according to McCarthy, for the most freckled girls and boys who boast of a straw-colored tonsorial adornment.

Following the regular Tuesday evening performance of "The Strawberry Blond" at the Orange Grove, the entire cast will move over to the Cinderella Roof. It is said that McCarthy is staging the affair in an effort to locate the most beautiful blonds in the city for film purposes.

Mickey McBan, Clara Bow, Nancy Carroll, featured in "Chicago" at the Music Box, and others are expected to participate in the festivities.

Murder Satire Will End Run Here Shortly

"Chicago" will leave Macloon's Music Box in three weeks, the producer of Maurine Watkins's satirical comedy announced this morning. Despite the fact that the production, now in its seventh week, has been playing to big business since the opening night, other productions which Macloon has planned for the Music Box necessitate the closing of the current attraction shortly.

Reports from the East show that "Chicago" is a bigger hit here than even in New York, where it is now in its fifth month. The interest which has been manifested in the local productions indicates that capacity audiences will throng to the Music Box during the final weeks of the engagement, and arrangements are now being made to take care of all telephone and mail-order reservations for the remaining performances. Additional special matinees may be scheduled.

Definite announcements concerning the production to follow "Chicago" are expected within the next few days.

BALLYHOO DRAMA SCHEDULED HERE

Isabel Withers

"The Barker," Kenyon Nicholson's dramatic narrative of carnival life, comes to the Belasco Monday night. For his material the author, a university professor in New York, traveled with today's counterparts of strolling players for an entire summer. Isabel Withers is prominent in a specially recruited cast headed by Louis Bennison in the title role.

SIX PROMOTERS FACE DIFFICULTY

Sextet to Face Trial at San Bernardino

Trickery and Embezzlement Charged

SAN BERNARDINO, May 4.—Wholesale returning of indictments marked the conclusion of the grand jury's inquiry into the promotion of the Fishelton Farms poultry colony north of San Bernardino today.

Indictments were returned against six, including R. M. Thomason, promoter of the tract; J. K. Tibbitts, editor of the Labor Journal and an officer in a San Bernardino bank; J. M. Kuder, real estate broker of Santa Ana and formerly of San Bernardino, and Stephen Bedford, an attorney, all of whom are under arrest.

Tibbitts was released on $7000 bail; Bedford on $1000, and Thomason is held in the San Bernardino County Jail in default of $7000 bail. Kuder, arrested at Santa Ana, furnished bail.

Thomason is charged in the indictments with obtaining money under false pretenses, by trickery and embezzlement. Tibbitts is charged in one indictment with obtaining money under false pretenses and with perjury in a second indictment. In a third indictment he is jointly charged with Thomason of embezzlement.

The indictments were returned after colonists, scores of them lured to the tract by asserted false advertising, had told stories of losing their life's savings in the project. It was promised, the colonists said, that the Fishelton Farms Corporation would buy eggs from the colonists at a figure 20 cents per dozen above the market price.

The colony project began operations more than a year ago. In the tract today are a score or more of homes and chicken ranches half-completed, the project collapsing six months ago when the promoter ran into financial difficulties.

Students Find Relic of Days Now Ages Past

CLAREMONT, May 4. (Exclusive) Buried for more than 20,000 years in Marine-shale cliffs, the leg-bone of a giant elephant was discovered yesterday by geology students of Pomona College on a field trip at Los Angeles Harbor. While examining the cliffs in the northeast section of the city for fossils, two students, Garland Ferrell of Santa Ana, and Warren Scott of South Pasadena, saw the end of the bone protruding, apparently exposed by a recent landslide.

Although warned by residents of the town of the danger of working on the cliff which has been caving away since recent rains, the students hacked away with miners' picks for several hours and finally unearthed the great bone. It stands almost five feet in height and weighs about fifty-five pounds. Incrusted with marine fossils, it must have lain in shallow ocean water for some time before sinking into the earth. Dr. A. O. Woodford, geology instructor at Pomona, and several advanced students are studying the bone and have replaced some pieces that were broken off. They pronounced it the femur (large leg-bone) of what may have been the imperial elephant that roamed over Southern California more than 20,000 years ago.

City Celebrates Annual May Day Play Day

MONTEREY PARK, May 4.—This city was in holiday attire today in observance of the annual "May Day Play Day" staged under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. Business establishments were closed and the community gave itself over to enjoying the various festivities.

The feature of the morning program was a parade of decorated automobiles and floats which passed through Monterey Park, Alhambra, San Gabriel, Temple, El Monte and Arcadia. Schools, women's organizations, the flower show association and business men took part in the event, and the Alhambra High School band headed the procession. Amusing entries in the parade were an automobile of the vintage of 1902 and a high-wheel bicycle ridden, with difficulty, by Frank Allen of the Chamber of Commerce committee. Prizes were awarded for the best decorated cars.

This afternoon an automobile race was staged on Rosslyn avenue, and special numbers were given by the pupils of Monterey Vista, Ynez and Garvey schools. Field sports, which attracted men, women and children, were held.

Tonight Garvey avenue, the city's main business street, was ablaze with lights, a new lighting system being put in operation for the first time. A street dance was also on the evening's program.

ANNUAL FIESTA ON MILLER & LUX RANCH

LOS BANOS, May 4.—Memories of early California days will be revived at the annual fiesta which will be held at Los Banos on May 7, according to Max B. Arnold, local manager for Miller & Lux, Inc., who states that the program includes a bull fight, field events, boxing bouts, as well as cowboy contests and a barbecue, with a grand ball at night to wind up the fiesta.

"This annual May Day celebration was instituted back in the fifties by the California land baron, Henry Miller, on his Santa Rita ranch," said Mr. Arnold, "and it has been held each year at Los Banos ever since. It was the custom of Henry Miller to cut and serve the first slice of barbecue, a custom which he continued until his passing in 1916; James E Pickett, president of the company, will preside this year."

FINLEY WINS MAYORALTY

Municipal Election of More Than Passing Interest at Santa Barbara

SANTA BARBARA, May 4.—T. R. Finley was swept into the office of Mayor of Santa Barbara by one of the largest majorities ever given a public official, according to returns of the election, completed at 5 o'clock this morning. The vote was 4366 to 2003.

At the same time the voters, by a majority of better than four-to-one approved a $450,000 bond issue to rebuild the East Cabrillo Boulevard, on the ocean front, and a $50,000 issue to build a municipal incinerator to eliminate the city dump.

Attorney Weston E. Learned, with 3054 votes, defeated Police Judge E. A. Rises, who polled 3032 for the office of police judge. City Attorney Sam Bingham was an easy winner over Attorney Coleman E. Stewart, while City Assessor W. W. Smith was re-elected over Maj. Guy P. Sawyer.

Mrs. Mamie E. Greenough, scout executive; Calvin McCray, E. E. Martin, Dr. P. C. Means and W. R. Hart were elected to the Board of Education.

Mr. Finley will be supported by a Council of six members, all pledged to his policies of harmony. They also were elected by big majorities in most cases. The new Council will be: Ward No. 1, John M. Henney; No. 2, Walter B. McIntosh; No. 3, John A. Parma; No. 4, Starr W. Gruner; No. 5, Lascelle Thornburgh; No. 6, Harry R. Graham.

AMERICA TO EXCEL IN FLYING

Expert Tells of Future of Aircraft and Outlines Federal Policy

PASADENA, May 4.—Citing natural and other advantages which should give the United States world leadership in aviation, Lieut.-Col. H. H Blee, senior business adviser of the United States Department of Commerce, outlined the aeronautical policies of the government and predicted a brilliant future for flying in America, in an address today before the student assembly of the California Institute of Technology.

In brief, the policies of the government are no subsidization of commercial aeronautics; co-operation with commercial companies through laws providing for safety, and the establishment of a complete nation-wide system of beacons to make night flying and flying in adverse weather, safe.

The government does not favor the type of subsidy practiced in connection with commercial flying in many European countries because it very largely eliminates competition, a factor which has had much to do with the advancement of aeronautics in this country, Lieut.-Col. Blee said.

The United States' natural advantages for flying consist chiefly in the fact that there are no international boundaries to be crossed in the course of ordinary commercial flying, eliminating many complications, and in the absence of mountain ranges except along the coast lines, where they can be crossed easily in passes. As a result there is more air traffic between the Pacific and Atlantic coasts than in any European country, Lieut.-Col. Blee stated.

Saving of time, greater convenience and comfort are some of the advantages of commercial aviation over land transportation, as pointed out by the speaker. Safety is the predominant factor in the public eye, he said, and great effort is being made along this line.

Every ten miles along the main air routes, beacons of 2,000,000 candle power, visible for forty miles in good weather, are being erected, together with emergency landing fields every thirty miles, where directions can be obtained, he said.

One of the latest aids to pilots in keeping on their course, is a radio apparatus which operates equally well in good and bad weather. Two lights on the plane's instrument board are operated from the ground at stations 200 miles apart. Whenever the pilot goes off his course, these lights tell him so, automatically. Thus in foggy weather, he does not have to depend on the ground beacons. Other radio devices are being developed to keep pilots informed as to their distance above ground, distance from starting point and other information.

In 1926, the average speed between ports of the New York-Chicago airway was seventy miles an hour, he said. The Postoffice Department carried over 12,000,000 letters 4,500,000 miles in 268 planes, with an average of over 2,000,000 miles for each fatality recorded, the speaker said.

CALL RECALL ELECTION

Charges Directed Against Entire Board at Calexico

CALEXICO, May 4.—In compliance with recall petitions recently filed and certified as legal by City Clerk R. S. Emerson, the five City Trustees last night called a special recall election to be held on June 7. The recall is directed against all five members of the city board. In announcing the election date last night, they declared that they were ready to turn over their offices to successors, if the voters desired a change.

Sponsors of the recall have not yet announced candidates to run in opposition to the incumbents. The petitions include general charges of inefficiency against the present board and single out Police Chief Hardwick for special criticism, asserting that his method of dealing with tourists, who come here to enter Lower California, has caused much unfavorable criticism of the city.

Hardwick is now being tried in the Superior Court on a complaint signed by W. A. Taylor, El Centro lettuce buyer, who was shot by the police chief on February 3, while arresting the man.

MONROVIA LEGION TO SPONSOR DRUM CORPS

MONROVIA, May 4.—A drum and bugle corps for Monrovia Legion Post No. 44 is assured, it was announced at a post session last night and Ted Lawson, prominent local Legionnaire, was elected manager of the organization. A membership of twenty-five has been recruited to start practice and it was believed that this number can be doubled within a few months.

At last night's meeting $8 bonds were sold to the Legionnaires to the amount of $150 and the Security Trust and Savings Bank made a donation of $25. Lavenson was authorized to purchase twelve drums and eight bugles to equip a corps of twenty men as a start. This number will be added to as funds permit.

Prof. Underwood of Portland, Or., has been obtained to instruct the corps and will be here Monday night for the first lesson. Joe Gallagher will assist in bugle instruction.

STILL TALKING

SAN DIEGO, May 4.—Senator Hiram Johnson spoke before a large audience at the Russ High School auditorium here tonight. Johnson outlined the fight he made in the United States Senate to force passage of the Swing-Johnson bill in the last hours of the Congressional session. Mayor Harry C. Clark presided at the meeting, while retiring Mayor John L. Bacon gave a short address on the Boulder dam situation.

Insurance Men Hold Meeting at Bakersfield

BAKERSFIELD, May 4.—American Legion Hall was crowded to overflowing this morning when delegates from all parts of California assembled to meet in the annual convention of the State Association of County Mutual Fire Insurance Companies.

The convention will be held until Friday noon, and the first meeting this morning was opened by Charles Erickson, State president, with officers of the Kern County Mutual Association acting as hosts of the convention. By noon today practically all delegates had arrived for the convention, and this afternoon the meeting was addressed by Congressman H. E. Barbour of the Seventh Congressional District.

Upon their arrival in Bakersfield delegates were met by W. C. Hannawalt, president of the Kern County Mutual Fire Insurance Company, and a reception committee that obtained hotel reservations for the visitors.

Judge Erwin W. Owen of the Kern County Superior Court, greeted the visitors following the invocation of Dr. Willis G. White.

Following the address of Congressman Barbour the delegates considered the ethics of permitting county mutuals to extend financial aid to each other. A paper on the subject was read by Oscar W. Wilde, secretary of the Ventura Mutual Fire Insurance Company, a report was heard also from Robert W. Smith, delegate to the National Convention of Mutual Fire Insurance Companies.

BOND ELECTION

Riverside To Ask Voters to Authorize 250,000 in Securities

RIVERSIDE, May 4.—A municipal bond election with four major propositions on the ballot will be conducted on June 21, it was decided by the City Council yesterday. Voters will decide whether to bond for $105,000 for a new Victoria-avenue bridge, $50,000 for completion of the municipal auditorium, $75,000 for extensions and equipment for the fire department, and $20,000 for a rubbish incinerator. The Council expects to issue 4 1-2 per cent bonds, taking advantage of a favorable market belayed now to exist.

Several offers for purchase of the proposed issue have been received, one offering to take the full $250,000 at 4 3-4 per cent with a premium of $1875 and another to purchase at par at 4 1-2 per cent. The Councilmen have refused all propositions thus far presented, expressing a desire to submit the bonds to competitive bids following election.

URGES EXTENSION OF PRIVILEGES TO YOUTH

PASADENA, May 4.—The average adolescent boy or girl of today is two years nearer maturity in actuality than were the boys and girls of the same age fifteen years ago, says Karl Smith, attendance officer of local schools.

Consequently he recommends that the present curfew law, providing that all children under 18 years of age must be off the streets after 8:30 at night, be amended to read 9:30. Moreover, he urges that the age limit be reduced from 18 to 16.

Apparently the much-discussed freedom of the younger generation has enabled its members to take care of themselves better than in the sheltered days of yore when the law was passed, for Smith says it is rank foolishness to say that a boy of 18 who stays out till 9:45 should be arrested.

WILD FLOWER GARDEN

BAKERSFIELD, May 4.—A California wild-flower experimental garden, devoted to fixing pure strains of several common specie and testing Kern county soils and climate for the growth of rare specie, is being planned for Kern county.

The proposed experimental garden is to be developed as a scientific hobby of E. Roy Weston, chief draftsman, and Allan Galloway, assistant geologist, in the Bakersfield geological offices of the Shell Company of California, and it will have the support of the California Academy of Sciences at San Francisco in classification in research.

CITRUS SHIPMENTS HEAVY

RIVERSIDE, May 4.—Citrus shipments for the past week were unusually heavy for the latter part of April, as the navels are about cleaned up and it is too early for heavy Valencia shipments. During the week 233 cars were started eastward bringing the season's shipments to 4886 cars. Last year's shipments to date were 3522 cars.

IT'S A CASE OF PAINTING LILIES

FULLERTON, May 4.—If the Orange-decorated bathing suit attains the popularity that its sponsors expect, then all of the artists in Southern California will be kept busy for the next few months painting oranges on variously hued and styled swimming costumes.

This new style is not a Paris model, but originated among the fair co-eds of the Fullerton High School and was designed to honor the Valencia Orange and the California Valencia Orange Show which is to be held at Anaheim May 10-28.

After a try-out at the Fullerton High School pilungs, the young women received so many congratulations that it is rumored that these new suits will be a feature of the several bathing parades held at Southern California beach resorts during the next few months.

It is safe to say that orange-decorated bathing suits will be a novelty at least and stand a good show of being awarded first prize.

ENDS LONG-STANDING IRRIGATION CASES

STRATFORD, May 4.—Nine cases which have been pending in the Superior Court of this county for the past five years, all relating to reclamation interests on the Big Tulare Lake Basin east of here, were settled by decisions of Judge Van Zante yesterday in which he rendered four judgments by consent of counsel and four dismissals of suits.

Parties in interest in the various suits were the Liberty Farms Mutual Water Company, the Liberty Farms Corporation, the Wilbur and other reclamation districts, W. H. Wilbur, William S. Clayton and W. H. Elliget.

At the monthly meeting of the directors of the Tulare Lake Land Water Storage District last night it was agreed that no more new construction work should be commenced until State Engineer Bailey acts upon the report recently submitted to him by the district.

LARGE ESTATE GOES TO FOUR CHILDREN

SAN BERNARDINO, May 4.—Bequeathing his entire estate of $94,000 to his four children, the will of the late Dr. H. W. Mills, San Bernardino surgeon, who died six weeks ago, was filed for probate in the Superior Court today.

The estate is comprised of real estate, stock in the Ramona Hospital and securities and cash listed at $12,000. The stock in the hospital is valued at $25,000 and property in the city at $50,000.

PLEASURE YACHT ON WAY T OALASKA

NEWPORT BEACH, May 4.—The 100-foot yacht Stranger, owned by F. E. Lewis, owner of the Diamond Bar ranch, in Bres Canyon, steamed out of Newport Harbor this afternoon bound for Alaska. The boat has been docked at the Newport Harbor Yacht Club during the past winter. Lewis will join the boat at Seattle, where it will stop for repairs.

The ranch owner will be gone most of the summer on a hunting and fishing cruise in Alaska. The Stranger is the first to leave Newport Harbor for summer vacation trips. Several other yachts now anchored in the harbor are scheduled to leave on cruises soon, it is reported.

PIONEER PASSES

ALHAMBRA, May 4.—Robert M. Wallace, one of the city's best-known pioneer citizens and civic leaders, passed away suddenly early today at his home, 1627 South Garfield avenue. He was 80 years of age. He was in good health yesterday and last night received callers at his home. He retired at 11 o'clock and about three hours later was dead, stricken by a heart attack.

Mr. Wallace served four years as a member of the Board of Trustees of Alhambra, from 1908 to 1912, and during the last two years was Mayor of the city. He continued active in civic affairs up until a few years ago. His son, R. Bruce Wallace, is City Clerk of Alhambra.

Debt-Paying Drive Now on at Van Nuys

VAN NUYS, May 4.—A new sort of drive is taking place here and in the vicinity and it seems to be doing well. "Pay Your Bills and Help the Community Get Ahead" is the slogan back of the serious campaign being made by the local credit association fostered by home merchants and others doing a credit or installment business.

One of the officials of the organizations today said that it is typical of some western communities to do business on a "manana" basis, when the circulating of more cash would tend to spruce up trade in general.

"For this reason," the official said, "we decided to check up on all manana accounts and start an intensive pay-your-bills drive.

"So far all delinquents appear to be kicking in pretty well."

IS CITY MANAGER

Engineer Takes On Big Job at Porterville

PORTERVILLE, May 4.—Fred W. Pease, who formerly acted as City Engineer of Porterville for a period of twelve years, under provisions of the new charter, will act as City Manager, Engineer and Purchasing Agent. The new form of government went into effect with the April election and Pease was named to the triple position at last night's session of the new board.

He succeeds James Stewart as Purchasing Agent and Engineer, no City Manager having been provided for under the old form of government. Stewart came to Porterville from Hanford last year, succeeding Pease as Engineer.

W. R. Means, who has held the office of City Clerk for the past three years as an elective position, will continue in that capacity, being named by the Council. Guy Knupp was re-appointed City Attorney. The police judge and Treasurer are expected to be named at the next meeting.

The City Manager will draw a salary of $350 per month, the Clerk $150 and the City Attorney $75.

TAKES BICHLORIDE WITH FATAL RESULT

SANTA ANA, May 4.—Mrs. George Ruth Wilkinson, 24, died today at the Santa Ana Valley Hospital from the effects of poison from twenty-three tablets of bichloride of mercury taken, physicians said, with suicidal intent. Mrs. Wilkinson swallowed the poison in the residence of her father, George A. Robinson, 907 West Highland avenue, an employee of the Chandler Furniture Company, after reading a letter from her husband, it was said.

Her husband, William H. Wilkinson, Jr., will arrive in Santa Ana tomorrow from Shreveport, La., where he is employed by the Illinois Central Railroad. An inquest over the body will be conducted tomorrow or Friday by Coroner Charles D. Brown.

Mrs. Wilkinson, who had been in Santa Ana but a few weeks was discovered shortly after taking the poison by V. L. Hotry, a grocer. Physicians administered antidotes and she was removed to the hospital, but the woman's condition was so serious that no hope was maintained for her recovery.

YEAR'S CITRUS SHIPMENTS

CLAREMONT, May 4.—Estimates for the Pomona Valley Valencia crop set the number of cars of Valencias to be shipped to market this month and until the season closes at 1928. The crop in most sections is heavier than last year. As nearly as can be ascertained, the various exchanges will ships as follows: O. K., 373 cars; La Verne, 325 cars; San Dimas, 455 cars; San Antonio, 625 cars, and La Verne Co-operative, 135 cars.

BETTER WATER SUPPLY

LA VERNE, May 4.—New and larger water mains have been assured for the property of the David and Margaret Home for Orphan Children, following action taken by the local City Council. Since the new building for the home was completed there has been no planting on the grounds, as the water supply has not been adequate. With the laying of the new water mains completed a tree, grass and shrub-planting program will be undertaken.

SHORT, BUSY SESSION

Federal Court at Fresno Disposes of Criminal Calendar and Adjourns Until May 11

FRESNO, May 4.—Pleading guilty to charges of violation of the Mann Act, in the transportation of Olive and Ruth Morrison from Luverne, Ala., to Kern county, Otto Hooks and Wesley Hawes were sentenced to serve sixty days each in the Kern County Jail by Judge Henning in the United States District Court here today.

The light sentences were imposed because the essential elements of violation of the Mann Act were lacking.

With the exception of one case, Judge Henning disposed of the criminal calendar of the spring session of the court today, and adjournment was taken until May 11.

J. F. Browning and Nabal Bocras received ninety-day jail terms when they pleaded guilty to liquor charges.

Chin Coon, arrested two weeks ago in Madera, was sentenced to two years in the Federal prison on narcotic charges to which he pleaded guilty.

MRS. BROWN RELEASED ON BOND

Defendant in Famous Kings County Murder Case Given Liberty

HANFORD, May 4.—Mrs. Jennie Laura Brown, convicted with two others of second-degree murder of her foster-son, Lee Camp, wealthy young rancher, was at noon today released on $20,000 bail with local men as sureties. Her third application was successful, bail having been refused twice, her physician yesterday testifying before Judge Vanzante that his opinion and that of other physicians was that Mrs. Brown had tuberculosis and cannot live long and that further incarceration in the small granite jail would only hasten the end. Stanton Brown, husband of Mrs. Brown, was a paralytic at the time of the asserted murder, and died recently holding to the last his belief of his wife's innocence.

It is expected that by tomorrow afternoon the grand jury will determine whether Mrs. Brown, J. H. Tipton, her uncle, and Fred Mills, ranch foreman on the Brown ranch, will be retried on the murder charge or be freed. They have also been confined in the jail here for more than two years, and Mills has also applied for release on bonds and been refused.

The case, one of the most sensational in the annals of the State, has been again the subject of great interest here the past week, during which time the grand jury has been taking testimony regarding the murder, the witnesses called and the probable solution of the fury.

Mrs. Brown has been in a more or less serious condition of health ever since her arrest. She was carried into the courtroom daily by one of her attorneys while her trial was in progress and on a cot when she applied to the court recently for bail. She was also in the County Hospital for a period, under guard.

Bonds were filed at 5 o'clock this afternoon, the sureties being J. Frank Pryor, one of her attorneys at the trial; Dr. C. Tresson, her physician; Dr. H. T. Hendricks, local dentist and R. E. Nunn, local rancher, all old residents here. They signed the bond for $5000 each and qualified for double the amount.

Mrs. Brown was taken in an ambulance to her ranch home, one of the finest in Kings county, from which she was taken two years ago, located a mile from this city. She is a very sick woman and the general opinion here is that she may not recover.

There were three witnesses before the grand jury in the Camp murder case today, one of them a witness who has not been in the case before, J. Clark Sellers, analyst and microscopist from Los Angeles.

OLD-TIME RESIDENT DIES AT BAKERSFIELD

BAKERSFIELD, May 4.—Thomas C. Miller, pioneer resident of Kern county and a prominent figure here in the early days, passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. G. B. Grant, 923 North Ardmore street, Hollywood, after a long illness. The deceased was 80 years of age. Interment will take place in the family plot in San Diego.

Mr. Miller came to Bakersfield in the late 70's, for many years was a trusted employee of the Kern County Land Company, then doing business under the name of Haggin & Carr. He was in charge of the dairying interests of that concern, and for the more than thirty years that he made his residence here he was widely known in business and social circles.

CANNERY AT RESEDA ENDS SPINACH PACK

RESEDA, May 4.—The new cannery at Reseda has just finished its spinach pack, about 73,000 cases being put up. Most of the raw product was imported from Orange county as only forty acres of spinach were grown in San Fernando Valley this spring season, according to C. M. Gammon, manager of the plant. Gammon states efforts will be made to grow a 1500-ton crop in this valley next year. The plant is now preparing for the apricot packing season, and about 1500 tons of this fruit will be put up. Some of it will be imported from other points. Approximately 4000 tons of peaches will be canned. A survey of the peach crop situation shows it to be the best in four years. Many orchards are coming into bearing for the first time.

TO CALL BOND ELECTION

ORANGE, May 4.—A resolution of intention of calling a bond election in the amount of $85,000 for the purpose of purchasing a site for a municipal park was passed by the Board of Trustees and the City Attorney ordered to draft an ordinance setting the date for the election. The ordinance will be passed for first reading at the next meeting.

THE RIGHT SIGNAL

William Morrison of Wheeling, W. Va., driving to Washington, D. C., at night, ran out of gasoline. Climbing from his machine he flagged with a flashlight the first machine approaching, a big truck. The truck slowed up but did not stop. As it passed him, something struck Morrison in the face. He found it to be a sealed envelope which contained a $100 bill.—[Washington Post.

Fear of Patton Leads Rancher to End His Life

SANTA ANA, May 4.—Beset with a frantic fear that he was losing his mind and his eyesight, and fearful that he would prove a burden on his family and friends, H. A. Terwilliger, 51 years of age, well-known former Santa Anan and a rancher of Holtville, took his own life by hanging himself from the top of a beet dump one mile north of Smeltzer, on a dirt road early today, according to Coroner Charles D. Brown.

The body was found by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Murdy of Smeltzer, who discovered it as they were driving from their home to Santa Ana. They notified Coroner Brown, who, with the aid of Sheriff's officers, removed the body to the Smith & Tuthill funeral parlors.

A note in an envelope, not addressed, set forth the reasons for the act, it is said. In part, it saids "This is not a cowardly trick in me. I do not want to have to be a burden on my family and be taken care of all my life. I am going blind as well as crazy, so why do I want to be in the way? I a mafraid of Patton."

Indictments Kept Secret in San Diego

SAN DIEGO, May 4.—Service of four bench warrants on secret indictments returned late yesterday by the county grand jury was expected late today by James Byers, Sheriff of San Diego county.

Of the four defendants named, at least two are out of this county and may not be arrested for several days, it is believed.

The defendants living in this county were to be arrested this afternoon and brought before Judge Spencer Marsh in Criminal Court for arraignment.

Although the grand jury has been investigating alleged immoral conditions at the high school, it is not believed that the indictments returned concern this inquiry.

The following subjects occupied the grand jury during the past month: High school morals, alleged fraudulent stock deals, asserted mismanagement on the part of former directors of the Tia Juana Irrigation District, alleged looting of the $40,000 George H. Zeigler estate, and delay in the prosecution of traffic fatalities. The indictments are believed to be based upon one or more of these inquiries.

ON MURDER CHARGES

Two Men to Appear in Court in Kern County

BAKERSFIELD, May 4.—W. C. Allen, indicted by the grand jury for the slaying of J. H. Cox at Taft, and Giuseppe Pavilla, indicted for the slaying of W. E. Fussell, will be arraigned in the Superior Court Saturday morning before Judge H. A. Pealre, who will read the charges against the defendants and continue the case for the hearing of their pleas.

Allen is said to have shot and killed Cox at Taft last month, shooting down the man with a revolver. Allen was in an automobile and Cox on the street. Allen and Mrs. Allen, who at one time was married to Cox, alleged that Cox wrote them a series of blackmail letters and threatened them.

Pavilla is alleged to have attacked and beat down Fussell with a hoe, causing Fussell's death. Pavilla and Allen surrendered themselves to peace officers.

CHRISTIE IN TIE-UP WITH PARAMOUNT

Exclusive Distribution of Famous Comedy Concern's Output Given Lasky

The Christie Film Company, pioneer motion-picture organization of Hollywood, has joined Paramount forces. Sidney R. Kent, general manager of Paramount, announced that negotiations have just been consumated whereby Paramount obtains the exclusive distribution of the entire Christie output, including both comedies and feature-length attractions.

AL CHRISTIE

The Christie company is one of the first film organizations of Hollywood. The production plant stood side by side with that of Jesse L. Lasky from 1912 until the Paramount company moved to its present location.

Thirty-six short feature comedies from the Christie studios are included in Paramount's program for the coming year. There will be also at least one Christie feature, "Tillie's Punctured Romance," in which a well-known star is to be featured.

Bobby Vernon, Billy Dooley and Jimmie Adams are to be starred in eight short features each. In addition, there will be twelve Christies featuring Neal Burns, Ann Cornwall and Jack Duffy.

Production at the Christie studios is to be expanded immediately, according to Mr. Kent. Work on the Paramount-Christie comedies is already started under four directors and units.

Banker Tells City Club of Check Safety

Pointing to the fact that the loss on bogus checks throughout the country last year exceeded $200,000,000, Herbert H. Smock, vice-president of the Security Trust and Savings Bank, in an address at the City Club yesterday said that in the matter of forgery, as in other crimes, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

"Since 96 per cent of the business of America is consummated through the medium of checks, it is time for those who write or receive checks to awaken to the need for more care in regard to signatures," said Mr. Smock. "Strangers not always are crooks but crooks usually are strangers. Never give a blank check to a stranger. Cash a stranger's check only upon indorsement of some one you know to be good—unless you are a mighty good judge of human nature."

Mr. Smock was introduced by Lee Duke, president of the student body of the Fremont High School, who presided at the luncheon in its observance of Boys' Week.

PETITION URGES VOTE ON BEVERLY ZONING

A petition signed by 3417 property owners was filed with the City Council yesterday asking that the ordinance proposed by the City Planning Commission, placing the bulk of the frontage on the new twelve-mile extension of Beverly Boulevard in a residential zone, be submitted on the June ballot. The proposed ordinance recommends that business be permitted at certain widely scattered points along the boulevard.

POLICE BAR OLDER WOMEN

Duties Too Strenuous for Age Says Chief Davis; Commission Lowers Eligibility Limit

On recommendation of Chief of Police Davis, the Police Commission yesterday reduced the age limits for women applying for police work. Only those between the ages of 23 and 35 years will hereafter be eligible for police duties. The former limit was between 25 and 40 years.

Getting on and off street cars repeatedly while following pickpockets and standing all day long in shops are too arduous for the older and heavier women, they have complained, the Chief stated. "What we need, particularly in that type of work, is young women between 23 and 35 years of age, who are agile and strong enough to follow the line of duty all day long," he said.

Police Officer W. J. Bost was fined thirty days' pay by the commission on the ground that he abused and struck Alfonso Lara while off duty April 24, last.

Complaints against Officers Sheffield and Randolph (colored,) who shot and killed Sam Faulkner during an asserted Central-avenue district gun battle April 24, last, were ordered dismissed by the commission on the recommendation of Chief Davis, who stated the men were justified because Faulkner wounded one of the officers. The Independent Church of Christ filed the charges and asked that the officers be dismissed and a complete investigation made of the circumstances.

Resolutions of condolence were adopted by the commission and sent to the widow of Capt. Walter Brinkop, prominent business man and a former member of the commission, who was killed in an automobile accident recently. The commission also ordered that a police escort be provided for the funeral Friday and that flowers be sent.

Suspect Taken for Asserted Smuggle Plot

Antone Parmagini was arrested yesterday by Deputy United States Marshal Mangerina on a warrant charging him with conspiracy to violate the customs laws by smuggling into the United States quantities of champagne and whisky on the rum-runner 220-A.

Parmagini was arraigned before United States Commissioner Head and released under $7500 bond. Warrants for the arrest of nine other men in connection with the case of the 220-A are in the hands of Marshal Sittel. Paul Rubio Payne, asserted confederate of Parmagini, surrendered himself last week and now is at liberty on bond of $5000.

Federal agents captured the 220-A near San Clemente Island early in February after a dory identified by them as having come from the rum-runner was found at Laguna Beach with several cases of liquor aboard.

The offer was referred to the Traffic and Street-Lighting Committee of the Council.

CLIMATE Headquarters

IN all America, the finest climate is found in a strip of sun-kissed land approximately ten miles wide bordering the ocean through San Diego County.

This is a matter of record—the result of observations by the U. S. Weather Bureau. A peculiar set of meteorological conditions combine to give this favored spot greater balminess, more freedom from storms, fewer extremes of heat and cold, less variation between day and night, more sunshine, less fog and more consistently desirable temperatures than any other region on the North American continent. Here California climate reaches its zenith.

Climate begets most of the things for which people come to California. It is the basis of all California's opulence in wealth, health and opportunity. As the surplus money of this fabulously rich nation continues to pour into California, isn't it going to demand the very best that California offers, and find it at Climate Headquarters?

You can buy land today at Rancho Santa Fe, in the very heart of the CLIMATE BELT, at $300 to $600 an acre. Astute business men from all over America have seen Opportunity in a project so lavishly enriched by Nature and so auspiciously sponsored, and three-fourths of Rancho Santa Fe has been sold.

A tremendous program is going forward in the development of a 15-square-mile community of country estates with citrus, avocado and deciduous orchards planted for income.

All needed urban facilities are present. Careful control is exercised in architecture, landscaping, and uses of land in order to insure stability and appreciation of values. Gorgeous natural beauty is enhanced by the building of Spanish homes and the revival of early California charm.

Climate—virgin beauty—income—opportunity for joyous living in your own permanent country home—investment—any one of these makes Rancho Santa Fe worthy of your immediate consideration.

Plan to visit the property this weekend. Splendid accommodations at the Guest House. Make reservation by wire or phone. In the meantime, mail Coupon for Rancho Santa Fe booklet.

"Raymond told me that Kelly came over and beat him up and that he never had a chance," Askom is quoted as saying.

Miss Mackaye was not at the house when he and his wife arrived, Askom declared, but came in just as they were about to leave. She admitted before the grand jury she was at Kelly's apartment both before and after the battle between her husband and Kelly.

KEYES IN CHARGE

From all appearances yesterday Dist.-Atty. Keyes will direct the prosecution of Kelly with the assistance of Deputies Murray and Kemp. Judge Burnell states that his calendar will permit the opening of the trial on Monday, unless some other case is continued over the week-end or unforseen technicalities arise.

All prosecution witnesses have been subpoenaed. These include, besides Miss Mackaye and Dr. Sullivan, the victim's mother, Mrs. A. R. Cedarbloom of Forest Hills, N. Y.; County Autopsy Surgeon Wagner, Helen Wilkinson, close friend of Miss Mackaye; Max Wagner, room-mate of Kelly; two nurses from the Queen of Angels Hospital, where Raymond died; Mr. and Mrs. Askom and Detectives Carman and Hsek of the Hollywood division, to whom Kelly is said to have made a statement admitting his encounter with Raymond; that the trouble was over his friendship with Miss Mackaye, and that he went over to Raymond's home on the night of the fight for the purpose of administering a beating to the actor.

The star prosecution witness will be Miss Ethel Lee, negro housekeeper for two years of the Raymonds, who was the only eye-witness of the battle in which she said Kelly was the aggressor and that Raymond pleaded with him not to hit him or start a fight because he was sick and in no condition to defend himself. At present Miss Lee is in the voluntary custody of Policewoman Robinson.

Mahoney Opens Second Fight on Prison Sentence

Paul P. Mahoney, building contractor who was convicted of manslaughter on charges arising from a street stand crash at the Pasadena Tournament of Roses January 1, 1926, yesterday petitioned the State Supreme Court for a reversa olf judgment.

The appeal was filed by his attorneys, LeCompte Davis and William B. Beirne, on the ground that Superior Judge Burnell committed errors prejudicial to the rights of the accused in his questions and statements before the jury and in the admission of evidence regarding the cries of the injured.

The Appellate Court has already ruled that errors were made during the trial, but held them to be insufficient to warrant a new trial. The manslaughter charged grew out of the death of Mrs. Bessie Borch, one of the 200 injured in the collapse of the stand.

JEWELERS HEAVILY FINED

Penalties Total $26,850 in Antitrust Law Case; Eighteen Karat Club Dissolution Ordered

Fines totaling $26,850 were assessed yesterday by United States District Judge James against eighteen jewelry concerns and individual members of the concerns when the defendants appeared for sentence on charges of conspiracy to violate the Sherman Antitrust Act. In addition to the fines imposed Judge James ordered dissolution of the "Eighteen Karat Club" and issued a permanent injunction against the defendants forming a new combination.

The defendant companies and members of the companies in appearing yesterday before Judge James decided to take the action of nolo contendere. By such action the defendants did not plead guilty to the charge but took the position of not contesting the charge, and placing themselves at the mercy of the court.

The defendants fined and the amount of the fine follows: Shreve, Treat & Eacret, San Francisco, $3000; Shreve & Co., San Francisco, $3000; Brock & Co., Los Angeles, $3000; Montgomery Brothers, Los Angeles, $2000; J. Charges against Chester Montgomery of Los Angeles and J. C. Higginbotham and R. L. Frick of San Francisco were ordered dismissed.

According to U. S. Dist.-Atty. McNabb the jewelry companies violated the Sherman Antitrust Act by forming the Eighteen Karat Club for the purpose of boycotting jewelry jobbing houses that sold to cutrate and upstairs jewelry firms.

STORY OF FIGHT TOLD BY SAILOR

Letter to Father Relates Fray With Chinese

Consulate Guard Has Battle With Assailants

Fire from Ships Drives Off Attackers Finally

The crackle of rifle fire from a handful of bluejackets guarding a little band of men, women and children at Nanking; the ever-increasing mob of Chinese soldiers milling around the house, a frantic signal for help to the United States and British ships in the harbor, the answer of a salvo from the navy gunners and the escape of the refugees under the protection of the navy guns—

THOMAS CARBRAY

It all sounds like a film thriller, but as a matter of fact it is the account of what happened at Nanking last March as related by an American sailor in a letter to his father, John N. Carbray, of 974 Hyperion avenue, Los Angeles.

The son is Thomas Carbray, engineer, first class, of the U.S.S. Noa. He has been in the Navy for twelve years and is pretty good with his fists as well as with rifle and bayonet. His letter, in part to his family, follows:

"Well, I didn't expect to write you anymore. I figured I would be cut to pieces, and I feel proud that I was selected as one of the consul guards. The suicide squad, they called it. Can you imagine us going nine miles in the interior of China to protect the American Consul place?

FIRED UPON FROM REAR

"We were stationed at the consulate and when the Northern army retreated they passed by the main gate of our place. They began to loot and kill. They chopped the heads off their victims. We kept them out of the American Consul place until we got orders to leave. They didn't open fire until we got out in the open."

According to the official report of Ensign Woodward Phelps, in charge of the consulate guard, when decision was made to evacuate the consulate and go to a safer house on Socony Hill, they had about one and one-quarter miles of open, hilly country to traverse. The officer hoped they would not meet an armed body of Chinese troops. They passed one armed soldier and the Consul, John Kerr Davis, spoke to him in Chinese, explaining who composed the party. "The soldier smiled and motioned for us to pass on," the ensign's report said, "but the last man in our column had hardly gotten fifty yards past him when this soldier deliberately took aim and fired at us. From that time on we were pursued and potted at by from three to four soldiers who kept to the rear of us."

HOUSE SURROUNDED

The party reached the house, one of the women with a child, had two suit cases carried by a coolie. The soldiers overtook and killed the coolie. There were more refugees at the house, so, in order to prevent arousing the soldiers, the Consul had the sailors hide their arms, and gathered the men all in one room of the house. He planned to talk them out of any desire to make trouble. Thomas's letter proceeds:

"The Chinese soldiers came to the back door and wanted $900. Well, they collected that and then they came back and wanted $900 the American Consul told us to grab our arms. The soldiers were on the first floor of the house and we were on the second. Well, all we wanted was the orders. And we chased them out with .45 automatic and rifle fire. Well, they then surrounded the house. Then hell began. We opened all the shutters and they began to drop.

"I looked at those little children in the room while we were firing from the window, me and my buddie, and I guess I went crazy mad. Then I couldn't kill enough. When everything looked bleakest, we sent up a skyrocket, the last resort to get the ship. The sweetest music I ever heard was the roar of the six-inch and four-inch shrapnel and TNT shells from the U.S.S. Noa and H.M.S. Emerald. It hit all around the house.

OVER THE WALL

"We sailors went wild with joy. We knew our shipmates were on the job. The refugees thought the Chinese guns were on us but, man, we knew our guns! And we told them that was our guns along with the British. We signaled them to keep up the fire, and we took the refugees out of the house and made the wall around the city. We had tied bedsheets together and over we went. We pulled the women and children up and let them down while some of the boys kept guard. There were 150 refugees. We were met by a landing party from the ships.

"The captain told us: 'Well, boys, you did not for an instant fail to uphold the highest ideals and traditions of the United States Navy. I am certainly glad you are under my command.' And the crew gave us three cheers."

In a report to his superiors on the matter Lieutenant-Commander R. C. Smith said: "It is the consensus of opinion among all refugees that only the opportune firing by the ships saved the lives of all foreigners in Nanking."

Thomas's father is a government meat inspector at a local packing plant. He has a sister, Nona Carbray, who takes care of her mother; an older sister is Mrs. Allan Miller of 565 Hoefner street, Eastmont.

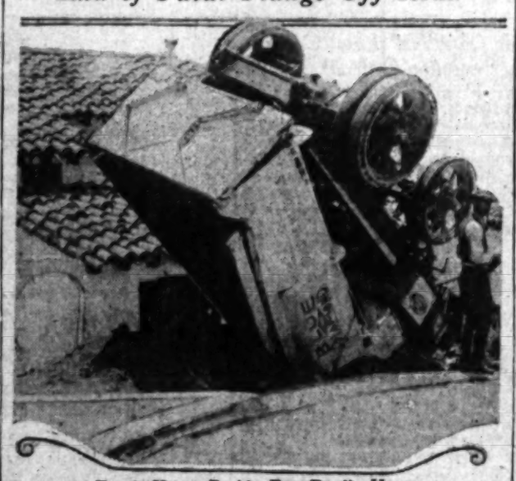
End of Fatal Plunge Off Road



Truck Upset Beside Ben Bard's Home

DRIVER DIES WHEN TRUCK OVERTURNS

Car Careens Down Steep Hollywood Avenue and Lands at Actor's Door

While attempting to negotiate a sharp curve on a steep hillside with his runaway truck, C. K. Rockie, 34 years of age, was killed instantly yesterday morning when the truck turned over and landed just outside the kitchen windows of the home of Ben Bard, motion-picture actor, at 1466 North Sweetzer avenue. Rockie jumped as the truck careened around the curve but could not clear the vehicle.

Rockie was employed by the Cantlay and Tanzola Service Company at 1120 North Highland avenue, which was trucking for the Decomposed Granite Company. His address was unknown by his employers or whether he was survived by a family.

Frank W. Vincent, general manager of the Orpheum Circuit, who lives directly across the street, said he has long considered the heavy hauling on the hill a danger and has made repeated but unsuccessful attempts to get some regulation of the situation from every department of the city administration. This is the third truck in eight weeks, he stated, that has come down the hill out of the driver's control. The hill has a 25 per cent grade and a twenty-foot roadway.

Capt. Slaughter of Hollywood has started an investigation into the causes of the accident and the situation surrounding it.

Ground to be Broken Today for Hospital

Pursuant to providing Los Angeles with the most modern hospital for children west of the Mississippi, ground-breaking ceremonies will be conducted at 10 a.m. today for the two new buildings to be constructed at the Children's Hospital, Sunset Boulevard and Vermont avenue. The public is invited to witness the ceremony.

Plans of the hospital society call for the erection of a new east wing of four stories, capable of housing 100 beds, about double the number now available, according to Florence R. Pennington, executive secretary. Upper floors of the building will be divided into wards with a large sun porch for medical and surgical cases. The isolation ward will be a complete unit in itself. This building will have 47,647 square feet of floor space.

The other structure will be a residence for nurses to take the place of the present building, which will be moved to the rear of the property on De Longpre avenue and converted into help's quarters. The new nurses' building will contain 106 bedrooms, each separate and fully equipped.

Plans for the buildings are being prepared by Lester H. Hibbard, according to Lee A. Phillips, chairman of the building committee. Dr. R. G. Brodrick has acted as hospital consultant.

The hospital is nonsectarian and is open to all children under 12 years of age. A total of 2563 patients were cared for in hospital beds last year, a record mark for the institution.

Motorist Held as Auto Kills Man in Street

D. I. Ownby, 57 years of age, was almost instantly killed yesterday when he was struck by an automobile driven by M. P. Bane, 127 South Locust street, Inglewood, at Thirty-second and Hill streets, police reported.

Bane, according to University police, was booked on suspicion of manslaughter. Ownby lived at Thirty-first and Hill streets.

TECHNICIAN AT STUDIO ENDS LIFE

Despondency Over Poor Health Believed Cause of Suicide by Friends

Despondency over ill health is believed by police to have prompted the suicide early last night of Norman Osann, technical director at the Cecil B. De Mille studio. Osann, an investigation by detectives disclosed, shot himself with a revolver loaned him but a few minutes before by a friend, ostensibly to be used by Osann on a proposed mountain trip.

According to the account given Detective Lieutenants Neece and Kearin by George Ballman, owner of the house at 745 North Harvard Boulevard, where Osann lived, he heard a shot in Osann's room, less than five minutes after Osann had been visited by Robert C. Monroe, 560 Lillian Way, a studio coworker. Osann was taken to the Receiving Hospital, but died en route.

Early yesterday afternoon, Monroe told detectives, Osann called the studio by telephone and asked Monroe to lend him a gun for use on a mountain trip. Shortly after 9 o'clock last night Monroe went to Osann's room and carried with him a tray of food. As he was departing he handed Osann the gun, Monroe told officers.

Friends of the dead man said last night that he had been in ill health for some time and apparently was brooding over his condition.

A note addressed to the house owner apologized for the act. A promissory note for $750, made payable to J. R. Ball also was found among Osann's effects. Ball is believed to be a brother-in-law of Osann. His relatives had not been located at a late hour last night.

The body was removed to the Coroner's mortuary.

Wife of Lumber Company's Head Called by Death

Mrs. Helen C. Ganahl, wife of Eugene F. Ganahl, president of the Ganahl Lumber Company, died unexpectedly at 6 p.m. yesterday at her home, 514 South Larchmont Boulevard. She was a native of Omaha, but had resided in this city nearly all her life.

Funeral arrangements, which are being handled by Cunningham & O'Connor, directors, have not yet been announced. Mrs. Ganahl leaves her husband, three children, Eugenia, Lawrence and Glenn, a sister, Mrs. Joseph Glenn, and a brother, Lawrence Weir, the latter two of which are from Omaha.

Harelip Clew to Slayer of Store Owner

Efforts of the police to apprehend the bandit who shot and killed T. T. Chalmers, proprietor of a candy store at 11121 Avalon Boulevard Monday night, have narrowed down to a search for a man with a harelip and badly cut mouth, Captain of Detectives Bean said yesterday. The clew was furnished by the slain man's grand-daughter.

An inquest into the slaying was conducted yesterday, resulting in a verdict that Chalmers was killed by a man of unknown identity while protecting his property.

The bateau neck line undoubtedly will return in summer fashions.

WHALER TELLS ANTARCTIC EPIC

Ship Returns from Shadows of South Pole With Cargo Worth Million After Three Months of Battling Ice and Killing Whales

An epic of the Antarctic was written over the ice-battered hull of the giant Norwegian whaler C. A. Larsen when she arrived from the South Polar regions, bringing in a $1,000,000 cargo, harvested from the ice-choked reaches of the Ross Sea in less than three months.

"No adventure, just hard work," was Capt. Lars Nielsen's view of the remarkable voyage he and his crew of 200 men had just completed. The men, sea-toughened and thin, with leathery skin drawn across hollow cheeks, looked little like the ruddy-cheeked, well-fed Scandinavians that sailed south last October.

In 100 days they bagged and reduced to oil, bone and by-products 850 blue and finback whales; producing 47,000 barrels of oil and enough added products to make the cargo she brought yesterday worth approximately $1,000,000.

The giant 20,000-ton whaling factory, largest whaler afloat, this season, was farther south than any other merchant vessel in history. Her base of operations was Cape Discovery, within fourteen degrees of the South Pole, and she operated as far down as 78 deg. south latitude, which is farther south than Amundsen's base during his successful polar expedition of 1911-12.

Officers of the C. A. Larsen recounted hair-raising experiences under the shadow of the South Pole; of bucking the Antarctic ice drift for nine days with the huge steamer before they got into the clear water of Ross Sea and of fighting whales with the temperature 70 deg. below zero. The two smaller factor ships and the ten "killer" boats of the Ross Sea Whaling Company, were left in the ice until next season at Stewart Island.

The 47,000-barrel cargo of the C. A. Larsen will be discharged at New York, for manufacture of soap and perfume products.

DEADLY HOUR IN TRAFFIC CITED

Heavy Toll Period Reported at Safety Conference

Tired Workers Declared to be Chief Victims

Plans to Remedy Situation Will be Considered

The tired business man or woman makes the easiest target for the reckless motorist, according to Deputy Chief W. L. Spellman, head of the police traffic department, who addressed a safety conference yesterday afternoon in the City Council chambers. The meeting was called by Councilman Frank L. Shaw to discuss the best method of reducing the number of automobile fatalities and injuries, and it was attended by representatives of virtually every safety organization in the city, as well as city officials.

Police records show, Spellman said, that more persons are killed or injured between 5 and 6 o'clock in the evening than at any other hour in the day and this he attributed to the fact that the victims are less alert and spry after a day's work than at any other time. He prescribed carefulness and courteousness as the best remedy for the evil, but did not explain how it was to be administered.

Deputy City Prosecutor Jack introduced a novel ticket system which he said has been found effective in Chicago, by which the offending motorist is enabled to pay a nominal fine for the first two offenses, without appearing in court. On the third offense, however, the violator must appear before a judge and his earlier infractions are used as evidence against him.

Among others who appeared was Dr. Laura M. Locke, vice-president of the Board of Public Utilities and member of the Los Angeles Safety Council, who advocated a Don't Drink—Don't Drive slogan. Short talks and suggestions were offered by E. B. Lefferts, manager of the public safety department of the Automobile Club of Southern California; Judge W. D. McConnell, Charles Freeman Johnson, secretary of the Los Angeles Safety Council; Peirson M. Hall, member of the City Council; Frank L. Shaw, chairman of the Council Traffic Committee, and William Peters, secretary of the Downtown Business Men's Association.

The next conference will be conducted at 2 p.m. on Thursday, June 2, next, at which time it is believed a definite plan will be worked out.

Composer's Body to be Sent East for Interment

The body of Ernest R. Ball, noted composer, who died in Santa Ana Tuesday night from a heart attack, will lie in state at the chapel of Ivy Overheltzer, 1716 South Flower street tomorrow, it was announced last night.

From there it will be sent to Beachhurst, White Stone Landing, Long Island, N. Y., for funeral services and burial. Arrangements for shipping the body east at once were postponed because of the number of Mr. Ball's friends in Los Angeles theatrical circles wishing to pay him a last tribute.

The widely known pianist and composer was stricken in Santa Ana, where he had gone to give a benefit performance for the Rotary Club. The attack occurred backstage of Yost's Broadway Theater, just before time for his entrance. Physicians were summoned, but he died before medical aid reached him.

Mr. Ball leaves his widow and four daughters. The body probably will be sent east tomorrow night or Saturday, it was learned. He was 52 years of age.

Nazimova Sued by Contractor on New Hotel

Alla Nazimova, motion-picture actress, was named defendant yesterday in a suit filed in Superior Court asking for a lien of $9918.11 against the Garden of Alla hotel property at 8152 Sunset Boulevard. The suit was filed by Gordon-Harrison-Russell, Inc., plastering contractors, who assisted in transforming the actress' former home into a hotel.

Paul Walker, Ridenhour Brothers and Campbell Brothers also were named defendants in the action which was filed by John F. Poole, attorney for the plaintiffs.

In the complaint the contractors charge that Mmes. Nazimova and the other defendants failed to file a contract with the County Recorder as required by law setting forth the details of the agreement.

The amount sought in the lien, it is asserted, is due for materials used in construction of additions and alterations to the Garden of Alla Hotel at a cost of $10,090.81. Of this amount $1092.70 has been paid and the remainder still is due, according to the complaint.

Bishop Lawrence Explains Why He Resigned Title

BOSTON, May 4. (AP)—The Massachusetts diocesan convention of the Episcopal Church today heard Bishop Lawrence explain that his resignation of the title of bishop of the Massachusetts diocese, announced last week, was due to a lifelong belief that "old men should give way and resign office in order that young men may have full opportunity and authority." Bishop Lawrence, who is 76 years of age, was elected to the office on May 4, 1893.

Rt. Rev. Charles L. Slattery, who as bishop coadjutor has had full jurisdiction over the diocese for the last two years, said that the rapid increase of divorce threatens the best life of the nation, and that "the surest way to lessen the evils of divorce is to take all due precautions to see that the original marriage promises success before it is solemnized."

For the small boy a sweater is fashioned after a lumber jacket.

ANCIENT THEORY UPSET BY TESTS

The age-old theory that some people can hear better amid great noise and can hear little if anything under normal conditions has finally been definitely exploded as a result of experiments just completed at the University of California at Los Angeles.

A paper covering experiments in the study of this phenomenon for the past three years has been published by Dr. Vern O. Knudsen of the physics department of the University of California here, in collaboration with Dr. Isaac H. Jones, who worked with him in the study.

The paper points out that it has been a common observation that some people appear to hear better in the reseence of a great din than under normally-quiet conditions. This phenomenon, normally known as paracusis, has been a subject for controversy for some 150 years. Researches into the subject disclosed a number of odd facts. For instance, it was discovered that many years ago a woman suffering from what is now known as paracusis hired a drummer to escort her about and to create a terrific din when she engaged in conversation with a friend or acquaintance.

Dr. Knudsen and Dr. Jones, collaborating, determined to settle the controversy by actual experiment. Their researches resulted in a number of interesting discoveries. It was found that the positive conviction of the patient himself had been the chief reason for the acceptance of the theory that his case represented a phenomenon. Likewise it was discovered that the paracusis actually does not hear better amid great noise but hears worse. However, amid great noise, the person with whom he is conversing naturally is forced to talk at the top of his voice. Consequently, the person with defective hearing is able to hear more, though he attributes this to the noise and not to the fact that his conversational partner is talking in a near-shout.

Also, it was found, the paracusis, being defective in his hearing, is but little disturbed by the outside noise and he continues to talk in a normal tone, which merely adds to his self-delusion.

AVIATOR GOES UP IN AIR TO GET MARRIED

REDWOOD CITY, May 4. (AP)—D. A. Templeman was "up in the air" today before, during and after his marriage to Dorothy Lee Weston. They were married in an airplane 1500 feet above the city. First he forgot the ring, then the license. Eventually all of the essentials were gathered together and Rev. Aubrey Clark united them. Templeman, a commercial aviator and his bride are from San Francisco.

PASSIVE VICTIM SHOT BY BANDIT

Passer-by Sees Grocer Slain Without Cause

Thugs Believed Pair Who Killed Confectioner

While his hands were raised at the command of two armed bandits who entered his grocery at 10018 South Main street last night, Richard Negley, the aged proprietor, was shot and killed by one of the pair.

The murder was witnessed by a pedestrian who wishes to keep his identity a secret for fear that the murderers will visit their vengeance on him. He told the police that as he looked through the store window he saw Negley with his hands upraised. One of the bandits who was covering the grocer with his gun suddenly opened fire on the defenseless man. As his body crumpled to the floor, the bandits ran out to their car, which had been parked in front with the motor running.

C. S. Littleton, a former constable of Azusa, was sitting in his car nearby with his wife, when he saw the men flee from the store after the shots. He immediately gave chase but the bandits' automobile sped up and was lost in traffic. He described the bandit car as a large coach, but was unable to get the license number.

Following the shooting, several squads from the Central Station were hurried to the scene. Police last night were unable to determine whether or not the bandits had made away with any loot. Mr. Negley was known to usually have several hundred dollars in his safe.

The grocer was hurried to the Receiving Hospital, but was pronounced dead on arrival. One of the bandit's bullets had passed through his chest over the heart.

The killers were described as young and well dressed and both about 5 feet 8 inches tall. One of them, the one who did the shooting, wore a dark suit and cap to match. The other wore a light suit and light cap. According to the police they answer the description of the gunmen who killed T. T. Chalmers, confectioner, two days ago.

Heirs Intimate Flood Will Suit Witness Wedded

REDWOOD CITY, May 4. (Exclusive)—Intimations that Mrs. Eudora Helen Willette, key witness in the fight for the multimillion estate of the late James L. Flood, actually was married to a man named Stearn at the time Mrs. Constance May Gavin of Los Angeles was born, were made today when the taking of Mrs. Willette's deposition was resumed here. Despite the insistence of Attorney Garrett McEnerny, questioning, Mrs. Willette refused to answer questions on the subject and the relevancy of them probably will be threshed out in court later.

Mrs. Willette has declared she is the mother and Flood the father of Mrs. Gavin, who is seeking a share of the estate as Flood's daughter. Mrs. Gavin's claim is refuted by Flood's heirs of record. Mrs. Willette also has testified, previously, that she took the name of Stearn at the time Mrs. Gavin was born "in a spiritual marriage" to give the child a name. The trend of Attorney McEnerny's questions today gave every evidence of an effort on the part of the Flood heirs of record to prove that Mrs. Willette actually was Mrs. Stearn through a legal marriage.

COOLIDGE LAUDS AIR TRADE

Commercial Aviation Great Defense Bulwark, Says President Approving State Aero Conference

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4. (Exclusive)—President Coolidge considers development of commercial aviation one of most important measures for national defense. In an air-mail letter received by R. E. Fisher, chairman of the aeronautical committee of the California Development Association, under whose auspices a State-wide aeronautical conference will be held here May 6, the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce co-operating, President Coolidge states a national policy on aviation and compliments California for holding the conference. The letter from President Coolidge reads as follows:

"I am glad to send by air mail my greetings and best wishes to the second State aeronautic conference under the auspices of the California Development Association. By establishing and maintaining air mail services the government has had in mind not only facilitating business communications but the encouragement of commercial aviation in general. I hope that the fullest advantage will be taken of these facilities so we may be warranted in extending them.

"This country, where the airplane first became a successful reality, should be second to none in the development of aviation. My appointment of the Aircraft Board in 1925 and approval of its recommendations, which have been adopted substantially, were an evidence of my great interest in the science. We do not wish to maintain a big military establishment. But the existence of a large number of aircraft engaged in the peaceful pursuits of commerce will assure the instant use of one of the most important weapons of modern defense in case we should be called upon to repel an enemy invasion.

"I hope and confidently expect that we shall make rapid strides in aviation and aeronautics. Conferences like yours are of very great benefit to that end."

Wires are coming into the California Development Association from all parts of the State, giving assurance that the second annual commercial aviation conference combined with a State-wide tour of airplanes will be the outstanding aeronautical event of the year. The following telegrams are typical:

"Have obtained three Curtis Hawks, making total of fourteen planes from San Diego with thirty-five passengers and pilots. Planning to arrive Bakersfield Thursday in time to lunch with Bise of Department of Commerce. Would like to have detailed map San Francisco airport with flight orders of distribution to pilots. (Signed) Roy Campbell, Jr., San Diego Chamber of Commerce."

"Two planes, two pilots and five passengers from Long Beach with four reserve squadron planes from Clover Field and six National Guard planes, a minimum of ten privately owned planes will arrive San Francisco municipal airport evening of May 5. (Signed) Dr. T. C. Young, chairman Southern California Aeronautical Committee of the California Development Association."

A similar fleet, carrying business men of Los Angeles, will join the San Diego planes as they fly over the great metropolis of Southern California. As the fleet heads northward up the San Joaquin Valley then over to the coast for landing at the new municipal airport of San Francisco at San Bruno on the peninsula, many local planes from Bakersfield, Fresno and other cities en route will join them.

On Saturday morning, the 7th inst., following the State-wide aeronautical conference and dedication of the new fleet under the auspices of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, the fleet augmented by regular army of reserve planes from Crissey Field, to a fleet of fifty ships and carrying business men of San Francisco, Stockton, Sacramento and Fresno, will leave for an educational tour of the State, flying first to Sacramento where they will stop for lunch, then to Stockton and Fresno, remaining over night at that city. The following morning, Sunday, the 8th inst., the fleet will continue on to Bakersfield. At this point the northern planes will return to home ports and ships from San Diego and Los Angeles will continue on to their respective cities.

Lack of energy and nervousness are caused in many cases by wrong eating. A new purely vegetable health food called VEGEX, by its ability, whets the appetite, strengthens the nerves and builds

Chas. G. Dawes, Vice Pres. of the United States, uses VEGEX and serves it at Directors' meetings of his large Chicago bank.

Why We Must Have Vitamins

Raw foods contain ample vitamins but cooking, refining, milling and other modern methods of preparing foods remove great quantities of these vitamins. This leaves most of us deficient in vitamins.

If we are slightly deficient we lack glowing vigor and abundant energy or we may be nervous or we may not have a natural energy appetite. If our appetite is poor we frequently lack Vitamin B and suffer from indigestion, constipation, rickets, poor teeth, pellagra, beriberi, poor eyesight, etc.

Vegetables, as appetizing for and many other elements result. Lack of vitamins hinders growth and weakens vitality in children.

Young and Healthy at 90

Dr. McCarrison, the great army surgeon, found people in the Himalayas still young and healthy at 90 because they ate natural whole foods. The deficiency of vitamin in our cooked and processed foods makes our bodies susceptible to disease and often causes nervousness or a decrease in vitality.

Now, so simply and so easily we can enjoy the health and vigor originally enjoyed from raw foods by adding a bit of the concentrated vitamin health food VEGEX to our daily foods such as sauces, vegetables, gravies, sandwiches, soups, etc., or by using it as a bracing and delightful drink. There is just one right way to keep the skin clear and

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system. This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. It helps nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished.

"I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and I had lost so much weight, I didn't look natural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breaking-out that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S.S.S., which I did. The result was wonderful. Now I feel well, and I am fine. S.S.S. cleaned the impure blood out of my system, and cured me of boils. I also found that it cleans up the skin and makes it strong and clear." J. W. Barbee, 1202 Wilmot street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

S.S.S. is made from roots and herbs of medicinal herbs and should be prepared in a scientific way by skilled chemists in the laboratory. It is a real blood purifier.

Salesmen, Solicitors —10-B

A FEW salesmen will be given an opportunity to become associated with a financial institution, bearing the name of one of the best known business men in California. For men who look to the future and who take a pride in their business connection this "ad" is addressed. When we say that co-operation will be given to you we realize the full meaning of that word. This is not a sink or swim selling proposition. You will be given five weeks while leads and work under the direction of sales manager who has built up two large similar organizations, and who has developed a number of men into $10,000 and $15,000 positions.

If you are honest and sincere and have the urge and desire to work for success, you are the type of man we are looking for. There is no better place in the country to live in than California and there is no better firm than this to work for. The positions that we offer are permanent and the business is new, although backed by an old established firm. This means that many executive positions will be created and these naturally will be filled by men from the sales force. Write us fully and fully stating your age, length of residence here, your past business connections, etc. Our sales manager will read your letters and give each writer an interview. Address R. box 215, Times Office.
